STRANGE MANIA OF SHOPLIFTERS

"Impulsive impulse makes women steal"—Prof. Hugo Munsterberg.
 "Women steal because they have a duller moral perception than men."—Prof. E. B. Holt, Department of Philosophy, Harvard College.
 With these varying explanations, experts in Harvard's psychological department throw light upon the motives actuating the many women offenders who have appeared in Boston courts the past week on charges of shoplifting.

Two serious offenders have been sentenced to jail during the week, and other minor cases have come before the judges in such numbers that Judge Murray found it necessary to check the epidemic by announcing that jail sentences would be dealt out to all who came before him on charges of stealing during the Christmas season. Lillian D. Atwell, a handsomely dressed woman of 50, who was sentenced to six months in the House of Correction for a mailing, pleaded guilty for the explanation of motives pronounced by the Harvard professors. She had pleaded guilty and shown every willingness to expiate her offense. "I am a mailer," said she, "I could not explain what made me steal."

This failure to account for the motive leading to theft by women who are usually of the middle class, by Prof. Munsterberg and due to the "intrinsic impulse," which, he says, is spontaneously developed in women. This impulse, he adds, results in a lack of moral responsibility, and thus weakened, the women, detained in a shoplifting are overcome when they see the display of pretty things at Christmas time and fail to resist the temptation to take them. In this case their sisters making purchases for holiday gifts.

Prof. Holt, on the other hand, gives woman credit for less moral strength than man, and says that her weakness in yielding to the lure of the Christmas display is because of her weaker moral perception."

Just how George Raab and his wife of No. 778 Greenwich street, Chicago, are going to while away the long winter evenings is a knotty family problem. They are both on probation. George can't throw things at Annie and Annie can't throw things at George. They can't do anything but mutter.

In the old days, when they were first married, they could throw things and may right out loud, so the neighbors could hear, just what they thought of each other. But Magistrate Kernochan sort of half broke up the home happiness three months ago when he put the husband on probation. But that didn't interfere with Ammie at all. She could just bang George on the head with a rolling pin or a dish pan and then remind him quickly that he was on probation and mustn't hit back, so all he could do was to dodge and mutter.

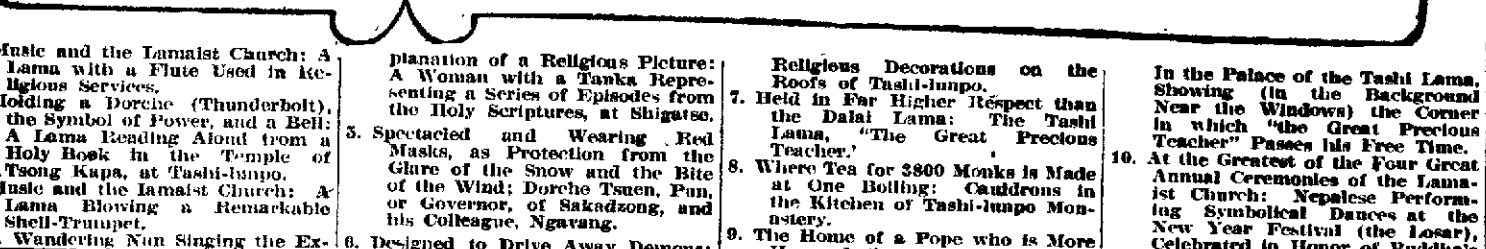

But yesterday Annie was negligent. She forgot to take the eggs out of the frying pan before hitting George with it, and they lost their breakfast just as it had been fried to a nice brown on both sides. With no warm, nourishing breakfast to keep him by the home fire-side, George wandered to court and told Magistrate Kernehan, who immediately sent for the wife and completed the tie-up of the family festivities.

THINKS CASTRO LUCKY.

"Zelaya is lucky compared with the average ruler who is attacked by revolutionists. Resigning is much pleasanter than being shot up. It imposes on him, at worst, the punishment of exile. It is substantially the course which Castro has taken, for the good of Venezuela. It has seemed to work well in his case. Let us hope it will work as well in Nicaragua."

Simple Life the Best She Says and Has Many Words of Advice for Young Women of Country

Imagine Anna Held in a rocking chair darned stockings. That is a pleasure which the fair Little French woman says she likes far better than pretending to be demure in front of the footlights.

In private life Miss Held is Mrs. Florence Ziegfeld, Jr. Her husband is the producer of many of her plays. The family residence in New York is located in a suite of rooms at the Ansonia Hotel, and there, when the stage isn't making urgent calls, you may have no difficulty in finding the Little actress about any time you chance to call.

The Ziegfelds are very social. Mrs. Ziegfeld is authority for the statement that she herself takes a particular delight in having a hand in the making of the little dinners given in her rooms. Nor is Anna Held ashamed to admit that she learned the art of cookery from her mother, who, in other days, used to manage a small restaurant over in Paris.

Also, Anna Held is willing to admit that, like other French women, she was instructed at an early age in the finest of things. Indeed, she confesses to having a pretty thorough knowledge of domestic affairs. "But," she points out, "I would not be much of a French woman if I didn't know these things." For every French woman is brought up to know her household from A to Z."

[illegible]

Anne Field thinks nothing now of leaving thousands and thousands of francs at the coatmakers, skirtmakers, habill-makers, and at all the other makers who make a meal from her carriage. One of her recent purchases is said to have cost the pretty panny of $25,000, or, in the coin of her native country, about 140,000 francs. That's a sum which would make some of her relatives gasp; nevertheless, it's about what the charming Anne paid. She wanted a dress that could bear a few diamonds. The new century styles offered her the opportunity. So, over there in Paris this summer, she indulged himself to her heart's content. In this instance Mme. Landorff was the fortunate maker. Could Madame make a dress of this material? That Madame could do for the madame. But that was not all. The drapery around, the knecst, and then around this drapery a garland of roses with little green leaves? Of a certainty Mme. Landorff could make anything which Mme. Held could suggest.

Then came a few suggestions from the madame. The dress of the princess to be woven around the bottom of the wonderful drapery diamonds. That was very good, indeed. For, as Mme. Landorff explained, diamonds was such a rare and costly material, nobody else in Paris would be likely to insist on it. Still, thought Mme. Landorff, so around the bottom of the dress went this exquisite pink, white and black coloring.

And where should the diamonds go? However, answered Anna Held, they would be placed. And she might have added, not only as the diamonds would hold out, but as long as there was room left on the dress. There was not for a Juno.

And precisely 2,000 little diamonds were placed here and there on the wonderful of princely and a cluster of brilliant; about the bodies more light from the stones— all in all, Miss after Miss of them, crying more and more with every sensation, until at last Miss. Ziegfeld had a dress which not only displayed her beauty marvellously, but required M. Ziegfeld to draw on his bankers for the modest sum of $30,000.

While Anna Held was in the happy mood she laid in a new supply of hats. If there is anything in this world which the piquant woman of the dancing mantle and smart clothes can do especially fond of it is a gorgeous hat. How many madish creations for the head she possesses she doesn't know herself, and her maid professes equal ignorance. The fact is, Anna Held buys so many that she forgets her English trying to count them.

Anyhow, she brought over from Paris to this fall six several trunks containing only hats. Her husband has not yet figured out the customs tax which he was obliged to pay. With evidence that was a minor incident which concerned her not at all.

Her appearance on Fifth Avenue up to date this season has made more than one veteran connoisseur of fine apparel nod up with amusement. If there is a single man who can show New York's smart society who can show finer dresses or hats she is still at New York.

Mrs. Ziegfeld herself is authority for the following statement: "I rise at 8 a. m. I used to think that that hour earlier than I now get up. But you see I have grown quite acrobatic. Moreover my husband has to get to the office promptly. He must be there while the forenoon is young. Besides, I like to have breakfast with him. Then, again, I sometimes cook the breakfast myself.

"At breakfast I have my singing. If I didn't sing every day who would listen to me? So I sing at the piano for an hour. That makes my work on the stage much easier. There are many letters which somebody must answer. And everybody seems to write to me. All sorts of letters from all sorts of people and all sorts of places.

"About six or seven out of ten are requests for advice—either how to look beautiful or how to act. How can I tell them? But I try. The writers, I suppose, are in a good faith. I invariably advise them to look for glory on the stage to stay at home. They must do something, to keep away from the stage. Poor things! Probably 99 per cent of them would be failures there. They are just begging letters by the hundreds. Every day papers summed up my earnings I have been assigned with requests for more." It makes no difference, of course, whether I ever

Says His Wife Insisted on Calling Him a 'Shrimp'

NEW YORK.—Acting as his own counsel in the suit for separation against Edna M. Levin, an attorney, No. 320 Broadway, was a central figure in Judge Whitman's department of the supreme court. His cross-examination of his wife and other witnesses was marked by such earnestness that Mrs. Levin while on the stand seemed on the verge of hysterics.

Mrs. Levin accuses her husband of cruelty. He specifically charges that he struck her with a chair, cursed her and called her names.

Mr. Levin made a general denial of his wife's charges. He said she called him "Cur" and "Shrimp" and that on one occasion he was forced to call in the police to have his mother-in-law removed from his house.

His cross-examination of the wife of Mr. Levin took offense at her loud tone in answering his questions, and remarked, "Don't yell at me here as you did at home." He asked her many questions about her dress and her frequent rides. Mrs. Levin's voice frequently broke, as she answered her husband's

Mrs. Richard Le Gallienne is a milliner having an establishment on the south side of Paris overlooking the Luxembourg Gardens. She is French and all but a few of her American friends, including Patricia, Mrs. Le Gallienne, are known as Mmes. Fedora and it is in this name that she pays her taxes and rental.

There is nothing in sight in her apartment to suggest to the casual caller her relationship to the English born poet who two occasions for this poetic battle. The two writers were close friends years ago, who had almost heard of no disagreement between them.

The Le Galliennes lived together in New York for ten months before the separation. They went there from England. In New York Mrs. Gallienne formed the conviction that the Americans were the most beautiful creature in the world. Also, she learned to hate American newspapers. Her abhorrence of the press was so great that she had to leave the city.

Mme. Fedora has done well as a milliner and she hopes to move nearer the center of feminine Paris, on the other side of the river, before long. It is conceivable that had she entered the literary field, instead of a trade, she would have attracted quite as much favorable attention. She is, like her husband, though in the old days, like her husband, in the habit of submitting compositions to him and he often reviewed, corrected his lines at her suggestion.

Mme. Fedora talks in epigram and always interestingly and freely—when her husband's controversies are not the subject of conversation.

"Why is Paris the arbiter of fashions for the whole world?" she was asked.

"Because Paris creates," she replied.

"It can create because it has almost no money," she said.

The great difference between New York and Paris is this: Americans create and imitate money; Frenchmen because they have no money, they create and imitate money.

"Visit any establishment in Paris—the big as well as the little—and you will see that everybody from the director, down to the humblest servant is always busy. When the work is done, the joy of the enjoyment of working creations are certain to come frequently. The heart and the mind are in the tasks."

"In Paris the pace is rapid, too, and so appealingly fast. We inaugurate a fashion today and will reject it for another tomorrow."

In New York or London. If you study the differences in the hotels and tea rooms where the most important people gather, you may even see the change within an interval of two weeks.

All this means high pressure for us who are here, but the very evidence of the pace is stimulating and keeps us alive. Our effervescence helped make Paris the capital of the world of feminine fashion."

has lived in the United States several years. But in a conspicuous place on her bookshelves are several volumes of his works, one a remarkable edition containing his poems in his own penmanship.

And from Mme. Fedora herself the visitor can learn little of her life with the author of "The Quest of the Golden Girl," if she suspects that the information will find its way into the newspapers. She left him and brought their daughter, who is now 10 years old, to

She continues to take a lively interest in her husband's career and asserts that neither he nor she will ever seek a divorce. She corresponds with him at regular intervals, and she has even agreed to receive a copy when he writes a poem or a story. But she says she does not expect to see him again. She has been away from her husband for nearly three years.

SOME OF HER VIEWS.

Possibly poets are not always good financial managers, or perhaps the artistic temperament is sometimes so strongly inclined to hope that the money will come in for the domestic graces. What, however, the reason for this separation, Mrs. La Gallienne, or Mme. Fedora, as she is sometimes called now, insists that it would be highly improper for her to discuss his affairs.

She said this the other day when she looked regarding the reported coming of a literary storm to her and William Watson, the English poet, who, with his bride, had just gone to the United States "to face the storm which would use them as cannon against the enemy," to use his own words.

Mme. Fedora pleaded ignorance of the

A reporter called at the Le Gallienne apartment one JAN. requesting interviews with the poet and his wife. He wanted each to tell how he or she came to fall in love with the other. Mrs. Le Gallienne did not even see the caller, and her husband refused to grant his request. But the newspaper published three columns about them, imaginary interviews and a glowing description of the dresses and jewels Mrs. Le Gallienne was supposed to possess. Everything was "faked."

HER START AS A MILLINER.

When Mme. Fedora—to return to the name she has adopted—came to Paris, she took the position as correspondent for a Danish newspaper. She had done newspaper work before her marriage and was a native of Denmark. She later spent six months working with the apprentices in a millinery shop, where "the wooden chairs were hard and the day long." One day a French woman who had often seen her in the establishment, asked her to join her in starting a business. She should join, "But I have no money," protested Mme. Fedora.

"But you have knowledge of hat trimming," said the other woman. "You are well known in the millinery of England and can speak the English language. At this time will be of advantage to us. I shall provide the necessary funds."

"It occurred to me at once," said Mme. Fedora in recounting the incident, "that if I met a woman who had knowledge of such value to her they should be worth even more to me alone. So I determined to go into business, but without a cent."

"About that time Fedora was

(By POLLY PRY.)

THE return of La Titcomb to the haunts of her girlhood has been of more than theoric interest. Some years ago, when stage triumphs, grand dukes, cascades of diamonds, and like incident stuff, which later years held, were only parts of day dreams, this generously proportioned songstress of the equine stunt dwelt among us and held a blue-ribbon record as a heart-masher. Those were the days before her figure hinted embouchure. At that time her proportion and contour would have quickened the heart of any old Venus sculptor. It certainly played havoc with some of our leading young bucks of the day.

One, in particular, now staidly married and family raising, was dreadfully smitten, and another blade threw his swagger family into a perfect conniption fit by vowing his intention of marrying her. But the paterfamilias, with rare paternal acumen, sought an interview with the pretty siren and showed her how much more profitable it would be to relinquish his gay young blade's affection than to retain it. Likewise the clever papa quite convinced the Titcomb of the vast superiority of other localities to ours.

STORY ON THE QUEEN.

Just because all the world loves a lover, I plead an apology for again laying bare a story on Virginia Bogue or, as record now has her, Mrs. Carlo Baron.

San Francisco's swiftness took a contemptuous view of the reigning beauty's marital choice and made no bones of titillating at what, from the society viewpoint, was an obvious mesalliance. An impecunious nobleman was gilded enough, but one who had soiled his hands with labor! Oh, deary me, such a breach of society's polite codes! Of course, they said all sorts of pecky feminine things about her only chance, etc., etc., ad lib. Ergo, my tale is two-edged, for, besides confiding to my fond public a pretty romance, it quite takes the wind out of the sails of San Francisco's glowing femininity.

During the Portola festivities, when the ships of nations rode at anchor in the bay, aboard the Italian cruiser Calabria was a Lieutenant Corrabina, daring and debonair. He had previously met the Junoesque beauty abroad, and traded off his shore duty for months that he might come Portolaward with his brother officers to be near his goddess of worship. And there wasn't a man of that ship's crew who wasn't with his cause, heart and soul.

After the Portola celebration the Calabria was ordered to the Orient, and it was there quite recently that the enamored officer first received tidings of Miss Bogue's marriage. Word has it that he is woefully cut up.

THE SHELDON DIVORCE.

The A. N. Sheldon divorce has pedagogical and social circles astir all the way from Berkeley to Santa Cruz. Mr. Sheldon has been a figure in the educational work of the State ever since his graduation from the University of California, some time back in the nineties. Mrs. Sheldon comes from Santa Cruz's first family, the Grovers, and during her young belledom was considered the most beautiful girl for miles around. Large as Hebe, and of gypsy duskiness, she was a conspicuous figure at all gatherings to which she took her lovely self. She was possessed of a rarely beautiful voice and a marked dramatic instinct, and no amateur plunge into theatrics was considered complete or successful without her. The little town by the sea expected wonders of her, either by fame or matrimony.

Its amazement and chagrin knew no bounds when it was learned that she had surrendered her heart to Mr. Sheldon, her mathematics teacher in the High School. All manner of persuasion was used to beguile her from her infatuation. Considerably older than she, with no appealing physical attributes and suffering a deformity of the hands, it was difficult to fathom his charm for the handsome young girl. But in spite of all opposition she married him, and until his recent departure to fill a chair in one of the universities of China the shipwreck of their conjugal bark was known to but a very, very few. But it has since developed that the lute de mill had scarcely waned when the bird of peace departed for parts unknown and managed to stay away these intervening years. Mrs. Sheldon's friends claim that the pedagogy was quite as much a devotee of cards and poker chips as of Euclid, and that it was Mrs. Sheldon's objection to these diversions that started the family rumormongers. But so well did she conceal her grief and disappointment that her large army of admiring friends didn't have an inkling of the rupture until Mr. Sheldon's departure for the country by the Eastern seas made it necessary for her marital woes to find termination in the prescribed course.

MRS. BALDWIN'S VISIT.

Mrs. Frank Baldwin, who is here from her island home on a visit to her parents, the E. H. Kittredges, is being heartily welcomed by her girlhood and society friends. As Harriet Kittredge, Mrs. Baldwin was one of the prettiest of our social daughters, and in spite of the swifter of the Honolulu climate, I am informed, has retained much of the bloom for which her young girlhood was famous.

While her belledom was still young, the radiant Harriet married Arthur Baldwin, son of one of the islands' wealthiest families and so we have seen very little of the erstwhile belle. Mr. Baldwin, too, is well known to these parts, having received his education here and at Harvard.

I told you last week that the social butters-in would be sure to stub their reckless toes on the Kirmess stamping ground. And e'er the week had turned the corner, it came to pass.

No sooner had the Kirmess enterprise taken shape and the committee names, with their excellent social aroma, been published, than my contemporaries of the daily press got into action. Reporters hurried, scurried, and burrowed in their indefatigable way for the novel details of the affair. One of the artists of the camera was on the ground early intent on getting a group picture of some of the ultras among the organizers. Approaching a busy bevy of the Class A variety he urbanely begged for the privilege of photographing some half dozen of them. Delighted! He indicated a certain spot that was propitious for photographing.

The ladies with charming complaisance wended their way thitherward only to find that they had been beaten to a standstill by a certain conspicuous boulder, who, happening to be within earshot when the reportorial request was made saw her chance to make a social ten-strike. She arranged herself in what she supposed would be the center of the ne plus ultra group. But the other ladies held aloof. The camera man, busy with his plates and unmindful of any hitch, urged them to take their places. One look at the ambitious one, who was posing gloriously, settled them. They made a precipitous and ungraceful retreat.

The little climber was left lonely as a cloud. The photographer, sensing the predicament, mumbled a few un-intelligent words, closed his camera and returned to his paper's office minus the much-coveted photograph.

AMONG SOCIETY FOLK

VIATION, with all the "herediments" thereto appertaining, is in the air (thus is not meant to be a pun). A small contingent of society went south this week to witness the aeroplane contest in Los Angeles, and the feminine interest gravitated to the proper costume for an "aviatrix."

Before the exhibition closes several women passengers will be taken aloft, and the question of suitable clothes has arisen.

No smarter automobile togs may be found anywhere than those possessed by a score of Oakland's fair motorists, but the city of the present is ever for something new.

Madame Paulhan, the bride of the French "bird man," with whom the novelty of aeroplaning has worn off, was the cynosure of the eyes of those who were curious to know what is proper to wear in an airship.

"A small bonnet to confine the hair, a tight-fitting coat and a divided skirt which hangs like a skirt when on terra firma, and is buttoned about the ankles when I am ready to begin a flight," is the way Madame Paulhan described her costume, adding with French naïveté: "It is not an unattractive costume."

But it will be made more attractive if women to "fly." That is a foregone conclusion. For has not the automobile costume been made attractive, metamorphosed from the dreariest sort of a chrysalis?

Depend upon the ingenuity and taste of Madame Paulhan, who is a flying outfit that will be suitable, yet make her just as entrancing as when she is garbed in golf togs, motor outfit, jockey or even riding costumes.

Mr. and Mrs. William Havens returned from the big aviation meet last night and are enthusiastic about the future of navigation of the air.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Havens returned Tuesday and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Havens Thursday.

A number of business men also went down, drawn by the magnetism of the carnival where men risk their lives to prove that Tennyson did not idly dream when he prophesied that he "saw the heavens filled with commerce."

And then the Kirmess! Rehearsals every night, with four halls engaged to accommodate the belles and beaux who will tread the boards in the name of sweet charity, are filling the last weeks before Lent with work as well as play.

The wheels are rolling smoothly and the great machinery of the big festival has been set to work with an executive committee which is unanimously conceded to be the best of the kind in the city. A cotillion of the highest order of music assemble alternate Sunday afternoons to enjoy the excellent programs given by the quartet.

entertain at the Amann home in Twenty-third street, February 1. The young hostesses were formerly residents of Alameda having come to Oakland to make their home but a few seasons since.

Their guests the first day of next month will include a group of Alameda matrons and matrons as well as a large number from this city.

CARD PARTY. Mr. and Mrs. William Hamilton Morrison will entertain informally the members of one of the card clubs at their home in Eighth street, next Friday evening.

Among the members of the club are: Mr. and Mrs. Charles Parker Hubbard, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Youngberg, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Smith, Mr. and Mrs. George Rodolph and Mr. and Mrs. George Hainner.

RETURNS TO PORTLAND. Mrs. Edward Hall Dodge, who has been visiting for a fortnight at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Layman, left today for her home in Portland.

Mrs. Dodge entertained the members of one of the card clubs this week at her parents' home, in East Oakland.

VISITING RELATIVES. Mrs. Roy McCabe (nee Miss Edith Gaskill), one of the well liked girls of the smart set, has been spending several days with relatives and friends here, having come down from her home near Byron Springs for a brief visit.

WHIST AND MUSICAL. Mr. and Mrs. Viers gave a pretty appointed luncheon, followed by a musical at their home in Fitchburg Friday evening.

Whist was also one of the evening's diversions. Ten guests were entertained in the hospitable Viers home.

FORTNIGHTLY MUSICAL. Mrs. James do Prey has thrown open her home in Adelphi street for the fortnightly madones concerts which are being given by the Minetti quartet.

A cotillion of the highest order of music assemble alternate Sunday afternoons to enjoy the excellent programs given by the quartet.

The second in the series will be a week from today.

ENGAGEMENT NEWS. The engagement of Miss Lena Schneider and Edward M. Rider, was announced Friday evening at a dinner given by Mrs. C. J. Hammond, a sister of the bride-elect, at the Hammond home in Pacific avenue, Alameda.

Miss Schneider is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Schneider of 2018 Clinton avenue, a well known merchant of the Emclinal City.

Rider is established in business in Oakland.

The wedding will take place this fall.

moon trip to Hawaii and are guests of Mrs. Gallagher's parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Garrigue, at their home in Prince street, Berkeley.

They expect to remain but a few days before going to Chicago, which is to be their home.

Mrs. Gallagher entertained a score or so of friends very informally Friday afternoon, summoning them by telephone that she might greet them again before leaving for the east.

The wedding of Miss Eleanor Lillian Garrigue and the young Chicago business man was solemnized at the bride's home in the middle of December at one of the prettiest holiday ceremonies.

BERKELEY SATURDAY NIGHT. The Berkeley Saturday Night Club will give one of its characteristically enjoyable dancing parties in Town and Gown Hall, in Dwight way, Berkeley, the evening of January 22.

The membership of the club includes about fifty of the younger set who organized this winter and have already given several of the series planned for the season.

The list of patronesses for the club is as follows:

Mrs. William Boericke, Mrs. Frederick Slater, Mrs. Henry Martinez, Mrs. A. M. Sutter, Mrs. Oliver P. Evans, Mrs. E. J. Wickson and Mrs. Edward E. Goodrich.

TO BE FRIDAY HOSTESS. Mrs. William A. Schrock will be hostess next Friday afternoon at a meeting of one of the card clubs to be held at her home in East Oakland.

LEAVING FOR EAST. Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Ormsby will leave the latter part of this week for an extended eastern trip.

They expect to spend several weeks in New York, later going to Washington for a visit of a month or so.

FOR KANSAS VISITOR. Miss Wilma Webb, a charming visitor from Wichita, Kansas, who has been the house guest of her aunt, Mrs. E. L. Ormsby in Piedmont, will be the complimentary guest at an affair which Miss Hazel Shay is planning for next Wednesday afternoon at her home in Fairmont avenue.

Miss Shay has asked the guests to bring their sewing bags.

POPULAR BRIDE-ELECT. Miss Ila Sonntag will preside at a luncheon at the Palace Hotel, San Francisco, February 1, in honor of Miss Jean Tyson, who will become the bride of Harry Weithe this spring.

Miss Tyson has been one of the most popular brides-elect of the season, having been fêted by friends all about the bay.

Her wedding will follow the completion of the beautiful new home which is being built for her in Alameda.

tailed a dozen friends of Mrs. Watt at an informal afternoon of bridge.

CLOSING DANCE. The Friday Night Club, one of the most popular of the dancing clubs, will give its last dance of the season Friday evening of this week, and it is expected that the closing dance will equal in brilliancy the preceding ones, which were among the bright particular events of the season.

A series of informal dinners will precede the dance. The patronesses have planned elaborate decorations for Maple Hall, which will be the scene of the affair.

PICTURES IN POLLY PRY. Miss Mary Waddell is the charming daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Waddell of 161 Hanover street. Her engagement, announced last week, is followed by the announcement that her wedding to William T. Young, the young Stanford man, will be solemnized February 24 at a pretty home wedding.

Miss Waddell attended the University of California and is one of the most charming of the girls of the younger set. A number of compliments are being planned for her before her wedding.

Miss Hilma Buttlar is a leader in the musical set here. She has been selected to champion the children who "sing" to take part in the Kirmess, and will also assist in drilling them.

IS DANCE HOSTESS. Miss Olga Jensen entertained a coterie of young people recently at a dance given at her home, 126 Little street. The ball room was beautifully decorated in lavender and pink, while the other rooms were decorated in greens and holly.

Robert Madison and Gregory Heron gave a very interesting entertainment, after which supper was served.

Miss Jensen's guests were: Misses Rosella George, Dulcie Lange, Emil Bigney, Irene Bigley, Esther Mostrom, Mina Hazelbacher, Etta Hansen, Minnie Mosbacher, Edna Siegfried, Jennie Mayhew, Ruby Berdahl, Clara Hazelbacher, Mabel Smith, Mrs. A. Jensen, Messrs. Robt. Madison, Gregory Heron, Richard Ball, Oscar Sellers, Al Arnot, Clarence Jensen, Eugene Vallado, Jim Marston, E. Dellam, Arthur Peterson, Louis Hazelbacher.

PRETTY CHURCH WEDDING. The wedding of Miss Jane McKeary and Frank McGilchay was solemnized last Wednesday evening in St. Anthony's church, Rev. Father Doyle officiating. The bride was crowned in white silk, with long veil, embroidered in bride's roses, enveloping her figure. A shower of bride's roses completed the charming costume. She was attended by Miss Charles, a cousin, as maid of honor, and by Miss Mary A. Charles and Miss Helen McKeary as bridesmaids. All were gowned in white. Baby Viola Weaver was the ring bearer. The wedding march was rendered by Miss Gertrude McKeary. The church was elaborately decorated in pink and white.

The church ceremony was followed by a reception at supper at the home of Mrs. William Charles, of Thirteenth avenue, an aunt of the bride.

Mr. and Mrs. McGilchay are guests at the Hotel St. Mark for several days, prior to their departure for Southern California, where the groom has large cattle interests.

IN BOSTON STUDIO. Miss Anna Miller Wood, the well known singer, who spends her summer here, and whose former home was in San Francisco, is again in Boston, after a delightful visit to New York as the guest of the Frederic and Lady McMillan.

Miss Wood sang at a musical recently in New York, which was given complimentary to Mrs. Lila Lehman, the English composer, who is touring this country.

STITCH CLUB MEETS. Mrs. Emory Elliott was a hostess of Wednesday at her home in Hamilton street, Alameda, at an informal meeting of a small sewing club, the members of which include Mrs. Charles Page, Mrs. Ralph Kirkham-Rish, Mrs. McKee Sherrard, Mrs. Fritz Van Sicken, Mrs. William Penn Humphrey, Miss Laurita Mardock, Miss Marian Hill and Miss Annette Hall.

PLANS ELABORATE TEA. Mrs. George S. Newton has issued invitations for a tea to be given at her home in Thirty-second street the afternoon of January 24.

The tea, which will be one of the elaborate functions of the week, is planned as a compliment to Mrs. Harry Newton, who was Miss Mae Brinkhalter before her marriage in December.

TO BE WEDNESDAY HOSTESS. Mrs. Arthur Breed will be a hostess of next Wednesday at noon, when her guests will be the eighteen members who comprise the personnel of one of the Wednesday bridge clubs. A luncheon will precede the session at bridge.

Among the members of the club are: Mrs. George M. Shaw, Mrs. F. T. McHenry, Mrs. J. R. Seapham, Mrs. George W. Klopp, Mrs. A. H. Dabney, Mrs. E. B. Yorker and Mrs. Gordon Stolp.

SANDERS-ROSETER WEDDING. A pretty wedding of the week was that of Miss Myrtle Rosetter and E. E. Sanders, which was solemnized at the home of the bride's father, J. S. Rosetter, principal of the Fremont School, in Twenty-seventh avenue, Fruitvale. The Rev. Frank S. Brush, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Alameda, officiated.

The groom is a rising engineer with interests in Mexico, and it is there he will take his bride to reside.

Mrs. Sanders was formerly a teacher at

MATCH-MAKING AGAIN IS THE PRESIDENT

According to the Gossip Because He Has Asked Duke Abruzzi Here

COULD HE CALL ON THE ELKINS FAMILY IS ASKED

Miss Ruth Wellman, Daughter of Arctic Explorer, Is Being Well Entertained

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—Pardon me, but is Mr. William Howard Taft playing the matchmaker again? Ever since he united his tremendous diplomacy and energy to link the hearts of Nicholas Longworth and Alice Roosevelt there have been whisperings that our jolly executive can always take time to assist suppl when the little ditty gets stumped by a particularly difficult case.

A fortnight ago I learned that Mr.
Taft desired to extend through Ambassador Lushman at Rome a special invitation to the Duke of the Abruzzi to come to Washington and deliver a scientific lecture privately before a chosen few. Of course the Duke would be entertained here by the Baron de Planches, by President Taft, by Secretary Knox and many others. In fact, his stay would mark the social epoch of the season.

But would there be another result from the visit of the intrepid young Italian explorer? Would he, could he find time to call at the residence of the Stevens Elkinses, where Miss Katherine Elkins reigns supreme in beauty and riches unimpeded by marital ruinous and free to sow her affection where'er she will?

I cannot help but believe that Mr. Taft would play first aid to unwitting cupid in this case albeit he may do it unwittingly.

AS TO ARMY LIFE.

I have been tempted to wonder how the beautiful and slightly Miss Christine Roosevelt, niece of the former President, will like army life, especially army life on the Staked Plains of Texas.

As Mrs. James E. Shelley, she is now an army officer's wife. Lieutenant Shelley is connected with the Eleventh Cavalry, which is kept moving about Fort Sam Houston. Mr. and Mrs.
Shelley have already joined the company.

ENTERTAINMENT EXPLORER.

Quite a number of affairs are being given in honor of Miss Ruth Wellman, daughter of Walter Wellman, the Arctic explorer. Miss Wellman joined her parents after a year spent in California, where she lived with relatives.
Mrs. Wellman came to Washington in December from Europe, where she joined her husband.

BACK TO SCHOOL.

With Miss Helen Taft at school her presence is sorely missed in the younger circle. But while Miss Taft is out of society and while she could remain at home, she so desired it is her own will that her school debut be postponed for at least a year yet.

RECENT VISITORS.

Some recent visitors in Washington were: Mr. and Mrs. Clarence H. Pratt, of Knoxville, Tenn., visiting Mr. and Mrs. George W. Pratt; Mrs. Mollie Eubank Goppel and Miss Elizabeth Eubank, of Texas, visiting Representative and Mrs.
Jack Beall; Mrs. Henry Cahalan, of Atlanta, Ga., visiting her sister, Mrs. M. S.
White; Mrs. Thomas D. Merrill, of Durham, N.C., visiting her sister, Mrs. J. C.
Gray, of Minneapolis; visiting Mrs. Chas.
J. Curtis; Miss Mildred Hewitt, of Saint Point, Ky., visiting Mrs. William H. Stand-ford.

EXPECTED BACK.

Mrs. M. Mulholland and her daughter, Miss Margaret, who have been visiting relatives in Mississippi, are expected home next week.

HOLIDAY VISIT.

Miss Jeanette Davis, of Shreveport, La., who is attending school in this city, spent the holidays with Mrs. Fieard.

DIPLOMATIC BREAKFAST.

For at least a diplomatic breakfast there has been a diplomatic breakfast in the home of Secretary of State but that part of the social regime has been changed. Those breakfasts in the past amounted to receptions and were held just after the White House reception. They were rites of a high order. I might say.
When the late Mr. John Hay and Mr.
Ethiout held the office of Secretary of State their wives received the foreign delegations with assistants. Now there is a grouping of Cabinet members' wives and the diplomatic breakfast has been relegated to the adding place of some of the Roosevelt policies.

DEWEYS ENTERTAIN.

Senator Chauncey Dewey, of New York, who used to hold the palm as the preeminent speaker, has relinquished that honor and while he occasionally speaks a few words now, his utterances are not marked by the flow of wit and sparkle therefrom. Mr. and Mrs. Dewey are entertaining in a quiet way, but the Senator is gradually withdrawing from society as well as after-dinner speaking.

UNANIMOUS VOTE.

Mrs. William F. Dennis, who was recently elected president of the Southern Relief society, received the unanimous vote of the trustees of that organization and therefore has entered upon the duties of her position with an unusual personal distinction.

Mrs. Dennis is a Kentuckian, a very handsome woman, of great charm of manner and executive ability, which will be of immense advantage in the work which will be required of her. Mr. and Mrs. Dennis will divide the winter between here and New York, where the former's business demands much of his time at present.

The date of the Southern Relief ball is fixed for January 21st, and will be held at the New Willard. Already a representative gathering of persons from official and resident society and others coming from all parts of the country, have signified their intention of being present.

OH!S GOING AWAY.

Mrs. Josiah Kinney and daughter, Miss Joan Ohl, will leave next week for China. Mr. Ohl is the Chinese representative on an American newspaper in Pekin, but was formerly a Washington correspondent. While Mr. Ohl's native town is Zanesville, O., he lived for many years in Atlanta. He has been in China for upwards of a year.

DINNER A BIG AFFAIR.

retary of State Taft was a very

Secretary and Mrs. MacVeagh was really one of the big affairs of the season, outside of the functions at the White House. President and Mrs. Taft were present and among the guests was Mrs. Potter Palmer of Chicago, who came here from New York to attend.

MRS. SCOTT AT HOME.

Mrs. Matthew T. Scott, president general N. S. D. A. R., will be at home to all daughters of the district and visiting daughters on Monday, January 31st, from 4 to 7 o'clock, at the Arlington Hotel.

JONES RECEPTION.

Within a few days Captain Harold Wellington Jones will be at home to all daughters of the district and visiting
daughters on Monday, January 31st, from 4 to 7 o'clock, at the Arlington Hotel.

ENTERTAINMENTS CEASE.

Secretary and Mrs. Knox will take no further part in the social activities of the order. The Secretary and Mrs. Knox have recalled all their invitations, including those for the special entertainment of President and Mrs. Taft.

I saw Mrs. Nick Longworth upon the streets the other day, looking particularly fetching. She came from Cincinnati to be the guest of her son-in-law, having been in the city for some time. Mrs.

Longworth has a charming circle of friends here. She will be much entertained during her stay.

The Baker apartments in the Shoreland seem the center of activities for the Coast set. Visitors and residents of the West in Washington gravitate eventually to the Shoreland, where all are welcome and charmingly received. Among some of the visitors whom I met there quite recently were Mrs. Humphrey, of Spokane; Mrs. L. C. Gilman, formerly of St. Paul;
but now of Seattle; Mrs. George Turner of Spokane; Mrs. W. H. H. Green, of Seattle, and Miss Gilman.

Mrs. Taft has set at rest the gossip which has been going on in Washington to the effect that she is to take no part in the social program this season. Everybody says that she is to attend dinners and prominent women in society in Washington has been named for the place by the purveyors of gossip. Mrs. Taft not only appeared at the New Year's reception at the White House, but remained for the great part of it, and it was plain that even if she does not attend dinners and other social entertainments she is the social dictator, whether from the head of the dining table in the White House, or from a cozy corner of her boudoir. She is really not ill now.

C. C. Anderson at the home of the former

The hostesses were assisted in receiving by Mrs. H. D. Chalmers and Miss Wallace. Mrs. C. K. Brown poured tea.

LAUFERS ENTERTAIN.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick W. Laufer entertained the members of the Calumet Card Club Friday evening at an informal session of bridge.

MINNESOTA GUESTS.

Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Jenson of St. Paul are the guests for a month or so of Mr. and Mrs. Otis Johnson at their home on Linden street. A number of social commitments are being planned for the hostess visitors by the friends of their host and hostess.

VALLEJO VISITOR

IS SECOND BEST

William Caruthers Tangles Up
With Police and Loses Decision

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 15.—A disturbance in the dance hall block on Pacific street, at 2 o'clock this morning, sent police officers and Clark in a rush to the scene and caused the latter to attempt the arrest of William Caruthers, a well-known and wealthy saloon keeper of Vallejo. Caruthers, however, was considerable of an athlete, struck out at Clark, who immediately placed himself upon the defensive.

The first blow closed the policeman's right eye while the second drew blood from his lip. When he got into action, Clark was suffering from a lacerated right eye, a laceration of the face, and a wound of the chest. He was conveyed to the Harbor hospital for repairs, and then placed in the city prison for battery and disturbing the peace.

DENTIST'S FALSE TEETH

BITE WOMAN INTRUDER

NEW YORK, Jan. 15.—Dr. Alfredo Espinosa, who says he is from San Francisco, with temporary quarters at 255
West Twenty-first street, called Annie Gavagan into court today on a charge of stealing gold fillings and gold teeth worth $40.

"The gold that I use I keep in a padding arrangement, a set of false teeth with a steel spring attachment. About 11 o'clock I was awakened by a loud noise and I jumped out of bed to see a woman running screaming from my jamas, and chased her a block. When she fell I sprang upon her. The police can tell you the rest."

The woman claimed she had occupied the room before the dentist took it and in a fit of absent-mindedness entered and in the dark got her fingers caught in the spring jaw when she reached for a match.

MARRIED IN SAN RAFAEL.

The wedding of Miss Edna Osborne of this city and Roy Haefner of Alameda was one of the surprises of last Monday.
The young couple took no one into their confidence, but went to San Rafael and were married, returning the next day when parental blessings were bestowed upon them.

Mrs. Haefner is the daughter of Mr.
and Mrs. G. Osborne, and the bridegroom is in business in San Francisco.

RECEPTION AND TEA.

ART BILL

Measure Provides for Bureau Connected With the Treasury Department

NAMES AN ADVISORY COUNCIL OF THIRTY

Would Save Money and Improve Buildings, Declares
Nevada Senator

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—Senator Newlands is now busily engaged in the library of his Washington home planning a campaign which he hopes will result in the establishment of a bureau of fine arts and public buildings. Newlands has been introducing his fine arts bill for some time, but it never has received the sanction of Congress. Now he is more hopeful.

According to the provisions of his measure, the proposed bureau will include the office of the supervising architect of the Treasury, and will be a part of the Treasury Department. The bureau would have more authority than the present to the architect's office. A council of the arts, composed of thirty prominent architects, sculptors, painters and landscape artists, would be formed to advise the bureau. The bill also authorizes the President to appoint the members of the council.

Senator Newlands' bill is designed to place the public buildings under one official bureau. The bill would give the bureau authority to plan, design and construct all public buildings, including the capitol
and bridges.

BLOW TO POLITICS.

Senator Newlands, in explaining the purpose of his measure yesterday, stated that the measure would move the expenditure of much of the public money from politics. He con-

"The Federal government now maintains six separate architectural offices, a total cost of about $1,300,000 a year.
These are connected with the quartermaster general's office for the buildings, the office of the Indian bureau for Indian schools, the Capitol for changes and repairs there, and the Treasury for all the rest."

Senator Newlands' bill is designed to place the public buildings under one official bureau. The bill would give the bureau
authority to plan, design and construct
all public buildings, including the capitol
and bridges.

"The annual cost of the supervising architect of the Treasury is 6 per cent of expenditures for building purposes, an average of $1,000,000 a year. This year, for instance, the building appropriation totaled $17,000,000, so that the office receives $1,020,000, or 6 per cent of the other offices together is from $150,000 to $170,000 a year."

"In my bill, all these offices are proposed to be consolidated, with a considerable saving in expenses. In addition there would be without question, increased efficiency.
Each department would have full legislative representation, with the advantages of the government, and the talent of the government would be improved in the execution of our architectural work, a matter of great importance, too, which we are coming to see very clearly, is not only a question of good business, but a question of national pride and national shame to future generations."

Cowboy Dinners, Bobbed Excursions and Snow Shoe Fetes; Mrs. Leeds Spends Half Million on Her Newport Home

By MARGARET WATTS DE PEYSTER

NEW YORK, January 15.—The fashionable winter colony at Tuxedo Park, which refuses to be separated from New York by migration to Palm Beach and Hot Springs, have established three unique new-style parties. The first is the cowboy dinner, inaugurated by young Samuel Frothingham, and the second is the bob-sled party initiated by young Samuel Frothingham, and the third is the snowshoe fete put into vogue among the Berkshire hills by Miss Constance Folsom.

It is to the cowboy dinner which I wish to direct your attention, kind reader, for it was the most cunning thing on record. Imagine a line of fifteen young millionaires attired in boots, spurs, silken bandana handkerchiefs and sombreros. One youth who was particularly unacquainted with the ways of the West wore a revolver.
Naughty boy. He should be chided severely for that anachronism.

Society generally is interested in the approaching nuptials of Miss Marie Louise Logan, granddaughter of Mrs. John A.
Logan, to Monsieur Henri de Sincay, of Brussels, Belgium.

GRANDDAUGHTER OF
ARRIVALS AT THE

Among the arrivals at Miami, Fla., are Mrs. Johnson N. Camden, of Parkersburg, W. Va.; Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Helm, of Kansas City, and Miss Cornelia Burton, of Lexington, Ky. Mrs. Camden's yacht,
the Barracouta, and the Helm yacht, the Dragon, were both put in commission in Miami bay this week.

YOUNG BELMONT PLANS
NEW NEWPORT VILLA.

August Belmont, Jr., who was recently taken into his father's banking firm in this city, celebrated the event by giving orders to have plans drawn for a new half million-dollar villa at Newport.

YOUNG FOXHALL KEENE IS TO PLAY POLO.

I understand that Mr. Foxhall Keene, who recently sailed on the Lusitania, is going to do some polo playing in England before his return home. Mr. Keene is incidentally a member of some old and aristocratic British clubs, the Hur-ingham and Ranelagh polo clubs.

MRS. LEEDS SPENDS FORTUNE ON HOME.

Mrs. William B. Leeds has just had nearly a half million dollars worth of improvements made on her new estate at Ochre Point, Newport. Mrs. Leeds purchased the place from Frederick Vanderbilt and it is safe to say that she will spend next season upon it if she remains in this country. Since her success at the English court it has been predicted freely that Mrs. Leeds will return annually to London for the season.

OLBRICH-THOMAS
NUPTIALS JANUARY 26.

The wedding of Miss Blanche Olbrich and Len Thomas will take place at the Olbrich residence on the 26th. A part social journal published in this city had the audacity to intimate that the erection of several large tanks on the roof of a residence near Park avenue and Eighty-first street had some bearing on the wedding. Drown the thought!

It was given out that the marriage would be private, but then there are enough Olbrich-Jay-Havemeyer-Martin relatives, not to mention Thomases and even Turnbills, to quite fill the house. I trust that if Mrs. Turnbill, the mother of Mrs. Charles de Losses Olbrich, is invited she may be prepared beforehand for Mrs. Turnbill has never been permitted to visit Newport, and her first glimpse of the brilliant world in which her beautiful and once very demure daughter now moves, might be a surprise to this lovely unsophisticated Morristown grandchild.

Blanche Olbrich is so absolutely unlike other members of her distinguished family that her many friends feel sure she will have the most beneficial influence over her somewhat flighty lord. It is a most fortunate marriage in one way, for Len Thomas has stacks of money with which to embellish Miss Olbrich's only downer—her good looks. She has an enormously wealthy aunt in Mrs. Theodore Havemeyer.

MRS. AND MRS. DAVIE TO DIVIDE THEIR SEASONS.

I have been given to understand that Mr. and Mrs. Preston Davie will spend about as much time in New York as they will in Louisville. At the time of their marriage, which took place at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E.
T. Bedford, in Brooklyn, I attempted to ascertain where the honeymoon would be spent and how long it would be before a permanent household would be established. Mr. Bedford was first approached.

"My ignorance on that subject is appalling," said he.
Then I tried Mrs. Davie, of Louisville, who was stopping at the Holland House.
"Really, I have been trying to find out myself," said she with a smile.
Bedford I asked back to my typewriter.
Oh, yes, I might say, that I was leaving in a motor car.

National Civic Federation to Take Part in Deliberations of Governors

UNIFORM LAWS TO BE ONE OF THE TOPICS

Life Insurance, Conservation of National Resources and Other Subjects

RAILWAY QUESTIONS AN IMPORTANT ISSUE ALSO

Every Phase of Civic Life Will Be Represented at the Conference on Jan. 11

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—At a recent meeting of a committee representing the governors of the various States and the executive committee of the National Civic Federation final arrangements were completed for the conference of governors to be held here January 11, 12 and 13 and the meeting of the National Civic Federation on January 14, 15 and 16.

Both organizations will co-operate for the purpose of thoroughly discussing the question of uniform State legislation and the result of the meetings will be of far-reaching importance.

This question has been under discussion for some time and the variety of interests which will be represented at the federal meeting is believed to enable the organization to adopt some definite lines along which to work.

There are many propositions which the committee on arrangements believes need only a clear, explanatory statement to gain general assent.

NUMBER OF BILLS.

In the first place, there are a number of bills which the national association of Uniform State Law Commissioners, a body formed some eighteen years ago on the initiative of the American Bar Association, after ten or twelve years of hard patient work have unanimously endorsed. The commissioners are the official representatives of their respective States.

The measures are: The negotiable instruments act, which has already been adopted by thirty-eight States; the Uniform Sales Act, adopted by six States and Territories; the divorce act, adopted by three States and bills on stock certificates and bills of lading, which have just been approved by that body after four years' discussion.

Topics in addition to those presented by the National Association of Uniform State Law Commissioners are: Conservation of natural resources, taxation, life insurance, fire insurance, automobile regulations, road building, digital statistics, public health, regulation of dangerous machinery, factory and mine inspection, convict made products, pure food regulation.

SOME OF THE TOPICS.

Some of the topics which will be presented and referred to committees for study and report at future meetings are: Regulation of quasi-public utilities, on certain propositions in respect to which the National Association of State Railway Commissioners, the Interstate Commerce Commission, the American Railway Association and shippers' organizations are already agreed; regulation of corporations; compensation for accidents, and discrimination against married women as to the control of their children and holding property.

President Taft will deliver the opening addresses before both the governors' conference and the uniform legislation conference called by the National Civic Federation before the latter body on Monday, January 17, and to the former on Tuesday, January 18. Alton B. Parker is chairman of the committee on program and John Hays Hammond of that on organization for the National Civic Federation.

NOTABLES TO BE PRESENT.

An idea of the diversity of interests that will be represented at the meeting can be gleaned from the following names: Louis E. Pearson, who heads the delegation from the American Bankers' Association; Charles W. Elliot, who leads the delegation from the National Conservation Association; John F. Dryden, who heads that from the Association of Life Insurance Presidents; Joshua Strange, from the Farmers' Association; Frederick W. Lehmann of St. Louis, president of the American Bar Association; Charles J. Bonaparte, president of the National Municipal League; J. Horace McFarland, president of the American Civic Association; David Heinemann, president of the League of American Municipalities; Eugene S. Benjamin, president of the National Association of Clothiers; Martin S. Becker, president of the National Association of State Railway Commissioners; Joseph E. Ransdell, president of the National Rivers and Harbors Congress; Allen R. Foote, president of the International Tax Association; James G. Cannon, George D. Cortelyou, George F. Seward and David R. Francis are on the delegation from the New York Chamber of Commerce; W. C. Gorgas, Chief Sanitary Officer of the Isthmian Canal Commission, is chairman of the delegation from the American Medical Association; Irving Fisher, president of the National Health Association, heads the delegation from that body; Curtis Child, Jr., heads the delegation from the American Forestry Association, and D. A. Tompkins, president of the Appalachian National Forest Association, heads the delegation from that body.

Other delegations include: Andrew Carnegie, John Hayes Hammond, Elihu Root, Alton B. Parker, W. R. Wilcox, Henry Wade Rogers, Samuel Compers, John Mitchell M. E. Ingalls, Thomas F. Walsh, W. C. Brown, Walter L. Fisher, James R. Garfield, John C. Richey, Walter George Smith Amasa Raton, John G. Millburn, Francis Lynde Stearns and Charles Thaddeus Terry.

ADDED CUBITS TO STATURE.

"The weakness of the administration as indicated by Zelaya's resignation, the victory which the rebels have achieved at Panama and the moral support which the United States government is giving to the insurgent cause have added cubits to the stature of the revolutionary movement."—Hartford Times

DRY FARMING IS THE FAD OF ITS DISCOVERER

Interesting Story of How H. W. Campbell Made His Discovery and Experiment

GREAT EXODUS OF EASTERN MILLIONAIRES

California Fruits Still Growing in Popularity in the Markets of New York

(BY RALPH JOHNSON.)

NEW YORK, Jan. 15.—"A mule, mind you, is the real discoverer of 'dry farming,' and see the wonderful results we have accomplished out West by this method," was the way H. W. Campbell, the pioneer of so-called dry farming in the far West, told me when I asked him about conditions in his country for 1910. He is in the city and more enthusiastic than ever about the rosy future prospects for the country beyond the Mississippi river. He has traveled all through the Western and Southwestern country, and told me many interesting things about the Pacific coast, the wonderful Colorado country, the millions of acres in his part of the United States which he believes will soon be the East, and the great enthusiasm and progress shown by the South. He will remain in New York a few days to inspect commercial interests before returning home.

Mr. Campbell took up a homestead in Dakota territory in 1885 and told me all he possessed besides his family was a plow, a wagon, etc. A tame mule and a long-horned ox. The boy and mule rode together broke the sod and put in the crop of wheat. The rains came, the water fell on the loose sandy soil, sank into the ground and ran off just as fast as it fell.

FORCED TO BE GENIUS.

Mr. Campbell, a dry-farmer had been a machine shop foreman in Vermont, and no one to whom he could write for assistance. He was in a desperate predicament, dependent, without friends and with scarcely any cash, he was preparing to leave the country, going anywhere. "But," as he laughingly remarked, "I thought I would try it." He took the mule and rode out to the fields, when, to his great surprise, he noticed small bunches of good wheat poking their heads above the ground. He carefully examined them and found that these bunches were growing in the tracks of the old mule. "I was just bewildered," went on Mr. Campbell, "to know what did it. But finally the answer came to me. It was the packing of the earth by the mule's foot that was responsible for the phenomenal and unexpected lot of bunches."

THEN WE DID IT.

This discovery, Campbell told me, completely upset him, back into a happy frame of mind, with renewed desire to go out and do things again. He resolved to remain on the homestead, and it was no doubt due to this determination that dry farming, about which President James J. Hill of the Great Northern Railway System, and Chairman B. F. Voakum of the Rock Island Price Law, have said so many things for this phase of farming in their respective sections of the present date, has been so far advanced at the present time.

When Campbell sowed his wheat the next year, he rolled it for days and days with a home-made roller. When the wheat sprouted every kernel came up. Then the long hot days and the neighbors' wheat dried up and burned, while Campbell's stood up "fussier" and more imperious than ever, all the while growing higher.

That was the start of dry farming, and Campbell is today the owner and operator of a remarkable exodus of the metropolis. In North Dakota, as well as other large tracts, among them being 600 acres in Midland county, Texas; 320 acres near Ft. Collins, Colorado; 320 acres in Holdrege, Neb.; 640 acres in Medicine Hat, Alberta, and a section in South Dakota.

MOVING WESTWARD.

During the past week there has been a remarkable exodus of millionaires and society folk from the city. Many went abroad, but trainloads started for the Pacific Coast and South. The terrific weather which struck New York during the Christmas holidays had much to do with determining when people would leave this year. While the blizzard was raging a lady in this city received a letter from a Los Angeles, Cal., friend, saying: "I pity anyone who is not in California now. Roses are blooming, people are out in their summer clothes and the place is a grand holiday." It did not take the time that it took to pack a trunk, to get started for this salubrious corner of the United States.

COLORADO WOMEN.

Two Coloradans have been figuring in the weekly news of the metropolis. Mrs. Minerva Welch of Denver told us, or at least some of us, what a fine thing woman's suffrage had been for the Centennial State. Among other surprising things she told us that it had made the men more polite in Colorado than they were in the West and another equally surprising thing was that it compelled the men to pay more attention to the affairs of State. Women, she says, hold offices in Colorado and they make good officers.

When I asked her what the outlook was for a woman Congressman or United States Senator from Colorado, Mrs. Welch smiled and said: "Well, strange things have happened and I don't mind saying if Colorado does send a woman to Congress, she'll make a good representative or Senator."

LARGE INTERESTS EAST.

Mr. Charles Triolo, who died recently in Los Angeles, Cal., had large interests in New York, where he shipped great quantities of fruit every season. One of the local fruit dealers told me today that he felt satisfied that Mr. Triolo became a millionaire and disheartened, finally committed suicide, on account of the fruiting of the account of the Flagler Fruit Company to the Fruit Exchange in 1910. He came East on pleasure as well as business, and expects to spend several weeks in the metropolis. He was much gratified to find on a visit he made to Washington Market, that California fruits are growing in popularity every

Maeterlinck's 'Bluebird' To Be Read At The Ebell Club On Tuesday

THE clubs are again at the zenith of their activity, having resumed their respective trends of work after the holiday intermission.

The West Oakland Club has added another club from Oakland to the California Federation, the Dennison East Oakland Club having been notified Thursday of its admittance to that bright galaxy of women's organizations, membership in which places the stamp of progression upon an aggregation that no amount of other prestige and study can give. The Dennison East Oakland Club is essentially a settlement club composed originally of a group of neighborhood friends, who banded together to alleviate conditions which presented themselves for consideration of philanthropy. From this inception it has grown to a membership of fifty-six earnest women, who carry on in East Oakland much the same line of work as is done in West Oakland by the members of the West Oakland Home.

At Wednesday's meeting of the Dennison Club, Mrs. K. L. Bliss read a paper on "The Boy's Place in the Home," which was so well received and appreciated to such an extent that Mrs. Bliss has been asked to place it in the library at the club settlement. Mrs. Bliss has done much Y. W. C. A. work and her paper was based on that experience as well as on knowledge gleaned from her rearing of her own son.

Next Wednesday, January 19, Dr. Etta Wakefield will give the members a "Health Talk," which will be one of a series outlined for the ensuing weeks.

EBELL CLUB.

The January luncheon of Ebell was one of the most brilliant events of the month.

Miss Sarah Ho on was a charming hostess, and Mrs. William Murrell's songs were given in that talented singer's best voice. The guests of honor included three of the club's recurrent European travelers, each of whom told entertainingly of her trip. They were Mrs. J. B. Richardson, Miss Mabel Thayer Gray and Miss Mary Childs.

Miss Horton was assisted by Mrs. P. H. Alexander, Mrs. J. B. Richardson, Mrs. P. C. Head, Mrs. Charles F. Hubbard, Mrs. D. B. Bentley, Mrs. C. B. Jones, Mrs. B. S. Hubbard, Mrs. A. H. Jones, Mrs. B. S. Hubbard.

TO READ 'BLUEBIRD.'

Instead of Percy Mackaye's "Mater," as was originally planned, Cora Mel Patten will read Maeterlinck's "Bluebird" Tuesday afternoon at Ebell. The lecturer is principal of the Marden School of Education, Chicago, and is a reader and interpreter of wide reputation, and has given a special study to Maeterlinck. The afternoon promises to be one of most delightful entertainment.

Mrs. Arthur Fickensher will sing a group of songs and Mrs. William B. Davis will be chairman of the reception committee. As each member is privileged to invite three guests, it is expected that a large number will avail themselves of the opportunity to hear this talented reader.

Mrs. Davis will be assisted in her duties as hostess by Mrs. E. A. Powell, Mrs. J. B. Richardson, Mrs. Harry P. Carlton, Mrs. J. B. Richardson, Mrs. Ralph W. Kline, Mrs. J. B. Richardson, Mrs. Charles L. Smith, Mrs. J. B. Richardson, Mrs. Frank A. Sturd, Mrs. J. B. Richardson, Mrs. E. C. Von Helms, Mrs. J. B. Richardson, Mrs. John Bakewell, Mrs. J. B. Richardson, Mrs. L. F. Lockhart, Mrs. J. B. Richardson, Mrs. J. C. Jones, Mrs. M. F. Jordan, Mrs. O. H. Jones, Mrs. M. F. Jordan, Mrs. O. H. Jones, Mrs. K. A. Munson, Mrs. K. A. Munson, Mrs. Frank B. Ogden, Mrs. K. A. Munson.

VIOLIN RECITAL.

Mrs. Dudley Kinsell is chairman of the reception committee for the violin recital which Signor Antonio de Grassi, pianist, and Frederick Maurer Jr., pianist, will give at Ebell Tuesday afternoon, January 23, at 3 o'clock. Each member on this occasion also is privileged to invite three guests.

LECTURE ON VOCAL MUSIC.

Madame Sofia Neustadt will give the first of her series of lectures on "The Development of Vocal Music" tomorrow afternoon at 3:30 o'clock at Ebell Hall. The first lecture will cover that period of the development of vocal music from the beginning of history to 1600 A. D. The three succeeding lectures will be given on January 28, February 14 and February 28. A large number of members and others interested in music have taken tickets for the entire course of lectures, and much interest is being evinced in the opening discourse tomorrow. Madame Neustadt, however, is not unknown to Oakland audiences, she having given a number of lectures at intervals since her return a year since to this city. She has many years spent in Edinburgh, Scotland, where her husband was prominent in the educational world.

NEW EBELL MEMBERS.

The following members were admitted to membership in Ebell Club by the membership committee, which met January 15:

Mrs. James D. Hahn, Mrs. Frederick R. Turner, Mrs. Edward Prather, Mrs. Howard H. Pratt, Mrs. Richard S. Kessler.

ALMA MATER CLUB.

The Alma Mater Club of San Leandro celebrated its second anniversary Tuesday afternoon with an elaborate luncheon at Odd Fellows' Hall, San Leandro.

Mrs. Catherine McCoy was toastmistress and Mrs. C. H. Hale, hostess of the reception committee. The luncheon was followed by a musical program by a number of the talented members of the club.

Morning on January 24, "An Afternoon at the North Pole" was given under the direction of Mrs. H. B. Howell and Mrs. M. Knox, the presiding hostess, with Mrs. W. T. Jess as the chairman of the reception committee.

The Alma committee in charge for the month included:

Mrs. J. A. Holmberg, Mrs. H. Z. Jones, Mrs. H. B. Howell, Mrs. H. Z. Jones, Mrs. M. J. Jones, Mrs. M. J. Jones, Mrs. T. H. Johnson, Mrs. George R. Jones, Mrs. Rebecca Jones, Mrs. Edith Jones.

HILL CLUB.

The members of the Hill Club met Monday afternoon with Mrs. E. B. Boyes in Oakland avenue. The Hill Club is composed of a number of congenial friends who meet at regular intervals at the homes of the members. The new officers of the club are: Mrs. Henrietta F.

MADAME SOFIA NEUSTADT, who gives the first of her series of lectures on the "Development of Vocal Music" at Ebell Hall tomorrow at 3 o'clock.

nam. president; Mrs. D. A. Spencer, vice-president; Mrs. W. H. Jenkins, secretary.

WASHINGTON COUNTRY CLUB.

Mrs. E. Werner of Irvington will be hostess at the next meeting of the Country Club of Washington township when it meets in February.

"California Authors and California Composers" will be the theme of the day. Mrs. C. S. Haley and Mrs. Marion Mowry have been chosen to present the club at the annual meeting of the district federation.

COLLEGIATE ALUMNAE.

The members of the Collegiate Alumnae met yesterday at the Century Club, Sutter and Franklin streets, San Francisco, the meeting this month coming much earlier than usual on account of the recent change of the date of the meeting from the last Saturday to the third.

Miss Cornelia McKinnis is president of the association, which numbers 400 members.

BERKELEY PIANO CLUB.

January 25 has been named as the date for the second in the series of concerts which is being given by the Berkeley Piano Club. On that occasion Signor de Grassi, the violinist, will give the program and will be assisted by Wm. Chamberlain, baritone, and Miss Maude Wellendorf at the piano. The concert will be given in the Berkeley hall.

"Dance Forms" with illustrative selections made up the program at the Piano Club's meeting on Wednesday morning at Unity Hall, Berkeley.

TOWN AND GOWN CLUB.

The Town and Gown Club of Berkeley will hold a buffet luncheon tomorrow afternoon at the Berkeley Club. On that occasion Signor de Grassi, the violinist, will give the program and will be assisted by Wm. Chamberlain, baritone, and Miss Maude Wellendorf at the piano. The concert will be given in the Berkeley hall.

"Dance Forms" with illustrative selections made up the program at the Piano Club's meeting on Wednesday morning at Unity Hall, Berkeley.

LAUREL HALL CLUB.

The Laurel Hall Club of San Francisco will give an afternoon of music Wednesday at its quarters in the California Clubhouse, 1750 Clay street, San Francisco, at which the bright particular star will be Mme. Kaethe Biezonka, cellist, recently arrived from London. She will render the following solo songs:

"Tarentella"..... Lindner
"Andante"..... Mosique
"Gavotte"..... Popper
"Berceuse"..... Godard
"Pavane"..... Lindner

OAKLAND CLUB MUSICAL.

The concert given members of the Etude Club of Berkeley Wednesday afternoon at the Oakland Club was one of the most enjoyable events which has been given under the auspices of the Oakland Club for many seasons. The musical was given in Pythian Castle and those who participated were: Mrs. Robert Taylor, vocalist; Mrs. Josephine Crew Aylwin, pianist; Mrs. Emma King, pianist; Mrs. George Johnson, pianist; Mrs. Ralph, pianist; Mrs. George A. Faulkner was the chairman of the day and Mrs. E. L. Bartholomew the receiving hostess. Mrs. Bartholomew was assisted in receiving by:

Mrs. F. B. Chadwick, Mrs. F. A. Mergine
Mrs. C. J. Bruggler, Mrs. Fred Roraz
Mrs. D. Helmer, Mrs. J. G. Roraz
Mrs. S. N. Palmer, Mrs. J. G. Roraz
Mrs. Fred Turner, Mrs. Fred W. Jaeger
Mrs. E. C. Hubbard, Mrs. Fred W. Jaeger
Mrs. August Hane, Mrs. Fred W. Jaeger
Mrs. R. F. Day, Mrs. Charles Cutler
Mrs. J. A. Vos, Mrs. Charles Cutler

The program given was thoroughly enjoyed and was as follows:

Piano solo—
(a) "Prelude"..... MacDowell
(b) "Romance"..... Schumann
(c) "Scenes That Are Brightest".....
(d) "Shepherd's Lullaby"..... Ferber
(e) "Birth of Morn'"..... Leonard

The twenty-fourth birthday of Laurel Hall Club will be observed in a special manner on Wednesday, February 2.

Another Oakland Club Is Added to The California Federation

the mantle which will fall from Mrs. Jones graceful shoulders. It is expected that the election will be particularly spirited, as the order of succession and seniority will be observed to the fullest possible extent.

The program for the three days convention has as yet been only tentatively arranged, as the various clubs have not yet named their delegates. The Ebell and the Oakland Club delegates will not, owing to the schedule of business meetings, be named until the first week in February. "Domestic Economy," "Playgrounds" and "Kiddergartens," three themes dear to the order of feminine clubdom, will be given wide discussion.

Mrs. J. E. Thies, of Niles, a member of the Country Club of Washington township, chairman of clubs for the district, will lead a discussion on "Playgrounds." Mrs. Clara M. Partridge, of Berkeley, chairman of education, will lead a discussion on "Kiddergartens." Mrs. Fisher Clarke, of Stockton, chairman on club extension, will preside at a round table, at which the branch of the clubhouse loan committee, Miss Olga Davies of Berkeley, chairman of the committee which has the work in charge, will lead a discussion on this phase of the federation's achievements.

Mrs. H. A. Hebard, chairman of history and landmarks will lead another interesting discussion.

PLAYGROUNDS COMMISSION.

The Playgrounds Commission, composed of A. S. MacDonald, Principal of the University of Washington school, Mrs. G. W. Burnett, Mrs. J. E. Jones, and Miss Ethel Moore (now in the East) met Friday at the City Hall, outlined the work of the ensuing year and made out a budget of appropriations which the city will ask of the city to carry on the work already begun.

The commission reported excellent progress in fitting up Bushrod Park, Shattuck avenue, near Sixty-second street, where 300 square feet have been thoroughly equipped for a children's playground and five acres for an athletic field. The commission outlined an ambitious program of work for the coming year at Independence and De Fremery parks, and the Park and the Adams Point reservations.

SECTIONS MEET.

The Current Events Section of the Adelphi Club met Thursday afternoon, when Mrs. George Bernard led a discussion on "The Message of the Magazines." Mrs. F. B. Weeks discussed "The War Situation." Mrs. E. E. David spoke on scientific topics, and Mrs. H. A. Hebard of the "Modern Drama."

CALLS FOR INTERFERENCE.

In the name of humanity the Tribune begs that the government at Washington recognizing neither faction except as belated, shall demand that hostilities cease; that the troops of both sides be disarmed; shall single or in conjunction with Mexico, re-establish civil government; shall take an accounting of the legalized thefts of the Zelaya government; shall hold a fair election as it did in Cuba, and set the stage on the road to freedom."—Chicago Tribune

SUFFRAGETTES OF OTHER COUNTRIES NOT PROMINENT AS YET

SUFFRAGETTES are to be found in every clime and in all the varied countries of the world according to travelers. Here is shown a variety that range from the frigid north to the hot climes of the south and the equator. Their object is the same even if they do have a different way of accomplishing results and have a different purpose in their objective points.

Among the Eskimos there has been for many years the same treatment of women that is given by most of the savage people of the earth. There is elsewhere the wife was not only the help-mate but the real worker, but not a part of the governing of the tribes. Since the advent of the white man to that country, and especially since the winter Mrs. Peary spent in the Arctic Circle with her noted husband, and in fact, where one of their children was born. As Lieutenant Peary tells in his book the Eskimos are the most curious people in the world. He tells about a woman or rather as they are known up there, a squaw more than 70 years of age who traveled more than a hundred miles just to take a look at Mrs. Peary.

By careful watching of the white man and his treatment of white women these slaves of the icy regions learned some new things about the sphere they were supposed to occupy. And since that time there has been trouble brewing among the Eskimos. As they do not vote the principal question is still in abeyance.

The last few years have made their impress upon the women of the harem in all of the Mohammedan countries and especially since the advent of the up-to-date policies of the young Turks has there been more freedom of the women. It is really becoming unpopular for a Mohammedan to have more than one wife and there is a gradual cutting down of the concubines. Advanced thought and discussion is more than even a stolid and false-believing Islamite can stand from a large family of thinkers.

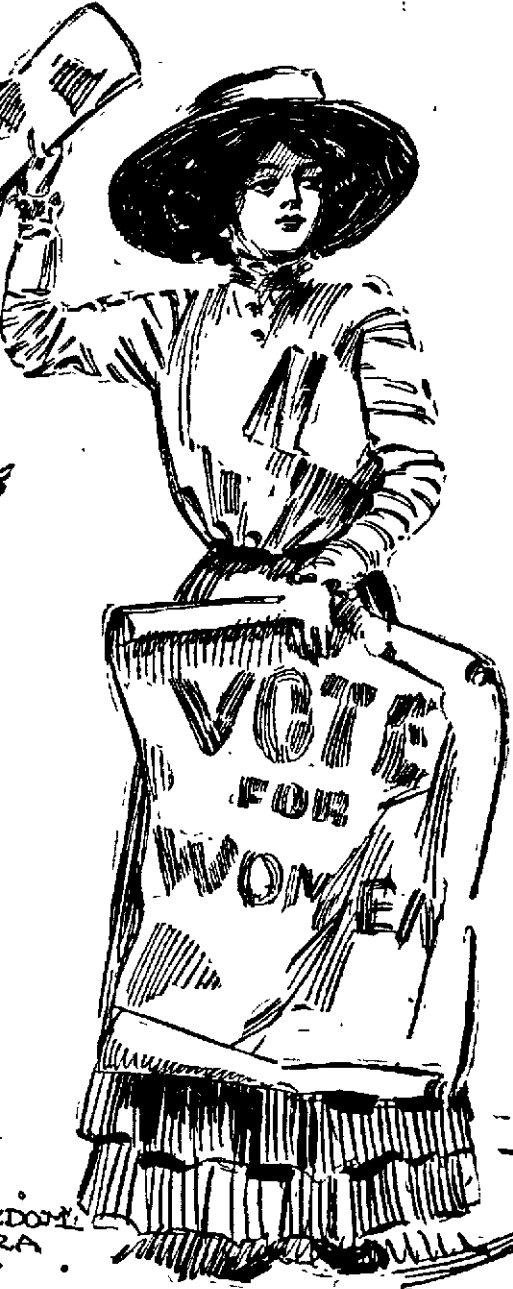

And so on through the countries has come the gradual emancipation of the sex and their taking up of new burdens and new responsibilities. As the degree of civilization attains so does the movement.

Geniuses Who Never Leave Their Homes

Carlyle once remarked, when a friend asked him for being such a recluse, that social life was his greatest enemy. The Chelsea Sage considered that a man must shun acquaintances and friends if he wished to give the world his best work and a study of the lives of some present-day geniuses shows that is total absorption in their work which causes them to hide from the public gaze.

Take the case of Matthew Maris, for instance, the well known painter, whose picture "The Hills" fetched 3300 guineas at Christie's a few days ago. Maris lives in strict seclusion in London lodgings, the whereabouts of which is only known to about half-a-dozen people. He is now an old man of seventy years and rarely leaves his study. And not only does he hide himself from the public, but he also hides his pictures. He has not sold a painting for years, although dealers are willing to pay thousands of pounds for them as is evident from the prices fetched by those which are occasionally put up for auction. THE DUCHESS OF AOSTA'S TACT. Maria, the great Italian sculptor, Vincenzo Gemito, who, twenty years ago, shut himself in his study and refused to leave it. To a certain extent Gemito's reason was a genuine mental suffering, and distressing reasons why he would not leave his study was that he feared the attacks of his disordered brain; but his malady in no way interfered with his work. For twenty years Gemito has been working hard at the production of statues, real masterpieces, which he modeled and modeled time after time, bringing them to the highest degree of perfection. It was reported a few days ago, however, that Gemito had been induced to leave his study by no less a personage than the Duchess of Aosta, who frequently visited him. She succeeded in inducing him to go to the Royal palace, and, accompanied by two relatives, Gemito left his house and walked along the sunny streets of Naples. At the palace he was cheerfully greeted by the Duke and Duchess of Aosta, who entertained him for a considerable time. The effect was magical. "Throwing off the depressing gloom of years the aged sculptor returned home full of joy, declaring that he would come out again and enjoy life. For the first time for some years Tolstol left his home at the beginning of October to pay a visit to a friend in Moscow. The famous Russian has for many years led a peaceful and quiet life on his estate at Yasnaya Polyana, which is situated about 120 miles south of Moscow, amid forests and surrounded by beautiful hills. Tolstol, however, while refusing to mix with the world, is ever ready to receive visitors. The consequence is that, although Yasnaya Polyana is by no means easy of access, many pilgrims find their way thither to pay their respects to the preacher of obedience to Christian principles. In a little cottage of the simplest kind at Bronley, Kent, lives Prince Kropotkin, the famous Russian exile, whose revolutionary teachings led to several terms of imprisonment, while serving one of which he escaped to England. The Prince rarely leaves his Bronley home, where he writes his books and indulges in his favorite hobbies of bookbinding and carpentry. He is a man who has suffered even more than Tolstol for his ideas, and still seeks by his writings to ameliorate the conditions under which the Russian peasant lives. Tolstol and Kropotkin remind one very much of Bjornson, the famous Norwegian poet, who hides himself from the world in a little house at Christiana. Bjornson was an intimate friend of Lu-sen, and never cared for the social world. He has a great contempt for men who seek social triumphs, and since Luken's death has become even more strict in his seclusion.

WHAT IS THE VALUE OF A WOMAN'S HEART?

THE heart of a woman who was murdered in Ohio a few weeks ago was put in a glass jar that the wounds might be seen at the trial of her slayer. Throughout the trial the jar stood on the table in the courtroom. A few days ago, when trial was over, the heart in the jar was packed in a box for shipment to the woman's mother at Wheeling, W. Va. An expressman called for it at the county prosecutor's office.

"What," asked the expressman, "is the value of the shipment?" The county prosecutor was nonplussed. No one in the office knew how to put the value in dollars and cents. The expressman was no sentimentalist. He was just an expressman. He wrote in his book: "Contents, one heart; value $10."

Then he put the box under his arm and went away.

Ten dollars for a woman's heart? Well, what is the value of a woman's heart?

Recent litigation and settlement of psychoanalytic claims in and out of court make it possible to assemble figures and attempt from them to arrive at some approximation. But statistics are at best an unsatisfactory medium through which to arrive at the worth of a woman's heart. Verdicts as high as $75,000 have been awarded. Miss E. K. Anderson receiving that amount from James N. Abel a few years ago. There have been several $50,000 verdicts and hundreds of verdicts of $25,000. Some broken hearts have been valued by the courts at only one cent and others have been held to have no value at all.

Conspicuous among recent cases is that of Miss Clara Sinclair, who was awarded a verdict of $15,000 against Samuel S. Luford Jr. of Philadelphia for a broken heart. Miss Sinclair asserted that young Luford, who is a son of Samuel S. Luford, senior member of Laird, Shober & Co., shoe manufacturers of Philadelphia, promised to marry her, and because he did not keep his promise her heart was broken. She sued for $25,000 damages and in court showed many presents that young Luford had given her, including seven rings. It did not take the jury long to bring in a verdict of $15,000 to repair the damage done by Cupid.

A few weeks ago a jury in the Supreme Court of New York brought in a verdict of $7000 in favor of Miss Sophie Myers against Karl Kaiser, an electrical sign manufacturer, now in Australia. Miss Myers said her heart had been broken by Kaiser's failure to keep his promise to marry her. While she was teaching in her home Honolulu, she said, he called upon her and wrote letters to her father and mother informing them what he had done. Miss Myers consulted her parents and after getting their consent

All Stageland Sorry for Our Oldest Actress

NEW YORK.—"I don't want to talk to anyone," says Mrs. Sol Smith. "I don't want to see any one."

The oldest actress on the American stage is completely unmoved by her experience in court last week where she testified that she was practically destitute. At the age of seventy-nine years she is one of the best character actresses of the day. She has been praised by critics for almost half a century. Yet now Mrs. Smith, after forty-seven years of conscientious labor, is unable to pay her bills.

"My mother is pretty old to be bothered like this," said Miss Alice Brown, who is also an actress and an officer in the Professional Women's League, of which Mrs. Smith is a member. "Many of the reports are lies. My mother feels this whole affair very keenly—not so much the court proceedings as the injustice of the false stories."

Miss Brown passed a second, and then a third, time through the ordeal of the court. She is a member of the Professional Women's League, of which Mrs. Smith is a member. "Many of the reports are lies. My mother feels this whole affair very keenly—not so much the court proceedings as the injustice of the false stories."

OAKLAND BUSINESS PROPERTY TAKES UPWARD TURN

PLENTY OF CAPITAL HERE

Investments of Gilt-Edged Business Property Are Being Eagerly Sought

True to THE TRIBUNE'S predictions last week that some surprising changes in the business center of Oakland were on the eve of taking place, the first confirmatory evidence developed in the early part of the past week when the property on the northeast corner of Broadway and Eleventh streets was conveyed by J. S. Myers to the Security Bank and Trust Company for $150,000. Subsequently the bank directors decided to raze the wooden building now standing on the property as soon as the year's grace to which one of the lessees is entitled under the terms of the lease he holds, that has two years more to run, by virtue of a notice to vacate, which is to be served on him without delay. As a substitute for the present structure a Class A bank and office building as substantial and imposing in character as any bank building now existing will be erected. The banks have discovered that such structures are as good and profitable assets as any that can be obtained. Owing to the fact that the lessee on whom a year's notice to quit is about to be served, will have a year's time to occupy the premises, work cannot be started earlier, unless the bank directors should buy out his interest in the tenancy. But, it is understood that the bank directors will lose no time in the preparation of plans for the new building.

The important feature in this deal was embodied in the fact that several other buyers were seeking to acquire ownership of the property; but the directors of the Security Bank realized that expeditions action was necessary or it would slip from their grasp and they anticipated all other prospective buyers by closing the deal quickly.

Money in Plenty for Investment

This Broadway realty transaction is only one of several that are liable to follow any day. The competition for the Security bank property shows that there is plenty of money here seeking investment on that and other thoroughfares in the business district. Several negotiations for Broadway property are said to be pending. There is a large section of that street covered with ramshackle buildings that are not returning to their owners half of 1 per cent interest on the value of the land they occupy. And the frontage values on that street are steadily climbing higher up the scale. They never will be lower, that is certain. That they will go higher in the near future is equally certain.

The fact that the Security bank has decided to erect a Class A skyscraper on the property just purchased will effect all the neighboring property and force present owners either to make corresponding improvements on their land or sell out for a good price to someone who will make improvements such as business firms are urgently pleading property owners to provide for them. In the negotiations which are reported to be pending for choice frontages on Broadway the would be buyers are said to secure the land in order to put up modern fire and earthquake proof structures, such as large and responsible business firms want to enable them to carry on their trade satisfactorily.

Electric Street Railway Construction

Interest is centering on street railway development and the extension of the electric railway system of the Southern Pacific Company on both sides of Oakland harbor, and through the recently annexed territory to the city's eastern boundary line, the effects of which on realty values in tributary territory are being felt in advance of the completion and operation of the new lines. The plans of the company for direct electric railway service from the east end of Alameda to the business center of Oakland is rapidly taking tangible shape, and cars are to be operated on it when completed on a 12-minute schedule from one terminus to the other.

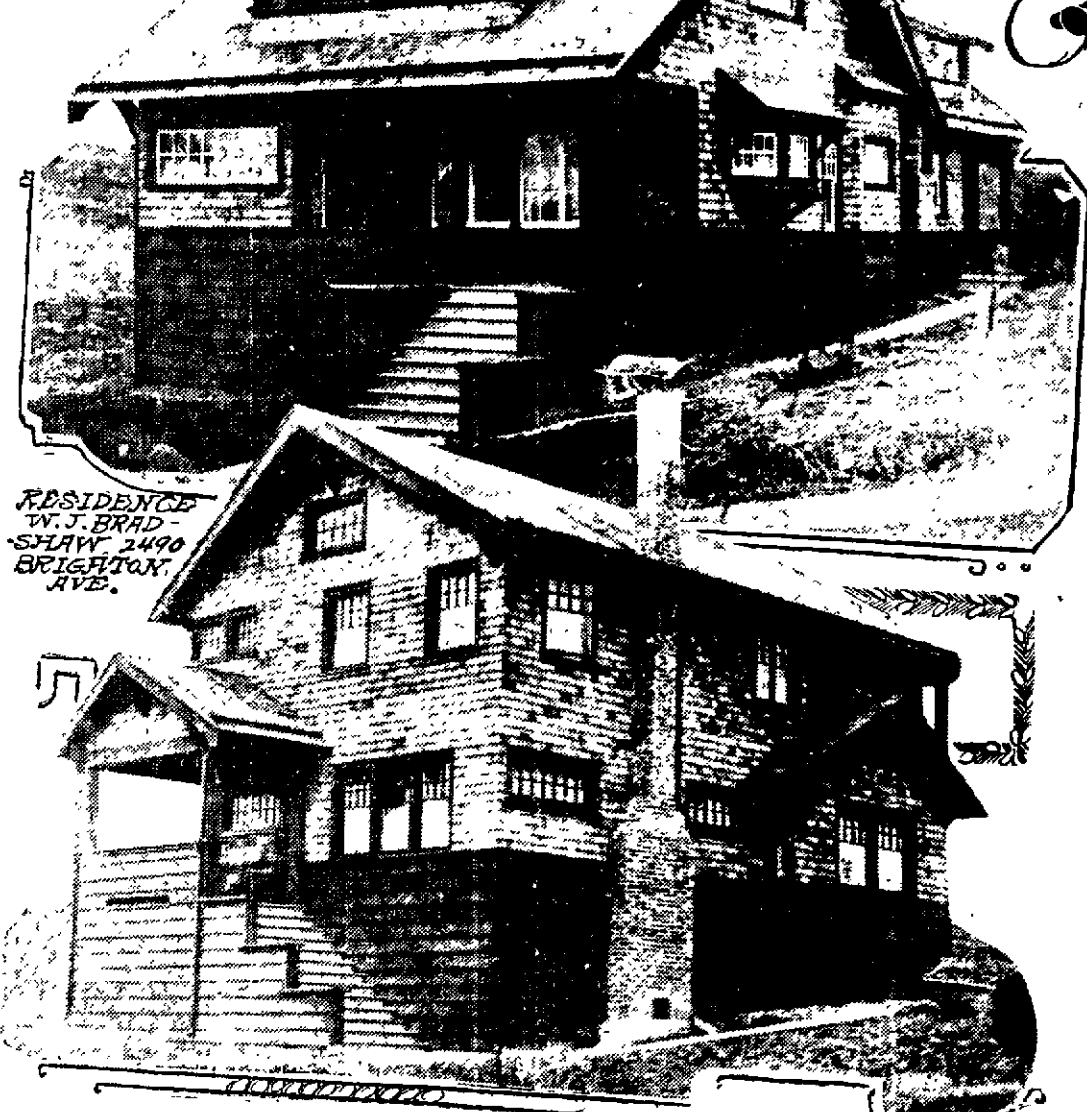

The influence of this improvement is showing itself through a greater demand for east end property in Alameda. It will stiffen prices and in all probability materially alter conditions on the line of Webster street.

Improvements in the Annexed District

The annexed district is beginning to show itself in the weekly record of the building permits. A vast amount of building is in progress in that part of the city at present and a much greater amount is projected for the coming spring and summer, for the annexed territory is beginning to feel the strong impulse of municipal life. This impulse is contagious and has carried its influence across the eastern boundary line into San Leandro, which is developing into one of the most progressive and enterprising suburban communities in the county, as is evidenced by the magnificent grammar school building, a perspective of which is shown in THE TRIBUNE today, and which is to be built at a cost of $70,000. Then there are some important business blocks in course of erection in this wideawake town. San Leandro is benefiting by Oakland's growth, and Oakland is deriving benefit in return from San Leandro's prosperity and progressiveness. The two cities have a close community interest.

NEW VILLA IN ROCKRIDGE PARK

Handsome Swiss Mountain Cottage Residence of R. L. Harrison Being Built

Work was begun last Thursday on the second home in Rock Ridge Park, the beautiful villa subdivision in the Broadway foot hills which was recently placed on the market by the Lavmance Real Estate Company. It is being built for R. L. Harrison from plans drawn by A. W. Smith, architect. There will be eight rooms in all and the total cost will be $5250.

The general style of the exterior is that of a Swiss mountain cottage with wide terrace porches on two sides. One of the features being the large second story porch hung with chains and connected with the bed room by wide, French sash doors. The walls are shingled and rough boarded and all the heavy exposed timbers are of rough sawed material, giving an effect that will blend most harmoniously with the cedars and pines and the big gray rocks that give Rock Ridge Park its name and greatest charm.

The lot on which it will set is one of the highest and finest in the tract and fronts on Ocean View avenue. The view from the living room, which extends the full length of the house, will include the hills and canyons back of Cleveland as far east as the Temescal reservoir, and to the west the beautiful panorama of San Francisco Bay without a break from Point Richmond to High street. It is one of the most inspiring spots in Rock Ridge Park.

SAN LEANDRO'S NEW GRAMMAR SCHOOL

Beautiful, Classical Structure Containing Fourteen Classrooms About to Be Built

THE TRIBUNE today publishes an illustration of the new fourteen classroom grammar school about to be erected in San Leandro, the contract for it having been lately let.

The plans call for a beautiful classic building to contain all the latest and up-to-date features of the modern school building, such as vacuum cleaning, plenum system of heating and ventilation, sanitary drinking fountain with filtered water, separate ventilated lockers for the clothing of each pupil, semi-fireproof stairways, milk white sanitary glass for toilet fixtures, inlaid hardwood doors.

In the construction, the basement is of reinforced concrete with pressed brick exterior finish. Plate glass is used on three street fronts. The cost is $70,000. When completed, this will be the finest school building in any of the interior cities of the State.

W. H. Weeks of 251 Kearny street, San Francisco, is the architect.

$50,000 DONATION FOR USE OF BUDGET LEAGUE

LONDON, Jan. 15.—Mr. James K. Caird, a wealthy jute manufacturer, of Dundee, has forwarded a cheque for 10,000 pounds to Mr. Winston Churchill, to be applied, it is understood, towards promoting the objects of the Budget League and prosecuting the free trade campaign. Mr. Caird states that he has been induced to give the money as the result of reading speeches made by Mr. Churchill in Lancashire.

BRUSH ST. PROPERTY IS IN DEMAND

Big Apartment House Near 19th Sold for $30,000 This Week

The apartment house on the west side of Brush street, about seventy-two feet south of Nineteenth street, belong to Mrs. William A. Schroeder was conveyed this week to Clarke & Clarke, Oakland attorneys, at a price of $30,000. The purchasers are very conservative buyers and bought this as an income bearing property and it is considered they got an exceptional buy at this figure. The building contains sixty rooms and is about two years old.

D. F. Minney represented both buyer and seller in the transaction. He says he has several other sales pending in that immediate vicinity of equally large and excellent buildings. The second has been closed in the last six weeks, the other being on Twelfth street at $55,000, which also went to a local investor to hold.

Alarm Clock Goes Off And Thief Is Caught

PORTLAND, Oregon, Jan. 15.—The familiar "bur-r-r-r" of an alarm clock at so unusual an hour of day and so unusual a place as 4 o'clock in the afternoon on one of Portland's most crowded thoroughfares caused two plain clothes policemen who heard it, to arrest Fred Davis, from whose clothes the sound appeared to emanate.

Search of Davis' garments revealed that he had stolen away a total of six timepieces of similar variety to the one which "went off."

REALTY REVIVAL IN ALAMEDA

Big Sale of Business Property This Week—Changes on the North Side

ALAMEDA, Jan. 15.—The biggest deal consummated in local realty this week was that of the Scott building, at the southeast corner of Eleventh avenue and Lafayette street, to D. M. and H. H. Eiter, local capitalists. The property was sold for $20,000. It was owned by B. T. Scott, formerly of the firm of Scott & Judd, now Judd & Kist.

The building was purchased as an investment. The property consists of a lot with a frontage of 108 feet on Eleventh avenue, and is improved with a two-story building, with five stores on the ground floor and offices above, bringing in a monthly income of $300.

NEW RAILWAY HELPS REALTY.

Interest in real estate has been heightened by the operations of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, which is laying tracks for its electric system around the east end of the city.

When the new system goes into effect in June, residents of that section can be landed at Fourteenth and Franklin streets in Oakland in twelve minutes. This rapid transportation feature will be the means of drawing residents to the East End, whose growth has hitherto been retarded on account of lack of transportation facilities.

In fact the local real estate men have already derived benefit from the new railroad system in progress of construction, and inquiries for Alameda realty have been more than doubled during the past week.

ELKS' CLUBHOUSE.

As the Elks Clubhouse on Santa Clara avenue is nearing completion, the furnishing committee is getting busy. The committee has been given $12,000 to expend on the furnishing of the handsome hall, and many beautiful pieces of mahogany will be purchased. Lodge rooms and halls in the big edifice were inspected this week by the committee, in order to gain ideas for the decoration of the building.

The Elks are preparing for the dedication of their new clubhouse on March 17, their fourth anniversary. Already the plans for the affair are being discussed and the program talked over.

GROWTH OF NORTH SIDE.

City Assessor F. J. Crill and Deputy Stoddard visited the north side district this week in order to adjust the property assessments there. Crill said today: "The north side of Alameda is certainly the coming locality. Factories are springing up here and firms are buying land to build their plants here on. Although there will be no general increase in realty assessments throughout the city, the improvements being made on the north side will necessitate a slight increase of valuations there. The land from Walnut street to Grand street has been filled in with dredging and a solid foundation has been formed. The shipping facilities along this waterfront are excellent and are attracting many large manufacturing concerns."

Both Deputy Stoddard and Crill report improvements all over the city and an increase of new homes and business buildings.

College Students Are Buying Lottery Tickets

NEW YORK, Jan. 15.—Federal detectives are at work in this city searching for holders of Cuban lottery tickets. It is suspected that large numbers of these have recently been sold in New York, Chicago, Denver and other American cities.

A ready market for the lottery ticket has been found, according to the Secret Service men, among college students in Yale, Princeton and several western institutions.

OAKLAND BANK OF SAVINGS

Stripping the Scaffolding From the Outer Walls of the New Two-Story Addition

The scaffolding used to erect the two-story addition to the Oakland Bank of Savings building was removed this week, and the vast improvement which this addition has made to the structure is exposed to view. The new stories to this handsome structure give it an ornate finish, which it did not possess, as it was previously. The cornice is also heavier and more elaborate in design.

Work has been progressing for some time on the interior finish, but it will be some time yet before it will be ready for the tenants who have rented both floors, to take possession. The improvement has cost approximately $100,000. This building is a notable illustration of the growth of Oakland's business quarters. It is barely two years since the building was finished in its original form. The waiting list of applicants for offices was even then large enough to fill one additional floor, and before a stroke of work was done to the two-story addition tenants had signed up for every foot of a suitable space on both floors.

The construction of the building has illustrated the high state of perfection that has been reached also in the art of building. The bank occupied the premises throughout the period the building was in course of erection, without a single hitch and no real inconvenience to the officers and large staff of clerks and tellers, and the erection of the two additional stories has been done without disturbing any tenant occupying offices in the older part of the building.

OAKLAND'S GROWTH IS PHENOMENAL

Big Sales of Residence Lots in New Tracts and Many New Homes Being Built

"If anyone doubts the progress Oakland is making along the lines of realty development, they should go out and see what has been done in Grand Avenue Heights in less than one year's time," said E. B. Brill, manager of the Frank E. Brill Company. "Houses are going up everywhere, the work is forging ahead in spite of the weather, and the whole tract is booming with improvements. During the past year we have sold nearly $200,000 worth of lots, and can see nothing ahead but the brightest prospects for a record-breaking year."

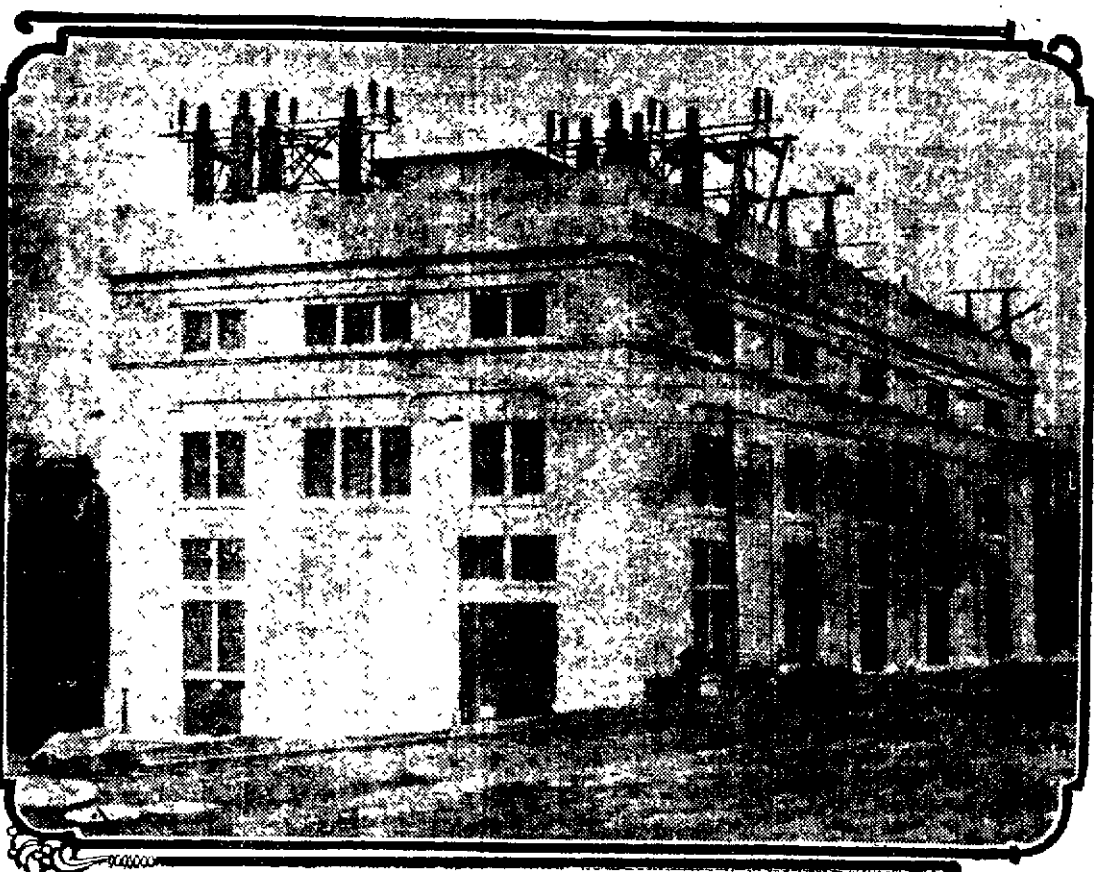

As an example of the confidence shown in this property, the man from Missouri might take a look at some of the houses that have been built in Grand Avenue Heights simply to be sold. Builders do not, as a rule, put $5000 or $6000 into a house that is built to sell unless they are certain of the neighborhood. In Grand Avenue Heights quite a number of such houses have been built, and several of them were sold before they were even completed. Only a few more of these houses are now in process of construction, and the location that he purchased it before it was more than two-thirds complete.

"Every house in the tract is a good, big, dignified structure. This is especially true of the houses that have been built to sell."

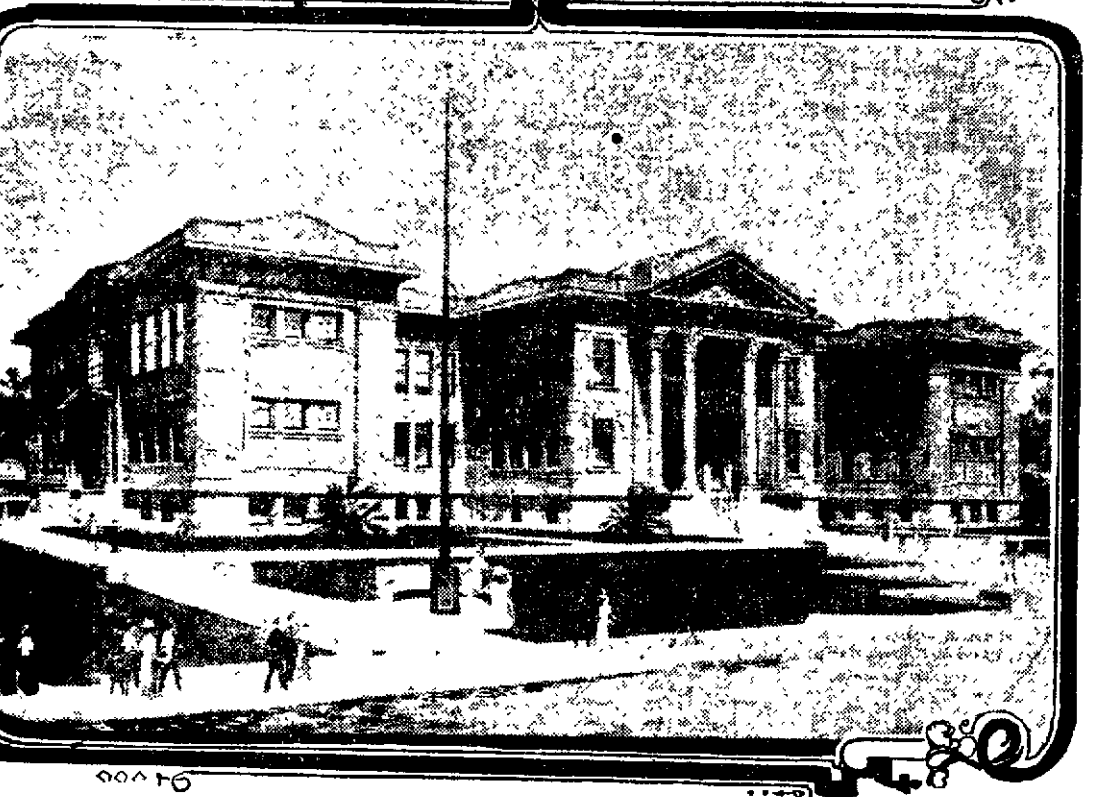

"We are also looking a great many inquiries about Grand Avenue Heights. This property is divided into half-acre plots and although it enjoys all the improvements of an up-to-date city, it is at the same time far enough from the turn of the wheel to give the advantages of the country. Our sales in this tract have been unexpectedly encouraging, and during 1910 we hope to do even better."

BERKELEY REALTY MARKET BRIGHTENS

Southern Pacific Company Investing in North Berkeley Property

BERKELEY, Jan. 15.—Among the realty transactions of the last week were two large deals which involved sums up in the thousands. The purchase in one case was the Southern Pacific Company, which bought several parcels of land in North Berkeley adjacent to the new extension. It is building there, the land was purchased from several persons and it is understood that the total amount involved was $35,000.

The other big sale engineered by a local realty brokerage firm was that of a 640-acre ranch at Walnut creek. This property was bought by a syndicate and $150 an acre is said to have been paid for it. The purchasers intend to subdivide it into parcels of from one to five acres for suburban homes. This section will soon be very accessible to the city by the new electric line, on which grading work was recently commenced. J. L. Bonfield is understood to be at the head of the syndicate.

SOUTHERN PACIFIC INVESTMENT.

The purchase by the Southern Pacific is looked upon as an investment. The demand for property and home sites here toward the north end of the city. In this section there have been a number of sales recently and all of them have been for good prices. Building operations have been brisk in North Berkeley Heights and other sections of the north and recently. It is believed the Southern Pacific will subdivide and sell its recent acquisition as soon as the extended line is completed.

HOME BUYING IN SOUTH BERKELEY.

Another section of the city that is in demand for residences is South Berkeley. The class of buyers seeking homes there are those in moderate circumstances. The demand is largely for lots and houses of from four to six rooms which may be obtained at a fairly low figure and on easy terms. About eight of this kind were sold this week.

ANOTHER NEW HOME NEAR ADAMS POINT

Mission Type of Residence to Be Built on Grand Avenue for D. F. Durphy

The construction of a cement and tiled mission type residence, planned by Architect J. Cather Newsom, is to be commenced at once on a lot situated on the north side of Grand avenue, east of Perkins street, for D. F. Durphy. The lot has a 50-foot frontage. This home contains eight nice sized rooms, a tea or afternoon parlor with open beamed work over, acting as trellis for grape or other climbers. The pergola treatment enclosing a patio, with its rough beams and cemented columns are a feature of the exterior. The front porch flow of having hard brick and enclosed with Klinker brick wall. The hall in size is 12x12.6 feet with its tasty staircase and seat effect is very attractive. The living room is 12.6x13.2 feet with its fine place and flag mantle. The dining room is 12.6x15.6 with its special china cabinet, cemented door and window treatment are well handled. These two rooms open into one large room with mission (plain) arches, with bookcases recessed in at each side and passage opening six feet wide in the center. The kitchen department are absolutely perfect. There are four good sized bedrooms and the bath room to second floor. The cost of this house will not exceed $4000.

AT THE THEATER

OLGA NETHERSOLE
AT THE MACDONOUGH.

MACDONOUGH

Max Figman and "Mary Jane's Pa" are two very delightful names to confound with in comedy dramatic circles and will probably mean capacity audiences at the Macdonough on January 20, 21 and 22. Mr. Figman is a sincere and winning artist and has only needed a great play to establish him the best drawing card among American comedians. In Edith Ellis' story of Indiana "Mary Jane's Pa" he has a vehicle that will bring out his best efforts and demonstrate his remarkable versatility. Furthermore, he will be supported by an unusually strong company, including that brilliant young lady, Miss Helen Lackey and Messrs. Edwin Chapman, Franklin Searight, Tony West, Charles Merriwell, Thomas C. King, Ernest Wagner, David Marlowe, G. H. Stewart, the Misses Dorothy Phillips, Nina Almscoe, Helen Hartley and last, but by no means least, the wonderfully clever child actress, Gretchen Hartman.

"Mary Jane's Pa," by all accounts, is a very lovable fellow and made friends by the thousands in New York City for six months. In Chicago for three months, in Philadelphia for one month, and since, in a number of cities and towns, has become a great favorite.

Described by Edith Ellis, he is a tramp printer from a small town in Indiana and bears the prosaic name of Elmer Perkins. His ambitions are too closely confined in the dwarfed Indiana village, so in answer to the call of the wanderlust, of his nature, he departs one day from his home, wife and children, and wanders around the world for eleven years.

When he returns to another village he finds his wife a woman developed with remarkable business capacity his children grown up, and his own memory almost dead to them. His wife, though true to him for all these years has begun to form other attachments, which a return so unexpectedly seriously complicates. Her woman's instinct of character prevents her from turning him out when in need, and yet she does not feel justified in acknowledging him as her husband either to the children or to the world. Remembering that he was an expert in the kitchen, she is wiser and with certain conditions, thinking he will refuse.

Struck by the audacity of the proposition and with a recognition of the possibilities he accepts. With this as a beginning, a story is developed that is full of strong heart interest and delightful comedy. The scenes are laid in the States, Europe, and the print shop of Mrs. Perkins, where the greatest newspaper scene is enacted. The local affords opportunities for some splendid character sketches and Edith Ellis has made the most of them. They are all true to life and lend to the picturesque completeness of the play. The character of Mary Jane, whose love and sympathy are the ultimate cause of the reunion of the parents is admirably played by Gretchen Hartman, and has aroused the enthusiasm of the press and public everywhere. Mr. Figman is under the management of Mr. John Cort, who is now regarded one of the most important and liberal producers in the country.

Olga Nethersole

At the Macdonough Theater Monday evening, January 24, 1910, Olga Nethersole, the distinguished English actress, will present for the first time here a great American drama entitled "The Writing on the Wall." The author of this play, William J. Hurlbut, is the young dramatist who leaped into fame over night, and who is destined some day to be one of America's foremost dramatists. If one is to judge from the wonderful success he has achieved by writing this drama that "sounds the Marsellaise of a new humanity." Contrary to what one might infer from the title, "The Writing on the Wall," deals with an ethical question of vital importance to the entire population of this country. The congested tenement problem and its many abuses and evils.

Miss Nethersole portrays the part of a young matron in New York society, a tenement house reformer who succeeds in achieving the ambition of her life, the betterment of the poorer classes. The betterment of the poorer classes. The character is radically different from anything she has ever played in the past and local theatergoers will, no doubt, await with much curiosity to see the world's greatest "Carmen," "Sapho" and "Paula Turqueray" in a role so radically different from those in which she has heretofore appeared with distinction and success.

Her supporting company has been selected with that care evidenced in all of Miss Nethersole's lists, and includes such well-known players as Harrison Hunter, Albert Perry, Hamilton, Florence Mills, Charlotte Tittel, Florence Huntington, Alice Gordon, Jane Stafford, Constance Raymond, Miss Olga Nethersole will play Tuesday the 25th and Tuesday matinee.

W. H. Crane

W. H. Crane, who is to be seen at the Macdonough in the near future, has been enabled to score one of the biggest hits of his long career in George Ade's "Father and the Boys," and Mr. Ade has surely surpassed in this piece all his previous efforts, including "The College Widow," and "The Countess." The play has made itself an enviable record as a mirth-provoker, and through it Mr. Crane has come into his own again. The combination of Crane and Ade has constituted one of the most brilliant comedy triumphs of recent years. "Father and the Boys" is all wholesome fun, punctuated occasionally with little touches of Crane seriousness, and running through all the fun is a valuable lesson for not a few young men to take home and ponder over. The piece is really said to be a delightful work that he did some years ago in "The Senator" and "The Henrietta," and more recently in "David Harum." It is purely American in tone, with George Ade's dialogue in just the right place, and there by the gentle satire for which he is noted and which is slightly but forcibly at some of our national weaknesses and follies.

ORPHEUM

Miss Alice Lloyd has drawn big audiences to the Orpheum. She has won a host of friends who will be delighted by the announcement which the management makes that she is to sing seven new songs during the coming week, with a change of costume for each number. Franklin Underwood and Frances Slosson will appear in the deliciously humorous comedy, "Dobbs' Dilemma." Both artists are firmly established in popular favor in this city. Mr. Underwood has been supporting the West He was in Ye Liberty Theater, Oakland, for two weeks—supported Florence Roberts in San Francisco, and also Nance O'Neill, in the Greek theater in Berkeley. Miss Slosson played leading ingenues for three years with James O'Neill, having played all the larger cities on the Pacific coast, where she became the most popular comedienne in her line.

The Bosque Quartet, who will be heard next week at the Orpheum, is recognized as one of the best singing acts in vaudeville. The members of this quartet dress in Alpine costumes and the changes of numbers in their program includes selections from "The Traviata," "Motha," "Prou Frou," "L'Amour" and other favorite operas.

Fox and Foxie's Circus, which will be a feature of next week's Orpheum program, is said to be one of the funniest acts ever presented on a stage. While the dogs, cats and ponies are in themselves an entertainment, Fox is the big horse in the crowd.

Belle Davis and her pickaninny dancers, whom she calls her "crazy jacks," will provide singing and dancing diversions, which introduces Southern pastimes. The pickaninnyes are considered to be the best on the stage. It was Miss Davis who scored such a triumph in the crowd.

menious hit in the song, "He Certainly Was Good to Me."

Harry Fox and the Millership Sisters, the trio of delightful comedians, dancers and singers, who were here for a brief engagement last month, are to return for one week only.

The McNaughtons, a duo of English eccentrics with a lot of sparkling music hall patter and a burlesque, having matched that, to use the jargon of the profession, is a scream, will be retained on the bill.

The Brothers Perma, whose grotesque fooling and unique imitation of two nightingales making love has been a pleasing feature of the show during the last week, will also be on the program.

BELL

Hickey's Comedy Circus will be the star attraction at the Bell theater this week, and "Obey," the budding male, is of a circus in miniature, portraying acts and scenes as they are witnessed in big tented shows. "Obey," the celebrated bucking mule, promises plenty of fun as a sort of curtain raiser and then cannot be ridden, and anyone desiring to test the accuracy of the statement can rent silver dollars to any one who dares to essay the feat and come off victoriously.

One of the most pretentious singing acts that ever has shown in this city is the appearance this week of the Le Brun Grand Opera Trio, a group of reputations. The personnel of the company is as follows: Prima donna, Miss Antonette Le Brun, formerly prima opera company and the Italian Grand Opera company of New York; Fritz Huttman, formerly of the Metropolitan Grand Opera company of Mexico; Robert operatic forces. This superb trio will render classic numbers, including scenes from "The Traviata" with various interludes.

Val Trainor and Myrtle Dale call their captivating offer "A Prevaricator Here," and it consists largely of songs, witticisms with comical and ludicrous interpositions.

The Brothers Whitman are two comical characters of class, who make up a feature of next week's Orpheum program. These two brothers are marvelous exponents of this art, one being a back-slasher, the other working just opposite, they work with clever light effects which have a tendency to promote the weirdness of their exhibition.

Another addition to this splendid bill is Ray Fern, a singing comedian, who comes with an excellent line of songs.

YE LIBERTY—"My Wife."

YE LIBERTY

It is safe to say that no actress ever presented for the approval of Oakland playgoers has "caught on" with them quicker than Miss Blanche Hall, the dainty little leading woman whom Manager Bishop is introducing to his patrons at the Liberty Playhouse this week. The little Burke part of "Trixie" in "My Wife," which has been the offering of the week, reveals her to be a most beguiling and dainty bit of femininity and an exceptionally good actress, and from the way she has been received by the large audiences at every performance this week, Miss Hall will unquestionably become one of the greatest stage favorites Oakland has ever known.

Although the last two performances of "My Wife" are to be given this afternoon and evening, the Liberty management promise that she will be seen to just as good advantage next week, when the offering will be "The Morals of Marcus." It will be remembered that this was a favorite piece in which Marie Doro starred last season under the direction of Charles Frohman, and in which she was so favorably received. The part of Carlot's in "The Morals of Marcus" will show Miss Hall as a girl of tender years who escapes from an Oriental harem where she has been brought up, and thrusts herself into the life of Sir Marcus Ordeyne, a recluse and bookworm. Unwilling to send the wait to the poor-house, Sir Marcus, to the horror of his society friends, adopts the little maid and proceeds to fall in love with her, in spite of the machinations of scheming relatives. It is said that four sets of splendid costumes of the story, during which Miss Hall as the little heroine and Mr. Ayres as Sir Marcus, besides all the rest of the favorites of the company, will be seen to excellent advantage.

HERMANN PLANS BIG LEGAL FIGHT

Former Commissioner of Lands Will Appeal in Case He Is Convicted

PORTLAND, Ore., Jan. 15.—Foundation has been laid for appealing to the United States Supreme Court should Binger Hermann, ex-commissioner of the General Land Office, be convicted of being a party to the conspiracy of the Blue Mountain forest reserve.

This was accomplished today when the defense raised a constitutional point as to what evidence should be allowed to go to the jury regarding statements of alleged co-conspirators. The defense contends that Hermann has the constitutional right to be confronted with witnesses and that Franklin Pierce Mays, now under sentence, who is alleged to have declared to Dan A. Turpley, George J. Sorenson, Horace G. McKelvey and S. A. D. Futer that money was needed to put through the proposed reserve, is not present not under oath and cannot be examined.

The prosecution wants to prevent witnesses—leading actors in other land fraud trials—who will testify that Mays "those fellows at Washington." It is the fight of the defense that such statements should not go to the jury, especially since Mays is not available for examination.

GERMANY IS WATCHING THE ENGLISH ELECTIONS WITH DEEP INTEREST

International Court Is Being Followed Closely

(By MALCOLM CLARKE.)

BERLIN, Jan. 15.—Germany is deeply interested in the English elections which are now being held, and German sympathy is with the Liberals. It is felt here that in fomenting the "German scare" the Conservatives, while simply indulging in politics, have created a situation which may develop along unpleasant lines and cause much friction if by any chance Mr. Balfour should be called upon to form a British Cabinet.

During the campaign in England the German government has been accused of bad faith and all sorts of evil designs on the integrity of the British empire, and hence it is hoped and believed here that the Liberals will win out in the general elections and pleasant relations be maintained between England and Germany.

In this connection a letter published by the Deutsch Asiatische Korrespondenz, by Dr. Rohrbach, an authority on questions of colonial and foreign policy, is interesting. Speaking of the recent action of the Turkish government in giving a British concern special shipping privileges Dr. Rohrbach says:

"What turned the scales, both for the attitude of the Turkish ministry and for the caution of the Turkish generalissimo and the circles in touch with him, must have been the knowledge of the Anglo-German understanding. It was the

of naval armaments. This understanding is a fact. It is a fact in the sense that the development of our fleet according to the existing navy law is not to be carried out, because in authoritative quarters de-clusive importance is attached to an "alleviation" of the situation with regard to England. For the sake of his alleviation, which has been worked for with exclusive self-sacrifice on the German side for a long time past—the otherwise hardly understandable and deplorable attitude of Germany in the Mannesmann affair must also be looked at from this same point of view--German policy has abandoned its counter-game to the English preparation for an impending invasion policy in Africa.

Of course, there is no official confirmation that the German report

The proposal of Secretary of State

Knox for an international arbitral court has been received here with interest, but that anything of great value will come of it is not generally believed.

While Germany may be willing to accept such an international court "in principle," she is not prepared to accept it in practice.

Further details of the American plan will, however, be awaited with interest.

here, "colossal," is the only term adequately descriptive of this year's purchases of pearls, diamonds, and gold and silver plate. It was once a novelty for a German jeweler to sell a pearl necklace costing £5,000, and then the customer was usually a foreigner. But this season necklaces costing £12,500 pounds have been regularly stocked and bought by German customers.

SAYS ENGLAND STILL LEADS RELIGIONS

Archbishop of Canterbury Indorses Missionary Movement

DUKE OF CONNAUGHT SURE TO GET PLACE

Would Accept the Post of Governor of Canadian Dominion

(By PAUL LAMBETH.)

LONDON, Jan. 15.—The Archbishop of Canterbury, in speaking recently of the Laymen's Missionary Movement in the United States, expressed his full sympathy with the movement, and incidentally remarked that the inspiration thus as well as other great religious movements came from England, which, whatever might be said as to her naval and commercial supremacy being threatened, was still the world's leader in religious thought.

This view of His Grace of Canterbury is generally shared by Englishmen and it must be confessed that there is good ground for it.

The British people are essentially a religious people. The Presbyterians, Methodists and Baptists, the three dissenting denominations, all had their birth in Great Britain, while this country is of course the fountain head of the Protestant Episcopal Church.

Perhaps the greatest and most practical religious movement since the days of Wesley, the Salvation Army was the direct result of the British religious idea to carry Christianity to the masses.

While the United States as a whole outside the great centers of population is thoroughly imbued with the Anglo-Saxon idea of religion, it is noticeable that New York in particular is looking to England for religious guidance. It was not many years ago that J. Pierpont Morgan came to London and took Rev. Dr. Rainald to New York. Dr. Rainald practically introduced the institutional church to the Western metropolis. Still later John D. Rockefeller's church came to England for Rev. Dr. Acland, who I understand, is one of the few New York pastors who preaches to full pews.

Now the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church, one of the richest congregations of that denomination in America has after vainly trying to secure Rev. J. Campbell Morgan, has called to its pastorate Rev. John Henry Jewett of Birmingham.

In speaking of the religious situation in America an English clergyman who recently returned from a trip to the States, said to me the other day "I was really shocked at the lack of religious feeling in New York. Such attendance has, in many places of worship, fallen off to practically nothing. I attended one service at St. Paul's Church, one of the historic churches of America, where George Washington worshipped, and there were not as many worshippers in the pews as there were members of the choir. This church stands on a plot of land worth two million pounds. Other churches were almost as poorly attended."

"Outside the great cities the situation is not so bad, but America certainly is badly in need of a spiritual reviving."

It seems to me that the Duke of Connaught is to succeed Lord Grey as Governor-General of Canada.

His Royal Highness has signified his willingness to accept the post and I feel safe in assuming that he will be a most popular addition to the Canadian staff. He has in a marked degree the fact which has made his royal brother, King Edward, remarkable among modern monarchs, and is a man away above the ordinary in ability, who would have made his mark had he been born to a much humbler station.

It may not be generally known that the Duke of Connaught is a member by adoption of the Six Nation Indians of Canada. He is, in fact, the only white man to receive such a mark of affection from these famous Redskins, and he is known amongst them as "Cousin Arthur."

At the present time there is a certain old Indian out there who is known as Bill Prince because wherever he is traveling anywhere within the vicinity of his two brothers he runs beside the carriage and shakes hands with them.

When King Edward visited Canada, last he had the honor of shaking hands with him and also with the Prince of Wales and the Duke of York.

He is a staunch friend of "Cousin Arthur."

Lady of Title

Sportswoman And Dancer

Lady Constance Stewart-Richardson is the wife of Sir Edward Stewart-Richardson, Bart., and a daughter of the second Earl of Cromartie. She is a keen sportswoman and one of the best lady swimmers in London. Recently Lady Constance Stewart-Richardson gave an exhibition of her clever dancing in America. It is stated that she will give a series of classical dances at a public place of entertainment in London next year.

Queen Victoria Is Kind to Soldiers

MADRID, Jan. 15.—A pretty story has just been made public of which Queen Victoria is the heroine. Her majesty, while shopping, met two soldiers who had just returned from Riff and were casting covetous eyes on the toys that their queen had just purchased.

Queen Victoria, much to their delight and confusion, bid them enter the bazaar and choose something as a Christmas souvenir. The two soldiers saluted out of the shop bursting with pride.

Special facilities having been granted the photographer, the King was at a loss to understand the narrative result, and expressed the hope that greater care would be taken in future.

POSTPONE AIR TRIP.

Because of the election, the initial trip of the big passenger ship between London and Paris has been postponed. It had been intended to make the first trip during the Christmas holidays and the ship is all ready.

The parliamentary committee has decided to wait until the political excitement has died down.

Arthur de Crous, M. P., honorable secretary of the committee, thus explains the reason for his change of plan.

"Everyone must see how unwise it would be to let such an important event as the visit of the ship slip with another important event which is completely overshadowed. Our object in bringing the ship is to make an impression upon the public mind. We can only do that effectively by making it the event of the hour. We want to have everyone talking about it and the newspapers full of it. We could not possibly have that if we brought it over while the public mind was occupied by political thoughts and the newspapers are full of election news."

If the visit of the ship were to be postponed in any way flat by reason of this preoccupation of the public mind, our whole scheme would be ruined. Our object is to show the people of this country that the possibilities of war in the air are not as remote as they are often made out to be. According to my information Germany will have in less than two years' time as many as seventy war ships. All the great powers are going ahead with ship construction and the building of skilled crews to pilot them. We alone are lagging behind, simply because as a nation we have not realized the necessity of an aerial fleet.

A curious and amusing mistake has just been made by the postal authorities at Marseilles. A telegram sent by King Edward to the Duchess of Fife, who, with the duke and their two daughters, touched at Marseilles on the way to Egypt on board the liner India, was considerably delayed.

After the title of the duchess, the king had added the words, "Princess Royal," and these words were taken by the postal authorities as the name of the vessel. A telegram and a letter were sent by the king for a vessel named the Princess Royal, he returned with the telegram, on which he had written, "boat unknown."

It was only when the princess royal authorities that an inquiry was made by the officials, and the telegram was delivered, with apologies for the delay.

PRELATES ARE WELCOME IN FRANCE

American Churchmen Who Are Busy Preaching the Gospel in Winter Resorts

BISHOP OF PENNSYLVANIA IS AIDED BY FAMILY

Madame Paquin Discloses Some of the Close Secrets of the Dressmakers

(By MARQUIS DE CASTELLANE.)

PARIS, Jan. 15.—We have at this moment two distinguished American prelates preaching the gospel at our winter resorts on the Riviera. They are Bishop Mackay-Smith of Pennsylvania and Bishop Forest of Maryland. And they are warmly welcome to our shores, for we need all the religion in France we can get. But I fear the saintly churchmen will have more than their bargained for, if they hope to convert the habitués of Nice and Monte Carlo, or teach them to see the error of their ways.

You may remember, once upon a time, an American missionary attempted to convert the habitués of the Riviera. He had the good man only known to him as the "American" and he would have been seen in the Pige Islands into the fold.

The Bishop of Pennsylvania is a very different man. He is a charming man and his wife is a charming woman. They are both very well known in the Riviera. They are both very well known in the Riviera. They are both very well known in the Riviera.

MADAM PAQUIN'S SECRETS.

The question of the dressmaker's secrets is a very interesting one. It is a question of the dressmaker's secrets. It is a question of the dressmaker's secrets.

But the lady was very kind. She would not answer. She said, "Fashionable dressmakers are not, as has been said, servile imitators of the latest modes and styles. Everything we create is the outcome of infinite toil and work. We must stimulate our imagination by constant study, especially the study of books on costume."

Nothing left.

There is that one idea gives birth to another. Nothing is left to chance or hazard—everything is left to the most accurate mathematical precision. I have tried to employ the brightest and most artistic men and women in Europe. They devote their whole lives to this kind of work. It is the most important branch of the dressmaking art. When the dresses are completed they are worn by the prettiest and most stylish young ladies.

The girls who do the mechanical part of the work—the sewers—may be seen in the streets of Paris from 12 to 1.30, promading up and down the rue de la Paix.

GAMBLING KING IN A BRAND NEW ROLE

Prince of Monaco Tries to Be the Peacemaker Between Germany and France

PARIS, Jan. 15.—Prince Albert of Monaco has undertaken the office of peacemaker between France and Germany. His magnificent museum of oceanography opens this coming spring a plan of campaign is to invite Emperor William and Kaiser Wilhelm to meet there—accidentally. Once the ice is thus broken, who can tell what may or may not happen?

After all, once the question of Alsace-Lorraine is settled, what is to prevent an alliance between France and Germany?

Prince Albert is said to be the most famous oceanographer living. Should he bring about this happy condition of affairs, he would be willing to pardon his interference in the European case. Prince Albert has had two wives. One an English woman and the other an American. Neither has found him to most of his time in sea studies.

"There are just as good fish there as ever yet were caught," He ought to know.

French Send a Bust Of Pasteur Over Here

The bust was given in recognition of the serum's aid in checking the recent epidemic of the disease which prevailed in France.

SHE IS CURED BY BUMP OF SPEEDY AUTOMOBILE

PARIS, Jan. 15.—Knocked down and run over by an automobile in the avenue des Champs-Elysees yesterday, Mme. Henriette Allemand, aged 39, living in the rue Fessuel, picked herself up and quietly walked off, remarking to the astonished "chauffeur," "I came out for a walk to get rid of a violent headache. This shaking up has cured it."

The accident passed over Mme. Allemand's legs, and the eye-witnesses of the accident expected to find that she had been seriously injured. When she got up her clothing was covered with dust, and somewhat the worse for her experience, but she herself seemed to think this was a cheap price for the cure of her ailment.

Paderewski, the Great Pianist, Presents City of Cracow With a Large Statue

(BY AMBASS.)

VIENNA, Jan. 15.—When at Bad Gastein shortly before his death, E. H. Harriman, the famous American railroad man and financier, outlined the plans for the great park on the banks of the Hudson which his wife has recently presented to the State of New York, according to dispatches printed here.

Dr. Von Arnstaedt, a noted Vienna physician, was at Bad Gastein at the time Mr. Harriman was there and became somewhat intimate with the American money king. I met Dr. Von Arnstaedt recently and Mrs. Harriman's gift was mentioned.

"Mr. Harriman indicated his intention of giving this park to the State, while at the baths," said the doctor. "One must recall the fact that the Frenchman, Danube, while the Frenchman was loud in his praises of the beauty of the Rhine. Mr. Harriman declared his opinion about West Point in Europe. He then mentioned casually his plans to present to the State of New York a great park along the Hudson which would become the most beautiful pleasure resort, accessible to great centers of population, in the world."

"Mr. Harriman," continued the doctor, "was an enthusiast on the beauties of America. He declared the most beautiful sight he could recall was the rising of the moon over Great Salt Lake from Saltair. He spoke with enthusiasm of the magnificent mountain scenery in Colorado, Utah, and the grandeur of the vast forests, lofty mountains and fertile plains of Washington, Oregon and California. In my many talks with Mr. Harriman, I discovered that while a broad catholic man of the world he was withal intensely American."

It may become necessary for the powers to act in Macedonia according to well informed opinion here to prevent European Turkey relapsing into anarchy or to the Turkish government in trying to colonize the Bulgarian districts with undesirable Moslem aliens. The Bulgarian committees are threatening reprisals, and murders and counter murders have already taken place. In case intervention becomes necessary the best opinion is that at its finish Turkey in Europe would be confined to Roumelia, which contains the bulk of the European Moslem population.

M. Paderewski has presented to the City of Cracow, a statue of the late King Stanislas Jagello, the Polish monarch who defeated the Germans at Grunovold in 1410. It is the work of the Polish sculptor, M. Wlaskowski, and cost $12,000.

Mme. Yvonne de Treville, an American prima donna who sang in Henry W. Savage's company in New York, is now one of the favorites in the Vienna court opera.

New Zealand Had Good Wheat Year

WELLINGTON, New Zealand, Jan. 15.—It is estimated that the wheat surplus of 4,500,000 bushels will bring in 500,000 pounds to the Dominion. The surplus exported in the present year was 2,000,000 bushels.

FOR NATIONAL DEFENSE.

According to the Bureau of the National Defense Committee of the Danish Diet, a secret session has agreed to a special grant of $1,000,000 for reorganizing the present distribution of the army. This presumably concerns the withdrawal of a certain portion of the forces in Poland behind a new line of defense.

All Denmark Mourns With Prince Waldemar in the Death of His Wife

(BY ERIC GRUNDMARK.)

COPENHAGEN, Jan. 15.—The truth of Dr. Cook's claims of having reached the North Pole may yet be demonstrated in the opinion of the few friends and believers who still hold to the Arctic explorer. Dr. Cook, has asked Captain Sverdrop, a noted Arctic explorer, to go with him on a polar expedition trip and that Sverdrop has consented to make the trip. Plans have not yet progressed yet as to when the trip will start, but it is near at hand. I can learn preparations are being made.

More than one of the men most familiar with Arctic expeditions, and who have since his return from the North, and failed entirely so far in his pre-arranged scientific proof of having reached the pole, believe that after the expedition has reached the farthest North, there are men inclined to believe if Sverdrop undertakes the trip with Mr. Bradley, he will be able to bring back some corroborative of Cook's narrative.

STILL AFTER ANARCHIST.

The efforts to extradite Dr. Martin Ekenberg from England, on a charge of creating the reign of terror in Stockholm in 1904 and 1905, by sending infernal machines to prominent citizens of the Swedish capital, naturally was followed with keen interest in Sweden. The Swedish authorities have not after the perpetrator of these outrages assiduously for the past five years and are confident they can fasten them or the accused man. The case promises sensational developments.

RAILROAD CHANGES.

The City of Bergen proposes to make some extensive changes in connection with the improvements in connection with the new railroad from Christiania, the Norwegian capital.

The city board recommended that a tunnel and track be first made through the harbor, and that a track and a tunnel be made through Sineshaugen to the ports on the western side of Bergen.

ENTERTAINS ROYALTY.

The Crown Prince and Crown Princess of Sweden have as their guest Princess Patricia of Connaught. I understand the Princess arrived with in case her father accepts the Governor Generalship of Canada, accompanied him across the water and remain in Canada throughout his incumbency.

MOURN FOR PRINCESS.

Prince Waldemar of Denmark, who, with his three sons, were called to the East by the sudden death of his wife, is in the deepest grief because of his loss and this grief is shared by the children. Her Royal Highness was not only extremely popular with the Danish people, but she was a devoted and affectionate, painstaking mother than she was to her four fine boys, Aage, Axel, Erik (four lieutenants and a midship in the Danish navy), Viggo (a student of an agricultural school), and Margrethe, age fifteen. The family of the Princess Waldemar desired the crown of Portugal for Margaret. But King Luiton seemed so far off, this only daughter so young, and things so unsettled in Portugal, that national ambition did not go strongly in that direction. There was no need for valuing the religious devotion, the young Princess having been brought up a Catholic with four Protestant brothers. She is the first member of the Danish Royal family baptized in infancy into the Catholic Church of Rome since the middle of the sixteenth century.

NEW DISH TO BE MADE OF BITTER PERSIMMONS

LONDON, Jan. 15.—America from the South and Southwest will be famous in the following gastronomic paper.

Persimmons, served in small custard glasses, the jelly-like pulp with port and a teaspoonful of "No. 100 Cognac," a luxury which will be a most members of the household that is not to be forgotten. The object is to use the flavor of the fruit but to suppress the bitterness.

It is feared that this was an attempt at wholesale poisoning though it is officially stated that the trouble was due to ptomaines.

EXCHANGED SHOTS AND THINKS THUG WAS HIT

Hospitals and Doctors Are Notified to Be on the Lookout for Suspect

After entering the saloon of Adam Craft, on Park avenue, near the Alameda bridge, last night, a masked man, whose method of working was identical with that of the thug who this week shot and killed Deputy Sheriff A. H. Lindquist in Ocean View, exchanged shots with S. E. Swanson, bartender in that place, and, according to the belief of Swanson, wounded.

The affair took place last night at about 11 o'clock, when Swanson, who is a deputy sheriff, was making up the cash before the register in the Park-street saloon.

The only other occupant of the place at this time was Alwood Miller, residing at 2110 Santa Clara avenue, Alameda, and while Swanson's back was turned toward the door, the hold-up man entered, forcing Swanson at the point of a revolver to give up $11 which was in the till.

EXCHANGED SHOTS.
As the man went out through the front door of the place Swanson rushed to the door and fired several shots at the retreating form of the man who, turned, and fired back.

Both men, however, shot wildly, and the man disappeared in the direction of the bridge, and, however, he believes that he hit the foot pad, and at once telephoned a report of the affair to the Oakland police, who sent men to investigate.

NORTH HOSPITALS.
In the morning hospitals and physicians have been notified, and Dr. L. R. Berges of Fruitvale reported last evening that man suffering from gunshot wounds which he claimed to have received in a street fight was taken to his office.

A posse of deputy sheriffs and policemen were sent, under the direction of Detective Hodgkins, to scout the country about this region, to scout up to a late hour, but no results. The hospitals are, however, being closely watched by the authorities.

LIKE OCEAN VIEW THUG.
The hold-up is almost exactly like that in Ocean View, where the man entered as the proprietor was making up his cash, and at the point of a pistol demanded money. In the former case, however, Deputy Sheriff Lindquist, who happened to be present, interfered, with the result that he was shot fatally by the thug. The police suspect that the two affairs have a connection, and on this account are making special endeavors to locate their man.

The "man overboard" cry was raised on the ferryboat Newark on her 6 o'clock trip from San Francisco yesterday afternoon by a passenger who reported that he had seen a young man of about 30, wearing a dark overcoat, go to the rear of the boat and deliberately step overboard. A thorough search was made, but no trace of the missing man could be found.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 14.—Isolated in St. Agnes Hospital, Robert de Janon, the heiress to the Buisson millions, who was arrested in Chicago after eloping from the Bellevue Stratford Hotel in Philadelphia with Frederick Cohen, a waiter, is today being treated by doctors in attendance at the hospital. Ever since her escapade, which created nation-wide interest, Miss de Janon has shown no signs of sorrow until today when she broke down under the kind ministrations of her grandfather, the Buisson seed merchant. Her physicians declare that she is such a nervous wreck that she will employ two widely known alienists to probe into the girl's nervous condition.

Captain and Young Wife on San Buenaventura, Wrecked Off Oregon Coast in Storm

LITTLE HOPE OF SURVIVAL IS NOW ENTERTAINED

Boat Driven Off Course and to Shore in Storm in Which Czarina Was Destroyed

On the day that the steamship Czarina was overcome by gigantic seas in a gale off Coos Bay, the schooner San Buenaventura, put to sea from Eureka almost in the face of the gale that had wrecked the Czarina and sent all but one man of the crew to death in the icy seas. Now comes the story of the loss of the schooner, which is ashore at Gold Beach, on the Oregon coast, and breaking up in the terrific seas under the force of the gales.

The San Buenaventura, commanded by Captain Paul Rappmundt, went to sea from Eureka last Wednesday morning, and from all accounts became unmanageable in a gale off Rogue river, Oregon, 100 miles north of her port of departure. The fate of Captain Rappmundt and his wife, who accompanied him, and the six men of the crew, is unknown. It is feared that they were hurled to their death from the rigging or at best are in small boats battling for their lives somewhere in the great storm of waters which for the last several days has raged with tremendous fury all the way from Humboldt bay to Cape Flattery.

FIRST NEWS OF WRECK.
The first news of the stranding of the San Buenaventura was received in a dispatch from the correspondent of the Mercurio at Crescent City, who stated that a telegram from Gold Gulch, just received, reported that the San Buenaventura was off Rogue river, Oregon, with no sign of life aboard.

The San Buenaventura, owned by W. J. Woodside, of this city, was laden with a cargo of redwood lumber, and when she put out from Eureka last Wednesday morning, she was said to have been in a leaky condition. But whatever was the real condition of the schooner, Captain Rappmundt evidently had no fear that she would not weather the storm. The vessel is his first command, and his young wife, whom he had lived at Sixteenth and Bryant streets in this city, accompanied him.

MET HEAVY GALES.
After passing out over the Humboldt bar last Wednesday the schooner was taken far out of her course by the terrible northeast gales and carried to the northward, where she made headway against the southeasterly, the San Buenaventura was driven at a rapid rate to the northward and finally overwhelmed.

Not a trace of Captain Rappmundt and his wife, or crew, has been found, and the stormy weather along the north coast prevented people ashore from investigating the schooner's wreck at the time. Since the dispatch stated that no signs of life were seen aboard, it is believed that the vessel and all hands had been forced to take to the sea as wrecked the schooner. In such cases, the crew and passengers are often lost, and the vessel is driven to the coast, where it is wrecked.

The San Buenaventura was one of the oldest and best known sailing vessels along the coast, and was built in 1875 at Fairhaven, California. In former years she frequently ran races in the San Francisco bay, and on one occasion won a Fourth of July race. She was built on a Fourth of July race.

In new parliament, Ministerialists and Unionists none.

(By WILLIAM T. STEAD.)
LONDON, Jan. 15.—The first day's pollings, as had been expected, are decisive. The Liberal majority in the next parliament will be at least 200, maybe 270. As far as results go it is all over but the shouting.

There were 57 Liberal seats at stake this morning and 17 Conservatives. If the Conservatives were to wipe out the Liberal majority they ought to have won 23 Liberal seats and kept all their own. As it is they have lost four seats and only won 18. If they cannot do better than this at the subsequent pollings they will be in the minority by 200 when the polls close.

SHOWS DISASTER.
The significance of this disaster is only manifest when the result is examined in detail. The Liberals held their own in the north, notably Lancashire, which is the backbone of the free trade majority. They have won seats in Darlington and Grimsby which usually voted Conservative.

It is only in the Lancashire seat for the budget against the Conservatives, notably Lancashire, which is the backbone of the free trade majority. They have won seats in Darlington and Grimsby which usually voted Conservative.

NOT INFALLIBLE GUIDE.
There is not time for me to completely analyze the vote cast, but it is not probable that this would materially affect the forecast. London is supposed to be the rock of the Liberal party, and a month ago that not one Liberal would be returned for London.

Today out of ten seats the Liberals retained seven, and in the borough elections are not an infallible guide to how the counties vote, but in 1885, when the boroughs went Conservative, the counties redressed the balance with such vengeance that the Liberals had a majority of 172 in the house. The chances therefore are only one week's pollings will be even better for the Liberals than they have been today.

WIND UP IN RIOTS.
LONDON, Jan. 15.—Aid scenes of disorder and excitement unrivaled in the annals of English politics, the balloting in England culminated tonight in rioting which kept the police force of the city busy dispersing a crowd of the city's suffragettes.

The suffragettes took a hand and from noon until midnight pandemonium reigned not only over London, but in the larger cities throughout the island.

ASTOR IS DEFEATED.
Waldorf Astor, son of the ex-patriated American, who was a candidate for parliament upon the Unionist ticket, was defeated.

A stirring scene took place when an angry mob made a hostile demonstration against Chancellor of the Exchequer David Lloyd George and he had to be rescued by the police.

General Estrada to Use Aeroplanes

DAYTON, Ohio, Jan. 15.—The first actual use of the aeroplane and dirigible balloon in warfare will be made in Nicaragua in General Estrada's campaign.

H. D. Hill, a local aeronaut, is en route for Bluefields with an aeroplane and a balloon to be used by the insurgent army. Extraordinary precautions will be taken to prevent the machine from falling into the hands of the regular army before they reach the Estrada camp.

Focus of eyes of the world are now focused upon Nicaragua for the fate of the flying machine there may prove its usefulness or uselessness in time of actual fighting between more important nations.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 15.—Three counterfeiters, operating in a secluded cottage in the Bernal hills, were captured today in the very act of making spurious coin.

With drawn revolvers, Captain Harry Moffitt of the Secret Service, and a posse surrounded the cottage, and though a woman look-out at the door cried out an alarm, surprised and covered the counterfeiters at their very work.

In frantic search for a way to escape, the counterfeiters hesitated for a moment at the command to throw up their hands. They looked for a moment for weapons with which to give battle to the men of the law, but with the officers' revolvers in their hands escape was impossible.

DROPS COUNTERFEIT DIME.
As the leader, Sam Arno, raised his hands, a newly made "dime" dropped from his fingers. With a deft movement he kicked it under an old sofa and at the same time placed his foot over the obverse for a die for making counterfeit five-dollar pieces.

The surprise of the counterfeiters was complete. The secret service agents had been working for six months to locate the plant and make yesterday's capture.

A PERFECT PLANT.
The location of the secret service was ideal for the outlaw operations that it housed. Moreover the place used by the counterfeiters is the most perfect of its kind ever captured in the West. It is evident that the three men had been operating for some time. The probability is that a large amount of their illegal output is in circulation in this city.

The raid was a stirring one. It had many elements of danger. Only to the complete surprise of the law was attributed the surprise of the counterfeiters.

LOCATE THE OUTFIT.
Moffitt learned a month ago that a counterfeiting plant was in operation in or near San Francisco. He assigned Operative J. M. N. to the case and he, with his captain, located the plant on Bernal Heights.

The house is at 122 Manchester street, a small househoulder beyond Presidio avenue. It is the last house in the street. Just over the crest of a hill from their doorways.

POLICEMAN A NEIGHBOR.
The neighbor of the local force, who says he does not suspect its contents.

When the raid was made yesterday took with him Detective James E. and Patrick O'Connell and surrounded the house.

WOMAN GIVES SIGNAL.
Then weapons in hand, Moffitt and Regan rushed to the front door. At the entrance a woman, carrying a baby, blocked the way. "Who are you?" she asked. The officers, evidently calling out an agreed signal.

But the officers pushed their way past her and went into the front room of the cottage.

Two models, one weighing fully 600 pounds and used in making two dimes at a time, the other a baby for making spurious five-dollar gold pieces.

IN SPURIOUS COINS.
In a bureau drawer were found 100 newly made "dimes" and a quantity of nickels.

Besides Leader Arno the other two counterfeiters are Michael Angelo Vittoria and Salvatore De Costa. All are young men, the latter being 28 years old and the others 25 and 26 respectively. The men claimed to be carpenters, and though caught in the act, denied the counterfeiting.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 15.—Miss Helen Taft, daughter of the President of the United States, today showed her sympathy for the striking shirtwaist makers by attending the meeting of society women in their behalf at the home of Mrs. H. L. La Barde Jayne.

Miss Taft took an early train from Bryn Mawr college in order to attend the meeting. She was accompanied by a number of her college friends, girls who are interested in social problems and who have been working untiringly in the strikers' interests.

INTERESTED SPECTATOR.
While Mrs. Raymond Robins, president of the National Women's Trade Union League, presided, the girls listened attentively. She appeared to be deeply interested in the struggle of the Russian Jewish girls to maintain existence.

Miss Taft was particularly interested in the discussion presided over by Mrs. H. H. Donaldson, who questioned the advisability of mixing the suffrage cause with that of the striking workers.

THROUGH COMPANIONS.
She frequently turned to her companions and made remarks, inquiring especially about the living conditions of the girls. Of course, as the daughter of the President, Miss Taft did not take an active part in the discussion, but her queries put through her friends elicited much information.

At the close of the meeting Miss Taft left without any display. She was evidently eager to avoid the attention which would have been given her had she been recognized.

Consort of Woman Is Held by the Police

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 15.—Galen Brown is held at the city prison pending a police investigation into the shooting of Mrs. Rose Boubout, 184 Geary street, who was found with a gunshot wound in her breast early yesterday morning at 1090 O'Farrell street.

Miss Brown explained at the Central Emergency Hospital that she had shot herself on account of dependency and with the intention of committing suicide. Brown was in the room with her at the time, it is said. The woman is twenty-three years of age and has a child of six.

Brown stated that he was in another room when the shot was fired and that when he rushed to the woman's assistance he found her lying bleeding on the floor.

The police are inclined to believe the story of the woman that she had shot herself. Mrs. Boubout is a widow and was employed as a hairdresser.

Breaks Speed Record In Matrimonial Game

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., Jan. 15.—Apparently John H. Tyson is out to break all speed records in matrimony as well as in motor car racing. This afternoon he was married for the second time after having been divorced from his former wife, Mrs. Grace Starr Tyson, a divorcee for absolute divorce, he sent his secretary flying over from Hobe Sound in his motor boat to secure a license allowing him to wed Miss Dorcas Davidson. Tyson is worth $2,000,000. He married Miss Starr, the beautiful daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Starr with the same characteristic impulsiveness as he is displaying in his latest romance.

Gertrude Freese's Courage Responsible for Saving Home

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 15.—Enveloped in flames from the explosion of a gas stove while preparing to attend the bridge tea of Mrs. John Baker Jr. at the Fairmont today, Miss Gertrude Freese, a young society girl and daughter of the late Captain A. C. Freese, heroically rushed through the house to spread the alarm of fire, giving no heed to her terrible injuries and the great danger she risked.

She snatched up a bowl in the kitchen, ran back to the fire, and spread the alarm of fire, giving no heed to her terrible injuries and the great danger she risked.

STICKENED TO THE NEIGHBORHOOD.
The servants, after running panic-stricken to the neighbors for help, returned in time to help her complete the work. When the last flicker of fire had been put out they caught the brave girl in their arms and carried her tenderly to a bed, where she will be confined a couple of weeks.

IS ALONE IN HOUSE.
Miss Freese was the only member of the family in the home at 522 Fell street when the accident occurred. In addition to the afternoon tea she was to have been a guest last evening at the birthday party of Miss Dorothy Hall, and in the absence of her maid she was getting ready an extra gown with her own hands.

Pressing the delicate silk dress was in a small room off the dressing room on the second floor. A defective fuse caused the explosion. Before she realized what had happened Miss Freese was surrounded by flames.

The diaphanous silk gown burned like powder and the dress she wore caught fire. Tearing that frantically off Miss Freese threw a cloak about herself and ran to the front door.

GIVES ALARM OF FIRE.
Tearing this frantically off, Miss Freese threw a cloak about her and ran to the front door crying "Fire!"

Returning to secure a bowl she dashed to the burning carpets and woodwork, while most of the servants ran in their excitement to the neighbors for help. One remembered to telephone for the firemen.

MISS FREESE COLLAPSES.
Miss Freese collapsed after the fire had been put out, and in charge of a trained nurse. Her face and her arms were severely burned, but no scars will be left.

Miss Freese is a talented singer and pianist. She is a graduate of the Girl's High school and very recently of Irving University. Her father, Captain Freese, was prominent for many years in ship-building circles.

IN SEARCH OF BANDIT

Desperado Disappears in the Forests of the Presidio Reservation

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 15.—In an attempt to frustrate a daring robbery on a Presidio and Ferries railroad car at 10 o'clock tonight, Motorman Fred Smith was shot and fatally injured by an unknown bandit who, after relieving Conductor M. Fitzgerald of $9.25, escaped in the hills.

The hold-up occurred as the car was approaching the terminal at the Presidio reservation. Noting a man standing near a small tool shed along the right of way, Smith slowed down as he jumped aboard. In response to the conductor's signal he again started the vehicle and had run almost to the end of the road before he became aware of a commotion on the back platform.

Turning hastily he faced Fitzgerald, who, with hands up and a gun held under his nose, was permitting the unknown man to search his pockets.

SHOOTS MOTORMAN.
Realizing the need for immediate action Smith kept the full length of the car with his controls in his hand.

Reaching the bandit, who was turned to him, just as he slipped the hold in his pocket, the motorman raised his hand to tell the highwayman. Evidently warned by a nervous intuition the hold-up man whirled just in the nick of time and without a minute's hesitation discharged his gun full in Smith's face. Five shots rang out, three of them going into the victim's body.

Moaning in the victim's senseless to the platform as the robber dropped from the car and disappeared in the sage brush.

SOLDIERS SCOUR HILLS.
The guards at the Presidio were immediately notified and searching parties were sent out to scour the hills, but without avail. Later detectives from the police station arrived on the scene, and by Fitzgerald's excellent description furnished by Fitzgerald, they are fine-combing the vicinity of the tragedy in an effort to apprehend the culprit.

Smith was removed to the Presidio Hospital on a litter, where he was immediately placed under the custody of Captain Critchman, surgeon.

probed for and found both the bullet, which lodged in the wounded man's stomach. There is little hope for his recovery.

The hold-up man is described as dark complexioned, medium build and wearing about five feet eight inches in height. He was attired in a red sweater, dark slouch hat and wore a pocket watch. His gun was a .35-caliber Colt's revolver.

Rich Father of Clubman Helps Daughter-in-Law Fight Divorce

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 15.—Coincident with the news that Mrs. Walter A. McCreery, wife of the club man and polo player, has prepared bitterly to fight the suit for divorce, came the announcement from an authoritative source today that Andrew B. McCreery, head of the wealthy family is aligned on the side of the wife. He has promised to assist her in the legal battle to prevent her husband from obtaining the custody of the four children, now in English schools, where they have been placed by the mother.

Miss McCreery was given to this announcement of the father-in-law's action for his daughter-in-law when it was learned that Henry H. Moffitt, attorney for Mrs. McCreery, would demand that Walter McCreery in the divorce suit.

The elder McCreery's determination to assist his son's wife in the pending litigation was brought about because he had learned that Mrs. McCreery's treatment of her husband in England was all that it should have been. A strong attachment for his four grandchildren also has influenced the elder McCreery.

Mrs. McCreery will not appear in the local courts, but will tender the divorce action at long range. She will file an answer to the complaint in New York, the other part of the suit will be charged that McCreery has not been a legal resident of San Francisco county and therefore could not file a divorce action. It will be asserted that she was married in England, and that she was never divorced from him. She will also claim that she was only a week prior to her

FRANK J. GOULD IS TO QUIT AMERICA

Feels Bitterly the Humiliation Following Publication of Letters to Dancer

MILLIONAIRE WILL MAKE NEW HOME IN FRANCE

Racing Will Take Up Much of His Time, More as Pleasure Than Business

NEW YORK, Jan. 15.—Frank J. Gould, whose divorce troubles and more recent difficulties with Bessie Devos, the dancer have interested society, is to quit America for some years at least, according to a statement made by a friend who has just returned from Europe. Only Gould's most intimate friends understand what plans he has been making, but today it was learned that for the next ten years this country is likely to see very little of him.

Whether Gould intends to expatriate himself permanently could not be learned. Nor was any information obtainable that would indicate whether he proposes sacrificing his American residence.

The principal reason for his action is said to be disappointment at the manner in which many of his former friends are treating him since the courts unwound his matrimonial knot with the former Helen Kelly. He is said to feel bitterly the humiliation of his position since the publication of his letters to Miss Devos and intends to stay abroad at least long enough to let these things be forgotten.

FRANCE HIS NEW HOME

France is to be his new home. The most elaborate arrangements are now practically completed for Gould to maintain not only a Paris home, but also a country estate at Chantilly.

Gould has already leased a suite in the Rue Victor Hugo. His agents have been engaged for some weeks securing the best shops in Paris to make the new apartments one of the finest bachelor homes in France. It is the country place at Chantilly, however, that is to be his main place of entertainment. For some time negotiations have been under way with Mme. Menier, widow of the famous chocolate maker who astonished the world by purchasing the Canadian Island of Anticosti, to rent her country place. It is not known if these negotiations have been completed as yet, but they were conducted on a ten year basis.

TO GO INTO RACING

Gould intends to go into racing in earnest, although it would be more of a pastime than a business project. One of his trainers has been studying the entire French racing system and putting all possible information about likely horses which may run next year under Gould's colors. In addition to what horses may be purchased in France and England it is said that Gould will send abroad some animals which have won fame on the American turf.

CROSS LEAGUE CADETS TO GIVE MILITARY HOP

Great preparations are being made by the members of the Cross League of the City Cadets, for their annual military hop to be given in Maple Hall, February 1.

The hall will be decorated with the National colors and evergreens while novel electrical effects will be furnished.

Five hundred invitations are out. Sergeant Stewart C. Cronin is chairman of the committee of arrangements, assisted by Sergeant J. J. Smith, Sergeant N. Gallagher, Sergeant Harry J. Frazier, Corporal E. K. Smith, and Privates W. E. Schirmer, Leo A. Mitchell, A. E. Rogers.

POWDER FOUND IN SWOPE'S STOMACH

Discovery Lends Mystery to Cause of Millionaire's Sudden Death

WANTED TO GIVE MILLION TO CHARITY

Powder Will Be Analyzed—Prosecuting Attorney Now
in Case

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Jan. 15.—Two startling developments were disclosed in the Swope case today. One was the report by the expert chemists in Chicago that a white powder was found in the stomach of Chrisman Swope. The other was the announcement by John Paxton, executor of the Swope will that on the very day the millionaire died, he was planning to change his will and take $1,000,000 from his relatives and give it to some public benefit of Kansas City.

Every effort has been made by the executors to keep the discovery of the powder a secret. The white stuff has not yet been tested to determine whether it is a poison or not, but the finding of it alone is considered a warrant for the greatest care in the matter.

IS KEPT SECRET.
Dr. Haynes, the Chicago chemist found it. The importance of the discovery appeared to him so that he sent word of it to Paxton without making analysis of it. Following this development all the attorneys who are making the investigation asked the prosecuting attorney's office for a further conference. Paxton, John H. Atwood and Thomas Martin, lawyers for the estate, and Virgil Conkling, prosecuting attorney, this afternoon held a long conference in Paxton's office in Independence.

Colonel Swope had carried around with him the will giving all his estate to relatives, and it was in the pocket of his coat hanging near his bed when he died.

"Three days before his death," said Paxton, "I had a conversation with Mr. Swope in which he said he was dissatisfied with the will he had written. He had written the will himself and there was $1,000,000 of his wealth which he had not provided for in the will."

TOO MUCH ALREADY.
"He said he left enough money to his relatives and did not care to leave them any more. He was in a quandary what to do with that $1,000,000. He was still puzzling over it the day of his death."

The most puzzling case of typhoid in the Swope family, the case in which the source of the disease is hardest to explain, is the case of Miss Lucy Swope, Miss Swope's sister in Europe, when her brother and sisters were taken down with typhoid fever. She started for home immediately and was met in New York by her brother-in-law. Miss Swope did not arrive in Independence until December 18th.

Three days later she became a victim of the epidemic. Ordinarily it takes much longer for the fever to appear after infection. Her fever continued thirteen days. Although it was not so severe an attack as those of her sisters, it left her very weak. She is now entirely out of danger.

ENGINES STAND HARD FIRE TEST

Run Ten Hours Steadily in the Trial of the New Salt Water System

Preparing for such an emergency as a ten-hour fire, a test was made yesterday of two big engines in the new pumping plant of the fire department, in which the engines were made to run steadily for ten hours. The trial began at 11 o'clock yesterday morning, in the presence of Mayor Mott and several other city officials, who expressed themselves as well pleased with the work done.

With the new salt water auxiliary, this city will have the best fire protection in the State, and according to today's tests the engines will be efficient for any fire that could possibly be started.

The tests took place at the pumping station on the west shore of Lake Merritt, under the direction of City Engineer Turner and Assistant Engineer Brown, under whose direction the salt water auxiliary was installed, and the bearings were found to be hardly heated after the tests were completed.

A test of the height to which a stream can be pumped by these engines will be made in the near future. One of the witnesses at yesterday's tests has estimated that if the tide from the estuary were to be shut off it would take sixty days for the two engines to pump the lake dry.

How Carl W. Mueller Got the Job as Justice of the Peace

AN FRANCISCO, Jan. 15.—There has been an amusing complication over the appointment of Carl W. Mueller as Justice of the Peace in Isadore Golden's place. It was given out some time ago that Mueller was the man, and that the appointment had been secured by Mayor McCarthy.

When the Governor came to town some of the Republican leaders called on him to inquire about this McCarthy appointment. They didn't know Mueller.

"Why, these stories in the papers are all wrong," said the Governor. "I haven't promised Mayor McCarthy the appointment. I didn't even know he had a candidate. On December 3d at Watsonville I promised that place to Lieutenant Governor Porter, who hasn't asked a favor in a long time. I've got his name in my office now, and though I can't recall it, I'm going to appoint him whenever Justice Golden's resignation reaches me."

So the Republican leaders went out and proclaimed that Mueller wasn't the man at all and other candidates had their hopes revived. But when the appointment was made Mueller got the place and those leaders looked foolish.

The fact was, that when the Governor got to Sacramento and looked up Warren Porter's letter he found he had recommended Mueller. Porter's man and McCarthy's man were the same.

But there is a political camino real between the seeming extremes of this mix-up. John D. Mackenzie is in the very closest political touch with Lieutenant Governor Porter. Mackenzie is State Labor Commissioner. That brings him into the very closest touch with Mayor McCarthy. And so it was that McCarthy's friend, Carl W. Mueller, got a political job in San Francisco through the influence and persuasion of Warren R. Porter of Watsonville. So runs the politicians' tale.

A Bad Beginning Makes a — ?

The Morris people began badly in San Francisco, even though they opened with wondrous Harry Lauder. I mean they began badly because Lauder's show was wretchedly managed, and the kicks that have gone up and down about the way ushers robbed the patrons of Dreamland rink have done the new vaudeville people no good.

"It was just like the old prizefight days," said one regular theater-goer, voicing the complaints of many. "If you got your seat at all you very likely had to fight for it. Apparently the ushers took tips and planted people wherever they chose to put them."

As the Morris people are just building a new vaudeville theater back of the Orpheum to go into sharp competition with the old favorite vaudeville house, they cannot afford to lose any tricks in the game or to get a bad start. And they can't always expect to have a Harry Lauder to fill even a barn like Dreamland rink.

Not Up to the Occasion

And the Columbia didn't score anything with its opening, which was a very tame affair except for the wonderful gowning of the women who attended. The new theater is perhaps a trifle over-gorgeous in decoration, but it is a fine and comfortable house for all that—a theater worthy of any city.

But why couldn't the management have done a little something more for the opening night? I understand, of course, that Crane and the Ade comedy opened the house because the theater happened to be ready just at that time—and the comedy is fairly good, and Crane and Miss Dale more than fairly good.

But it seemed as if we might at least have had an augmented orchestra, and how would a single Sembrich solo have gone for a bon bouche? As it was we had a few remarks from Melville Marx, who draped the Cupids in the entrance, and a rambling talk from the Mayor. The occasion deserved more.

Olga's Most Interested Spectators

Some people have suggested that Olga Nethersole would have made a more attractive figure to open the Columbia than Crane. Olga used to be known by the ecstasy of her stage kisses. Now she has a sort of socialistic play.

But I am minded of her by a thought of the way in which she held a great crowd of spectators spell-bound during her last tour of the coast a year or so ago. It was in Sacramento, and in the morning, at the railroad yards, the bosses wondered what had become of all their men. They found a great crowd gathered—and joined the crowd.

Miss Nethersole looked out of her private car window at this throng—a silent, intent throng, held by a magic spell.

Then she suddenly drew down her blind. She had been taking her morning bath, not thinking there were eyes to look through car windows in railroad yards.

No Jobs for Orators

"See here, young man, if you want to get a job in politics you'd better cut out that oratory!"

So said a grizzled old politician to John McNab of Ukiah, who has been much touted as a likely successor to United States District Attorney Robert T. Devlin. Then the old fellow went on to explain to the younger man:

"Look back over the list and tell me where an orator in California ever got anything worth while. Did Tom Fitch get anything good? What did they ever give General W. H. L. Barnes for all his eloquence? Is anybody sitting up nights to find a fat cut of the political pie for George Knight or Sam Shortridge? It's the same as far back as Colonel E. D. Baker—the early days when oratory counted.

"Now, I'll tell you why the orators don't get anything: The bosses know how to control them without giving them pie. All they have to do to keep an orator in line is to let him make speeches. The hearing of his own voice is his only reward. So don't make a fool of yourself and get the oratory habit if you ever expect to get anything in politics."

Stork Hovers Over Spreckels Millions

All the internecine warfare over the millions of the estate of the late Claus Spreckels may be scattered by a stork. The hovering of this homely old bird over the home of Mrs. John Ferris of Kingswood, England, daughter of the late sugar king, may do the work. When its visit has been made at the Ferris home and its burden left for this highly delighted matron there will be a new heir for the millions now in charge of Mrs. Claus Spreckels, the widowed custodian and legatee of her late husband's wealth. Close friends of Mrs. Claus Spreckels state that she will leave the bulk of her estate to this new heir.

Will She Publish It?

A short time ago I suggested that some day we would have a social chronicler who would startle people with a book that would be as frank as "My Recollections" by the Countess of Cardigan and Lancastre. Well, just such a book is trembling on the edge of publication and a lot of people who have heard about it are trembling lest there be a revelation of skeletons in closets and a shattering of some society idols.

The author is none other than Mrs. Lillie Hitchcock Coit, and no woman who has graced society since the earliest days is able to handle the subject than this gifted woman. As Lillie Hitchcock she was the liveliest of belles, and many were the stories told of her daring and originality. Then she married Howard Coit, the famous caller of the big stock exchange in the days when fortunes depended on his accuracy and honesty.

She was always a splendid entertainer and her home, "Larkspur," in the upper Napa Valley, was noted for its true Californian hospitality. So she knows it all and has the ability to tell it—and I believe her recollections are really in manuscript.

Who Will Be Director-General?

As I predicted, General M. H. de Young triumphed over his opponents in the Union League Club and was re-elected to the presidency. It was a warm battle and the general had to drum up his friends with his customary energy. But he won with plenty of spare and will go on making the club hum with vigor. It is no longer strictly a Republican club, as Democrats in considerable numbers have been taken in, but it is a very flourishing organization and much of its prosperity is due to the efforts of General De Young.

Now that he has won this skirmish the general is devoting himself to winning a higher honor. He wants to be the director-general of the World's Fair in 1915, and when he wants anything he gets after it with vigor. So we may expect a lot of hustling from this time out, for that fight is going to be a very pretty one. Already there is a lot of wire-pulling for this candidate and the other, and there will be no end of aspirants for the place. It seems that we cannot do anything of that sort without a lot of names being called—and the tongues are already a-wag.

Next to Pure Reading Matter

Competition between our hotels and restaurants is becoming so sharp that all sorts of devices are being resorted to for the drumming up of trade. On the night of the opening of the Columbia Theater men were stationed outside to sell serpentines for the supper frolic at the St. Francis, and that hotel served the supper at a specially attractive price to win the trade of the gay throng. In another direction I heard a strange kick from a society matron. She said:

"Why, we are being used as advertising matter—we of the dancing set. I've just found out that one of our balls given at a hotel was nothing more nor less than pure advertising. It was arranged by people interested in the hotel, who got the ballroom for nothing and the supper for half rates. No wonder we talk about the necessity for greater exclusiveness if we are going to be hawked from hotel to hotel. By and by they will use us to boom a breakfast food or a face bleach, and the papers will have to put 'adv't' after their accounts of the cotillions of the so-called swell set."

Governor Gillett's Position

There has been some criticism of Governor Gillett's failure to make an early announcement that he will or will not be a candidate for re-election. Why this should be I do not understand, except that other candidates and the politically curious generally would like to have their inquisitiveness satisfied. Notwithstanding the eagerness of these individuals the Governor himself is evidently in no hurry and recently expressed a fixed belief that the people of the State are not half as anxious to ascertain whether he is to be a candidate as are a few politicians.

It is six months to the primary and ten months to the election. The electors of the State would not require all that time to make up their minds whether they wish to return the Governor or not, in fact the majority of them, should Gillett decide to run again, would choose their candidate very quickly. The politicians, poor things, may have to wait awhile notwithstanding their present distressful inquisitiveness.

The Governor feels that there is ample time in which to make his announcement. He knows that he now has a great deal of public business to attend to and he does not propose to have his attention diverted by politics and the pulling and hauling to and from different parts of the State that would result should he, by chance, announce at this early day that he will be a candidate to succeed himself.

The situation naturally evolves the questions: "Why should the Governor announce his intention at this time and precipitate a campaign six months in advance of the primary? Will a delay of this announcement in any way diminish the high regard in which Governor Gillett is held by the electors of this State? Would not an early and premature announcement of his candidacy force the Governor into a campaign and divert his efforts from the many duties of his office, which require his undivided attention? What advantage would accrue to either the people or the Governor by an early announcement of his candidacy?"

These and many other questions are pertinent at this time and to again quote the Governor, "The people are not half as anxious to know at this time whether I am to be a candidate for re-election as are a few politicians."

Want a Remount Station

Leading horse breeders of California, acting through the Breeders' Association, are taking action preliminary to urging the Federal government to establish a remount station here for the purpose of collecting and breaking horses for the use of the United States cavalry. There are similar remount stations in Oklahoma and at other points which have proved most advantageous to farmers breeding horses and also created a demand for forage. In times of peace the demand for horses at this station is about 1000 a year. The various commercial bodies are being interested in the proposition and are generally signing a petition to the Federal authorities for the establishing of a remount station in this State.

Political Leagues

The various political leagues with which this community was infested during the last two campaigns are beginning to raise their diminished heads once more and attempt to reorganize for the battle of 1910. The League of Justice is in process of rehabilitating itself. This section of the political machine distinguished itself last fall by raising $30,000 for the Heney fight—the facility with which it induces the confiding citizen to separate himself from his good hard coin being remarkable.

The Municipal League of Independent Republican Clubs, the Lincoln-Roosevelt League, the Good Government League and the Public Welfare Fund, the latter being a newly created money-getting adjunct of the Good Government League, are all in process of preparation for a campaign against previously organized political bodies.

There are indications that the Lincoln-Roosevelt League of the State, and its various tentacles under different names, are acting in harmony and with an understanding with the Democratic State machine, as dominated by Theodore A. Bell, Tom Gibbons, Senator Sanford, Senator Cartwright and others who are striving to secure State control for that organization.

At the recent conference of Bourbons held in this city the manipulators of the Lincoln-Roosevelt League machine were conspicuously busy on the outskirts of the assemblage and apparently had much influence in shaping its proceedings.

It was decided by resolution to hold a Democratic conference at Los Angeles, early in April, for the purpose of getting a consensus of opinion as to desirable candidates to be presented to the electors at the August primary. In short the conference in the southern city will be an ante-primary nominating convention to select a ticket to be submitted to the voters at the preliminary election. It is understood that an attempt will be made at this southern conference to fuse the Democratic machine, the Lincoln-Roosevelt League and all the other anti-organization movements upon a ticket which will contain both Democrats and Republicans and which will be opposed to the regular Republican nominee. This political scheme has been in process of incubation for some months and it is proposed to crack the shell and bring forth the hybrid political bird at Los Angeles next April, under some non-partisan designation.

Characteristics of D. O. Mills

Following the death of D. O. Mills many stories are told of the characteristics of the deceased multi-millionaire and illustrative of a keen grasp of situations by this leader in the financial world. Mr. Mills was in New York on the first morning of the fire of 1906 in San Francisco. When spoken to in relation to the great catastrophe then in progress he replied with calmness and in tones modulated to the low key in which he almost invariably spoke:

"Yes, I have heard of the fire. It has not reached my building yet, but it will. I was just considering the lines upon which I will rebuild it."

While the flames were still raging Mr. Mills dictated a long telegram to Frank Anderson, I. W. Hellman and other leading bankers of this city advising them to pursue a most liberal policy with those who were sufferers from the disaster, for the city surely would be rebuilt. He even outlined at some length the financial policy he recommended.

While Mr. Mills lived the greater part of recent years in New York he always took a deep interest in the welfare of California, he having been for several years a regent and treasurer of the State University as well as associated with several leading financial institutions of this State.

Mayor Mott Heard From

A name that has been gaining in its volume of strength with the electors during the past few weeks in connection with the nomination for Governor of California is Mayor Frank K. Mott of Oakland. The use of Mayor Mott's name in this relation is of course made with the proviso that Governor Gillett decides not to be a candidate for that office himself. But there is no proviso and no condition presented in the general demand that Mayor Mott be given a place on the ticket—possibly that of Lieutenant Governor, the unanimous opinion of Republicans being that Oakland's Mayor would be a tower of strength and make a ticket with the names of Gillett and Mott at its head for Governor and Lieutenant Governor, respectively, invincible with Republicans and other party electors throughout the State.

Tom Nossler Reminiscent

Tom Nossler, the veteran politician, and who has been a familiar figure at political conventions and similar gatherings in this State for over half a century, celebrated his eighty-first birthday last Thursday by inviting his friends throughout California to take a drink and charge it to him.

While Nossler is inclined to be retrospective rather than prospective, recalling incidents of the administrations of Governors John Bigler, J. Neely Johnson, John B. Weller and Milton S. Latham rather than of the present, he is still active and like the old warhorse gets into action at the bugle call for each campaign. In the municipal fight last November Nossler frequented different political headquarters, seemingly unable to keep away from the game. Early in Gillett's administration Tom was given an appointment under the Harbor Commission, but soon retired bemoaning the decadence of politics, he finding that now an appointee is expected to make some pretense, at least, of doing the work to which he is assigned, and that a political job is not always a sinecure. Of course Nossler is now "ferniest the administration."

A New Enterprise

A new enterprise that is prospering in San Francisco is that of supplying steam for heating, domestic and miscellaneous purposes, from a central distributing station. This enterprise, but recently established, is suffering from excess of prosperity.

Heretofore attempts to supply steam to distant points from a central station have failed of success because of the waste of steam resulting from the expansion and contraction of the service pipes, which is about three inches in each 100 feet, and causing the disconnecting of the pipes at the joints. A device is now used by which the pipes are connected with a bellows constructed of copper and opening or closing as the pipes are expanded or contracted by heat and cold. The steam pipes are encased in a "packing" which enables the steam to retain so large a percentage of its heat that a leading restaurant, blocks distant from the central distributing station, uses the steam to boil all the water it uses and also to do much of its cooking.

(By PRESTON C. ADAMS.)

NEW YORK, Jan. 15.—Close to half a billion dollars will be spent this year by American corporations and the United States government on expansions, construction and improvements.

Conservative estimates based upon the public plans of industrial corporations, railroads and the government show sums to be spent for labor and improvement devices which stagger the imagination and far exceed the conception of the ordinary mind.

The investment of Daniel Willard today with the presidency of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad that great corporation advances to the point where the final plans are now ready for the financing of the $25,000,000 worth of bonds, which sum is to be spent by the road in 1910 for construction and equipment. The steel trust will scatter $55,000,000 through the Middle West and South in building new mills and developing ore beds. But while we consider these stupendous sums of private enterprise, we must not overlook the vast expenditures to be made by the government—expenditures which are record-shattering in the realm of finance.

FOR ARMY SUPPLIES.

Ninety millions of dollars will be spent for United States army supplies. $5,000,000 will be spent in construction work upon our fortifications and now President Taft in his message read to Congress urges an appropriation of $60,000,000 for river and harbor improvements and in the extension of irrigation in the West. This does not include the immense sums to be paid out in wages to the army of workmen engaged in digging the Panama canal.

Verily, 1910 will be an epoch-making year—a year of money spending unrivaled in the history of the world. Of course these immeasurable outlays revert in the course of time to the toilers who employ in laying new roads, constructing new railway lines, building bridges and dams and levees and to the iron and steel workers and miners and clothing makers. In fact, the money in the end comes to the pockets of the laborers, no matter in which class of legitimate work they are engaged. As a single institution the government leads in this outpouring of money, but the railroads are running a mighty close second. Benjamin F. Youakum announces on behalf of the Hawley-Youakum syndicate that $10,000,000 will be spent in the southwest alone in 1910 in improving the properties of the combination.

FOR NEW FACTORIES.

The International Harvester Company, whose complete report of earnings is still secret, but known to be $14,000,000 more in 1909 than in 1908, will spend about $5,000,000 in extending their foreign trade and in constructing new factories in the Middle West.

The Wheeling and Lake Erie has been in financial straits for several years and the great amount of money they will raise by new bonds will be spent variously. The Atlantic Coast line is to double track its system from Florida to Washington, D. C. The Harriman lines in the west are planning a big outlay for new rolling stock and expansions. In Texas alone it will be likely that $50,000,000 will be spent, not considering the expenditure at the head of this article. The Pennsylvania Railroad is buying new cars and locomotives and adding new track to their lines in the Allegheny Mountain regions. They are building new freight terminals and the $15,000,000 mentioned herein does not include the hundreds of thousands of dollars being paid out in wages to the workmen employed in depot construction of this corporation.

PLAN BIG OUTLAY.

The San Pedro Railroad was compelled through necessity to plan a pompous outlay in 1910. Storms along the route of the San Pedro, Los Angeles and Salt Lake washed out miles of track. The officials have now planned a new route and construction will be started later in the year on the new lines. The sum of $14,000,000 is considered conservative for the plans in contemplation; before it is finished the work will likely cost $20,000,000.

The Rock Island Railroad, as Wall Street has finished its game of hide and seek, will start its new extension from Mexico through Chihuahua to El Paso. On account of the mountainous section each mile will cost more than a million dollars for construction.

ASPHALT COMPANY FILES
INCORPORATION ARTICLES

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 15.—The Harbor Asphalt Company filed articles of incorporation in the office of the county clerk here today. This action followed the filing of the articles under which the company is incorporated in Virginia with the Secretary of State at Sacramento several days ago, and similar action has been taken in all of the counties of the state. According to the articles filed here, it is the intention of the corporation to bid for municipal street grading contracts in various California cities.

By VANCE THOMPSON.)

PARIS, Jan. 15.—The question is agitating the French courts whether the residence of an ambassador which is not located in his accredited country is ex-territorial or not, and if the ambassador's wife can be considered the same as a "concessionaire." The subject of an act which entitles any creditor to seize and hold the goods of a stranger for non-payment of debt, was brought up by a petition of Mrs. John G. A. Leishman for the cancellation of the order of seizure of 9000 francs worth of lace curtains in her house, number 50 Avenue du Bois, for non-payment, by the dealer who sold them eighteen months ago, is interesting to other creditors of the ambassador.

BOOTMAKER ALSO HAS BILL.
William Blake, a bootmaker of the Rue Malakoff, had a suit in a Paris civil court since June 12, 1907, for about $490 worth of boots furnished the United States Ambassador to Italy and his son, Jack.

"It is hard to believe," said Blake, speaking to your correspondent of the affair, "that an Ambassador of the United States would be a difficult man to collect from, but he is one of the hardest I ever came across. With bootmakers of our class, bills are only rendered yearly, and it is not uncommon to have to wait two years for our money. We stand this from people whom we know will pay, but when we find someone who shows no inclination to pay or offers no explanation why he does not pay we have to go for him, even if he is a United States Ambassador. I have never heard from the Ambassador or his family one word explaining their position. Everytime I call I cannot see them, although I knew them all well before I wanted my money."

BACON PASSES IT ALONG.

"I wrote to your Secretary of State and got a letter in reply signed Robert Bacon, saying he had forwarded my communication to Mr. Leishman. I understand your Government is not able to purchase homes for your ambassadors, but I thought it would at least pay a boot bill if the Ambassador could not afford it. We are very careful here in giving credit to sons of even great men so as to obviate any chance or question, so I always sent the boots ordered to the Ambassador personally, whether for the son or the father."

"Most of the boots were sent to Constantinople. Mr. Leishman commenced dealing with me in 1903 and the only payment I ever had was a check for 831 francs. The balance owed for is 2466 francs."

LIGHTSHIP IN DIRE DISTRESS

Men Lost at Sea and Only Two Women Left on Board Vessel

PENSACOLA, Fla., Jan. 15.—Bringing the report that the keeper of Aransas Key Lightship on the Mexican coast is in distress, there being no one there but one man and two women, the fishing schooner Emma Jane arrived here today and communicated the fact to the Mexican consul.

The master of the schooner reports that on Christmas day he was passing the lightship when he saw distress signals flying. "We put off in a small boat and found two women alone in the lightship who said that three men who attended the light had gone out in a small boat and that all had been drowned," said the captain. "Through his glasses he saw one man still battling for life in the breakers a mile and a half out to sea. The man was nearly dead when the fishermen at the risk of their own lives, rescued him from the breakers."

One man can not handle the light alone, but the schooner was forced to put to sea with the cargo of fish. The light protects vessels from a very dangerous reef and it is feared it will become extinguished.

News Brevities

Lecture on Divorce—Albert D. Ayers, a well known attorney of Reno, Nev., will speak before the Moor Court Association of Alameda county on Tuesday evening. His subject will be "The Divorce Laws of Nevada."

Arrested on Divorce—George Dely, a former race-track follower, arrested a week ago on complaint of fourteen-year-old Mabel Hanson of 1315 Thirteenth avenue, charged him with having dragged her into the back room of an East Oakland theater and keeping her there for four hours, was arraigned yesterday in the police court yesterday and his preliminary examination set for January 24.

Japanese Bank—The Japanese Bank, the local Japanese bank were signed by Judge Ogden yesterday. The institution was closed by the state officials on the ground that it was insolvent, and the directors voted against taking steps to rehabilitate it.

Quarantined—Burglars were quarantined by Judge Harris yesterday quashing the writ of Habeas Corpus and her husband Thomas for $10,000 damages against Dr. A. S. Larkley for prescribing heroins when her husband did not want it.

Young Bandit in Court—Frank Johnson, 19 years old, who robbed Mrs. Harry Baker of $200 in an Oakland street Friday morning, was arraigned in the police court yesterday. His preliminary examination was set for January 20.

PRICE OF SHOES TO AGAIN BE BOOSTED

BOSTON, Jan. 15.—Every indication that the price of shoes will go up was given at the opening of the National Shoe Wholesalers' Association convention today. Price advance was the main topic of discussion. Speaking on the question: "Are we confronted with a radical advance in the price of leather and shoes?" August H. Vogel of Milwaukee said: "We see many reasons why hides are ruling higher today than in former years."

MCCARTHY HOLDS FIRST SESSION WITH EDUCATORS

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 15.—Mayor P. H. McCarthy held his first session this morning with the retiring board of the San Francisco School Teachers' Association. The board consists of Superintendent Roncovieri and Treasurer John T. McDougald, besides the chief executive of the city. McDougald was unable to be present owing to the fact that the treasurer's office is busy counting the millions on deposit in the city's vault, and for that reason no formal business was transacted.

Voting Contest to Select Opening Dance of Kirmess

The executive committee of the Kirmess which is to be held the first week in February in the Piedmont skating pavilion, for the benefit of the Alameda Society for the Prevention of Tuberculosis, announces that a voting contest will be conducted during the big festival to decide which is the most popular dance on the program.

The most popular one as a reward leads the grand march at the opening when the participants march before the audience in their dazzling multi-colored costumes forming the tableau which will show 600 people on the stage.

The voting contest is the big gold mine of the event, as the votes are 10 cents each and the prize is often as one wishes. Every cent thus derived goes to swell the big fund for the relief of tuberculosis patients. Even at this early date mads are canvassing for their several dances.

New Field for Promotion Work

Through the efforts of the Sacramento Valley Development Association, the Southern Pacific Company has agreed to beautify all of its stations between Colfax and the Capital city by painting the buildings and parking the station grounds. The association will endeavor to secure the co-operation of women's clubs and other public bodies in making their respective towns attractive all along the line of the thoroughfares leading from the railroad stations. The railroad companies terminating on the eastern shore of San Francisco bay can do a vast amount of good promotion work for the State encouraging their station-masters all along their lines to beautify the grounds of their respective stations with lawns and flower beds, by offering, as some of the Eastern railroads do, and as all the British railroad companies do, annual prizes for the best kept and most attractive station grounds. As a result, every station-master makes a special effort to excel. Throughout the British Isles, the railroad stations are flanked for long distances along the railroad rights-of-way with flower gardens which through the spring and summer seasons are gorgeous in vari-colored floral wealth, and the rest of the rights of way between stations is cultivated in vegetables which bring in a good revenue to the station-masters and the railroad companies, and the effect is pleasing to the eye of the traveler.

On some of the railroads operating in Southern California a special interest is being taken in beautifying the station grounds. Except in isolated instances, the railroad stations and the rights-of-way of the various lines in Central and Northern California have so far received no attention. Both can, however, be made with comparatively trifling expense wondrously attractive to the eye and a source of financial profit, for the soil is rich and the climate exceptionally favorable for the production of floral and vegetable wealth the year round. The first impressions tourists in California receive are those made at the railroad stations and along the rights-of-way. What would be the effect if every railroad station in the State nestled in a brilliant ever-blooming flower garden, and the spare land within the rights-of-way were cultivated in vegetables and fruits? Scores would seek homes where only one now does in a land displaying such a capacity for luxuriance. If such organizations as the Sacramento Valley Development Association will join hands in producing these results and effects, it will be one of the best pieces of promotion work ever undertaken in this State and every interest in the State will profit from it.

Egypt Exploration Fund.

A letter received by THE TRIBUNE from Dwight Lathrop Elmendorf, honorary secretary of the Egypt Exploration Fund for the United States, makes a strong appeal to the friends of archaeological research for financial aid in carrying on the work of rescuing from the ancient cities and tombs and temples buried in the sands of the deserts of Egypt and the Sudan the relics of a civilization of a high order which flourished in the land of the Pharaohs thousands of years before the Christian era. The Egypt Exploration Fund was organized in 1883 in England and the following year it was established in the United States. From the start the fund received the support of thoughtful scholars in both countries. Lord Cromer is the present president of the fund and Professor Goodwin of Harvard College and Dr. Chas. L. Hutchinson of Chicago are its American vice-presidents.

For a quarter of a century the agents of the fund have been delving industriously into the sand-covered tombs and dead cities lying in the Egyptian desert and recovering priceless antiquities—works of ancient art in gold, bronze and marble—inscriptions carved and painted on stone and papyrus, all of which have shed a clearer light on ancient history than could have been otherwise obtained. The museums of Great Britain and the United States have been enriched by the antiquities recovered which have been distributed unselfishly among them by the fund.

Among the latter papyrus which have been discovered in the ruins of the ancient city of Oxyrhynchus are scraps of what are described as the "New Sayings of Jesus" which it has been determined establish the existence of a new gospel unedited by any apostle, and it is hoped that the explorations which are still in progress will result in the recovery of the whole gospel.

The field of present exploration lies in that part of the Nile which will, within the next two years, be submerged by the reservoir created by the construction of the great dam at Assouan, which is described as the eighth wonder of the world. The dam was completed some years ago. But, although the waters of the Nile are now backed by it 140 miles into Nubia, six thousand laborers are being employed on it buttressing the face with solid masonry twenty-three feet thick and raising it thirty feet higher than it is at present in order to increase its capacity for the irrigation of a larger area of land in Lower Egypt. This will be accomplished within two years and the field in which the exploration fund is operating will be flooded and all the antiquities it contains irretrievably lost to mankind thereafter. The fund, therefore, needs all the money it can get to enable it to utilize the brief time available to the best advantage. Every contribution means the employment of a new spade. Annual membership to either the archaeological survey, which copies inscriptions and wall-drawings, or the Graeco-Roman branch which makes a specialty of rescuing papyrus is $5; life membership, $125; patron subscription, $25. Each carries with it a copy of the annual memoir of the department concerned. All checks are made payable to the Egypt Exploration Fund and should be sent to Mrs. Marie N. Buckman, secretary of the fund, at 527 Tremont street, Boston. Oakland's interest in the invitation to its citizens to subscribe lies in the possibility that liberal subscriptions will bear fruit later in contributions of antiquities to the municipal museum.

Oakland Harbor Appropriations

Evidently the report of Lieutenant Colonel John Biddle, United States Army Engineer in charge of Federal improvements in Oakland harbor, was written and forwarded to the chief engineers of the War Department with an imperfect and erroneous knowledge of the actual conditions and before the bond issue had been favorably acted upon by popular vote. He cannot be charged with any intentional error in his statement of the conditions, because with the imperfect knowledge he possessed when his report was written, he gave the scheme of municipal improvement his heartiest approval and forcefully recommended the granting of the necessary appropriation by Congress. Under the circumstances the Board of River and Harbor Engineers cannot be blamed for their action. It is merely a case of misapprehension of the actual facts by the resident army engineer in charge and, of course, a misunderstanding of the real facts of the case by the revisory United States Engineering Board of Rivers and Harbors.

In a dispatch sent by Mayor Mott to Congressman Knowland he calls special attention to the errors in Colonel Biddle's report which were undoubtedly committed through imperfect knowledge of the city's plans of improvement on the harbor water front, as the report was evidently written before the proposition for the improvement had been submitted to the people, as it represents that only $1,000,000 was to be expended for improvements in the harbor proper and on the shore of the bay, and that the decree of the Federal Appellate Court had granted the city control for only a narrow strip of three hundred feet outside of that occupied by private interests.

The Mayor has made it clear in his dispatch to Knowland that the Federal Appellate Court has granted to the city control of all the water front lying beyond low tide line and that the latter is a considerable distance inside the pier headline and that it has, moreover, obligated itself through the issuance of bonds to spend $2,000,000 in the estuary alone, part of which is to acquire land lying inland of the city's property between Broadway and Myrtle street—a distance of 2750 feet, and that easterly of Broadway to the present city wharf the frontage reverts to the city under the Federal Court decision; that this, after carrying out the proposed municipal improvements, will give the city an unbroken water frontage from Webster street bridge to Myrtle street.

The Mayor has also explained the plan of water front improvements which the city is preparing to carry out and complete within the next twelve months and that their utility depends upon the recommendations of Colonel Biddle for the deepening and the widening of the channel being carried out for the benefit of commerce.

It is gratifying to note that the commercial bodies in San Francisco have joined in urging that the recommendations of Colonel Biddle for appropriations to improve Oakland harbor should be concurred in as an urgent commercial necessity.

The keeper of a blind pig at Los Gatos was recently fined $1 for the offense, which tempts the Watsonville Register to remark that it "looks as if that was much cheaper than taking out a license." Maybe the justice of the peace before whom the culprit was haled has no sympathy with either the licensing of the traffic or the maintenance of a "dry town."

The purchase of the Myers property at the northeast corner of Broadway and Eleventh street by the Security Bank and Trust Company for $150,000, establishes a frontage value to Broadway property at that point of at least $3,000 per front foot, as the lot has Broadway frontage of only fifty feet and a depth on Eleventh street of one hundred feet. Since the Security bank closed the deal, it is said that the property could have been turned over three or four times at a good profit on each turn. Four years ago, it is doubtful whether the lot would have brought $1,000 per front foot, which shows how realty values are moving upward in Oakland.

An Auburn dispatch represents that Japanese have acquired ownership of two thousand acres of highly cultivated land in Placer county and are paying yearly rentals aggregating $24,700 on orchard leaseholds. One thing is noteworthy in connection with their occupation of fruit-growing lands in various parts of the State, namely, that they are making the business pay handsomely where the former white owners signally failed. A notable example is the case of one of the largest, if not the largest vineyard in the Santa Cruz mountains which was bought by a colony of Japanese some years ago. To the previous owner, the place had been a continuous source of expense instead of profit. The Japanese have not only made the property pay handsomely; but they are said to have amassed considerable wealth out of the vineyard since acquiring ownership.

GOUGHAM TO HAVE PERMANENT 'EXPO'

World's Fair in 1913 Will Be Preliminary to Great Industrial Project

NEW YORK, Jan. 15.—Further details of plans for the world's fair, which it is proposed to hold in New York in 1913, have been given out here.

The fair, it is announced, is to be merely a preliminary to a permanent industrial exposition which the founders of the enterprise hope to establish in New York. Through this permanent exposition, promoters say, the products of the leading manufactures of the country will be displayed constantly and it will thus be possible for visitors from foreign lands to get a good idea of the resources and manufactures of any state or section of the Union without going beyond the limits of New York city. It is proposed also to build a permanent midway, which shall be a rival to Coney Island and shall be a large way a national pleasure ground. Option has been obtained on a tract of 500 acres on Staten Island. If the project is successfully launched the next three years will be occupied in erecting a large number of buildings. It is proposed that each state shall erect a permanent building of its own.

REGARDS PLAN AS IMPORTANT

Lewis Nixon Approves Move for Neutralization of Manchurian Road

NEW YORK, Jan. 15.—"I regard Secretary Knox's plan for the neutralization of the Manchurian railways as of tremendous importance," says Lewis Nixon, the best builder, who was in the far East during the Russo-Japanese war and at various times since.

"Our diplomatic history," continued Mr. Nixon, "has not always been one in which we can take great pride. Therefore, it is a great satisfaction to feel that we have a secretary of state that has been able to put Japan on the defensive and lay bare to the world the betrayal of the solemn provisions of the treaty of Portsmouth."

"China, seeing the fruits of the great disinterested Monroe doctrine in South America is looking to an alliance or understanding with the United States that will save her from commercial partition and vassalage. If the people of this country will uphold the hands of the man whose efforts are being devoted to equal trade opportunities in the East we shall have a 'Knox Doctrine' that will lay the foundation of a great foreign commerce in the near future."

ASPHALT COMPANY TO INVADE SAN FRANCISCO

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 15.—The Barber Asphalt Company, a wealthy corporation which controls street paving in many large cities of the country, with headquarters in Washington, D. C., intends to invade the local field, as evidenced by the filing of a copy of their articles of incorporation here today. They are incorporated for $3,900,000.

HARSH CRITICISM FOR DIPLOMATS

Embassy Association Man Says That Service Produces Snobs

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Jan. 15.—"The most loathsome creature in the world is a snob. Many men in our diplomatic service succumb unintentionally to the glamour of the refinement of the world. They develop into snobs, simply because the President must choose from a plutocratic class his representatives in the great cities of Europe."

Thus spoke Frederick Townsend Martin of New York, Vice-President of the American Embassy Association at a meeting of the club last night. Mr. Martin is in the East in an endeavor to arouse interest in behalf of the "homes for Ambassadors" movement. He undertook to point out that the system of the United States of sending to foreign capitals men of wealth only produced snobbery and arrogance.

A. E. Clarence Jones, President of the American Embassy Association who is accompanying Mr. Martin, spoke on the commercial advantages of a government establishment of homes for ambassadors.

STREAM OF MOONSHINE STIRS SECRET SERVICE

DENVER, Jan. 15.—Secret service men are searching for an illicit still in the Medicine Bow mountains near Fort Collins. Revenue officers claim a steady stream of moonshine is circulating among the ranchers of that section and that an empty jug and a half dollar placed in a lonely spot receive the same immediate attention they would in the mountains of North Carolina.

The officers declare that a colony of North Carolina mountaineers who have settled in the Medicine Bow range are operating the still.

CATTLE RUSTLING, IS CHARGE MADE

A Rancher Near Susanville Charges Witnesses at Boyd Trial With Crime

SUSANVILLE, Cal., Jan. 15.—M. F. Barron and Alon Wilkerson were arrested here this week at the completion of the trial of Ash Boyd, at which they were witnesses and both are charged by George Greene of Long Valley with killing and stealing his cattle on the range near Amadeo.

It is claimed they have carried on a systematic traffic in other people's stock for a long time. Sheriff Emerson discovered evidence in the case when he went to arrest Boyd who had fired several bullets into his mother-in-law, Mrs. Barron, who had shot at him. As soon as the men had given their testimony in the shooting case they were arrested.

Twenty Years Ago in Oakland

The First Baptist church celebrates its paying off of the last of its debts it has incurred. The pavement of Broadway from First to Seventh street was accepted by the city officials. It cost $44,000. Captain John T. Wright and his wife return from a year's trip in Europe. Albert Geringer is appointed a bank commissioner. Heavy rain storms cause the postponement of many public entertainments. James Franklin Miller, for thirty-seven years in the San Francisco custom house, dies.

Don't Fail to See the Wonderful Demonstration of MALLEABLE STEEL RANGES

THIS IS THE LAST WEEK.

All Steel Ranges are not alike because they may look alike. The outside appearance of a Range is no guarantee of its cooking qualities—you want to find out how it's built. Better yet, come in this week and we will show you not only how the Malleable Steel Range is built, but how much better by actual test it does your baking and cooking, with a less amount of fuel than any other range on the market.

Our Malleable Steel Ranges cost no more, but are worth at least $25.00 more than any other steel range on the market

They won't CRACK, BREAK, WARP or BUCKLE. Lined throughout with asbestos millboard placed between plates of Bluesville steel. The front, back, sides and bottom are equally protected, thus keeping the heat where you want it insuring an even temperature on all sides of your oven and saving the floor and walls from being scorched.

THE ECONOMICAL SHALLOW FIREBOX saves in a year or so the price a Malleable Range costs. The Malleable Steel pin water back never gets out of order and gives hot water in half the time an ordinary water back will.

Every Convenience such as high warming closets, an extra warming closet under the oven—drop doors. Removable ash box and many other little points that every woman can appreciate are found in this range.

Close shaves would be of more frequent occurrence but for the tender faces of men, men which will not permit shaving often. Heretofore nothing has been said in these columns about possum & new skin discovery in connection with its use after shaving. It is exclusively to its remarkable properties as an exfoliant that it owes its high rank at once and cures the worst cases in a few days. While the application of possum after shaving is one of the minor uses such as for pimples, the complexion etc. shavers will find it a revelation. It does for abrasions, roughness and severe scurfing what does for all manner of skin difficulties—beals and cures in a few hours. It is the only article possessing real anti-septic and curative value that has ever been exploited for this purpose, and will soothe and tone up the skin as no toilet preparation could possibly do.

Shipwreck Mystery May Soon Be Cleared

VICTORIA (B. C., Jan. 15)—News was brought by the steamer Mouna of a possible solution of the mystery of the disappearance of the British bark Silberhorn when on a voyage from Newcastle to Toulouise in 1907. The finding of a life buoy marked "Silberhorn Liverpool" by the steamer on Piteira Island the latter part of November substantiates the conjectures that the vessel was wrecked on the South Pacific. The life buoy was picked up on the beach at Bounty Bay Piteira Island. No other wreck was found. The Silberhorn left Newcastle on June 12, 1907, with a cargo of coal for Toulouise and never reached port.

The Ethics of the Profession

Shall a professional man advertise? The ignorant prejudices which have existed for years against a professional man who advertises his business are rapidly passing away.

It has been a sort of an unwritten law of the profession that to employ the columns of the newspaper was a sin against the sacred ethics of these professions. Fiddlesticks!

The doctors have been trying various advertising schemes for years, and are still working to draw attention to themselves and their work. The old familiar scheme of being called out of a meeting church service or entertainment is an old favorite, and inexpensive. It is still being worked.

The lawyer who is always on tap for an oration on any subject under the sun, and the preacher who chooses lurid subjects for texts and the dentist who frequents lodges and church festivals and makes a generous distribution of his business cards, all are employing left-handed methods of advertising, and show that "the professions" as a whole are only awaiting the leadership of some strong Moses in their ranks who believes in advertising and has the courage of his convictions to lead them into the limelight of newspaper publicity.

When we had made sufficient practical tests of the Alveolar method of putting teeth in the jaws, without plates, to know that this method was going to work a revolution in dentistry—we decided to give our attention the widest publicity possible.

There is only one way of reaching the multitude and that is through the public press, and we decided on that plan.

The dignified (?) way, to be sure, the ethical plan could have been to confine this wonderful method to the few who could afford to pay the big price for such work and keep it dark, but it would have been a selfish plan.

If we could publish some of the grateful letters we have received from patients who have traveled great distances from remote parts of this country to have this wonderful work done you would say we had done a great service to the whole people when we decided to go contrary to the ethics of the profession and advertise the wonders of Alveolar dentistry.

If you have passed snap judgment on us and condemned us because we have had the courage of our convictions give us a fair trial come to our office and we will prove our ability to put teeth in your mouth without a plate or bridge so-called.

Briefly the ALVEOLAR METHOD is as follows:

If anyone is wearing a partial plate or bridge, and has two or more teeth left in either jaw we will supply a full set, without using plates that will be practically as firm as jaw as nature's teeth and as permanent.

We cure loose teeth and make them tight. The work is painless and carries our guarantee of satisfaction. If you can't come to our office at this time, send for Rex Dental Co. book, ALVEOLAR DENTISTRY, which explains the method in detail. We send it with a book of testimonials from patients FREE.

REMEMBER In addition to our Specialty of Alveolar Dentistry (Restoring Lost Teeth) we are experts in every branch of dental work, viz: X-rays, gold and silver fillings, crowns, plate work, correcting irregularities, etc., etc. Specialists in each branch of dentistry at your service.

An excellent program will be rendered for the entertainment of the guests of the young men. Miss Ottilia Paul will render several violin solos, and Miss Emma Appleton, who has just returned from a European trip will give dramatic readings. A dozen other interesting numbers will complete the program.

PLEADS NECESSITY OF UNITY OF JEWS

Rabbi Meyer, in Initial Sermon, Condemns Reformers Who Shatter Old Faith

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 15.—A plea for a reunited Judaism for the finding of an extreme liberal and the orthodox extremists was made this morning by Dr. Martin A. Meyer, the rabbi of Temple Emanu-El, in his inaugural sermon. Dr. Meyer condemned the reformers who have swept aside all the Jewish faith of old.

"We are reformers, but we are not orthodox," declared Dr. Meyer. "We believe in the necessity of Jewish unity. The orthodox Jew is a Jew, and we cannot afford to look down upon him as a man of the past. In a common future we shall find our rest."

Dr. Meyer, under the direction of Cantor J. Starobin, was provided for by the synagogue, which occurred on the temple was profusely decorated with flowers and garlands. The rabbi was introduced to the congregation by the cantor. Dr. Meyer's sermon was a plea for unity and a condemnation of the reformers who have shattered the old faith. He said that the Jewish people are a people of God, and that they must remain united in their faith and their practice. He said that the reformers who have sought to change the Jewish faith are a danger to the Jewish people, and that they must be resisted. He said that the Jewish people must remain united in their faith and their practice, and that they must remain loyal to the old faith of their fathers.

QUITS STREET CLEANING TO BECOME LAWYER

NEW YORK, Jan. 15.—James J. Hogan, former football captain who has been deputy commissioner of street cleaning in New York city for some time, has announced his resignation. On Wednesday he will enter a law firm. Hogan told his boss, Big Bill Edwards, the former Princeton football star, last night that he would not desert him, but that he would leave the city. Hogan's resignation was accepted by the city. Hogan's position as deputy commissioner pays $3,000 a year.

CRITICISM OF A "FAT" STORY

We were criticized for telling fat people to tender seventy-five cents for their Marmola Tablets for a large case of Marmola Tablets. Several writers in saying the use of the word "tender" was incorrect. The tender in such a connection raised the impression that the fat people were being asked to tender money. Now, isn't that odd? A few weeks ago seventy-five cents was tendered to a fat person for a large case of Marmola Tablets. That is, he said he had no Marmola Tablets, whereas he did have seven cases. But the whole case was closed. It being on a Saturday, and he had to go to work to protect his regular customers from the absorbed those seven cases later in the day. His elegant pharmacological adaptation of that famous fashionable fat reducer the Marmola Tablets (1/2 oz. of Marmola Tablets 1/2 oz. of Peppermint Water) is certainly having a remarkable vogue. Millions of cases of tablets are sold yearly and their fatness is disappearing. This is doubtless because of Marmola's Tablets. Fat people (not Marmola) and sure ability to remove ten to sixteen ounces of fat (not flesh) a day, without inconvenience, is the need for exercising or interference with the liver's appetite for good things.

PUBLIC LANDS ARE RESTORED

Investigation Shows That Petroleum Tracts Contain No Oil

The following letter has been received by the register and receiver of the Oakland land office from the Department of the Interior:

I enclose herewith a list of lands embraced in existing petroleum withdrawals which were restored to entry by the department on December 30, 1909 upon report and recommendations of the Geological Survey that field investigations had shown that the lands are not oil lands.

Restored lands upon your tract books the word "restored" will be open to location and disposal under any of the public land laws applicable. Very respectfully,

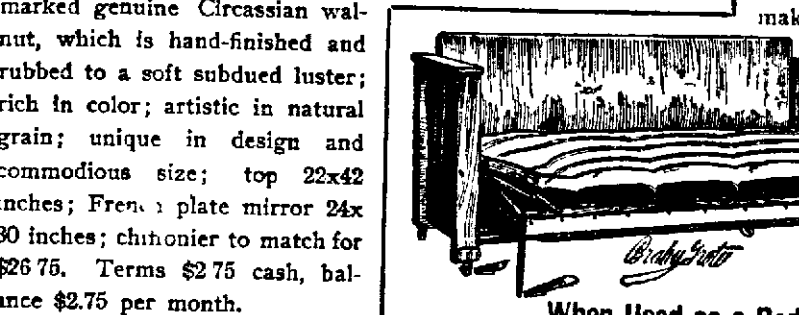

S. V. PROUDFIT, Assistant Commissioner.

Three Chinese Thugs Up-to-Date Robbers

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 15.—Three Chinese thugs, their faces hidden by characteristic black masks and two of them armed with revolvers, held up a man on 15th Avenue in an alley between Stockton and Powell streets in the Chinese section shortly after 9 o'clock last night. The man, a white, was a policeman. A few moments later Yuan reported the occurrence to a policeman and within a half hour the watch was found in a pawn shop a block away, where it had already been disposed of by one of the robbers.

THREE LITTLE CHILDREN ARE BURNED TO DEATH

CHICAGO, Jan. 15.—While their mother Mrs. O. Bachman, 1511 W. 10th St., had gone to work, three little children today and burned to death.

STOP! THINK! IS IT YOUR KIDNEYS?

Beware of those unmistakable warning signs of serious results caused by neglected symptoms of kidney disease.

That same aching back—those sharp, stabbing pains and twitches in groin and limbs—that inflammation, soreness and tenderness of the muscles—those scalding, burning sensations, the inability to retain the urine, sediment from the urine, inflamed bladder and passages, etc.—that "all gone" dragging weariness and despondency—the restlessness, sleeplessness, irritability, nervousness, irregularity of the heart, etc.—all spell danger.

And, friend, there is danger—grave danger—in every one of these symptoms. They almost surely signify deadly uric acid poisoning of your system—and the swift on-coming of some form or another of fatal kidney disease. De Witt's Kidney and Bladder Pills are the perfect curative treatment for uric acid poisoning and all diseased conditions of the Kidneys and Bladder.

You cannot afford to delay too long. Others have done so—and paid the fearful forfeit.

Gossip of the Churches

DONATION MADE BY LATE JOHN S. KENNEDY EXCITES COMMENT BY CHURCHMEN

Fine Tributes Paid to the Memory and the Life Work of the Late Dr. W. R. Richards

(BY D. V. FRANCIS.)

NEW YORK, Jan. 15.—Bishop Greer's New York Diocese has reason to be proud of its record in the matter of contributions to the missionary work of the church for the past year. Of the $22,195.07 contributed up to December 1, under the apportionment plan, nearly one-third, or to be exact $9,336.93 came from the single diocese of New York, which has increased by more than 60 per cent its gifts of last year. This remarkable showing is due primarily to the fact that Trinity Chapel had given up to December 1, $3,233.45 and St. James $3,728.67. The only other parishes that had given $100 or more at that time were Calvary, the Church of the Ascension, St. Mary the Virgin and St. Mary's, Cold Spring.

KENNEDY'S DONATIONS.

Some weeks ago the papers were full of laudatory comments upon the will of the late John S. Kennedy of New York. It was certainly a very inspiring and remarkable document. It will be remembered that more than $15,000,000 was left to Presbyterian missions and other religious work. This fact has stirred up a prominent Roman Catholic newspaper, "Extension," published in Chicago, to give its readers a very outspoken piece of its mind. "Extension" is grieved at the contrast between Mr. Kennedy's gift and the largest amount that has ever been contributed by any individual Roman Catholic in the United States. The paper says: "Though this news was considered worthy of special note by all papers, yet it is not so very extraordinary to hear of wealthy Protestants getting rid of their fortunes, when they no longer need them, in such a manner. The interest aroused in Mr. Kennedy's donations was only because of their magnificent proportions. The fact itself seems to concern Catholics very little. But both the fact and the details indirectly concern us greatly, for it forces us into considering what we do not do."

DEATH OF DONATIONS.

Then, too, a little thought brings out some most extraordinary bits of information. For example, do you ever realize that there has never been, in all the history of the Catholic Church in North America, an even ordinary notable legacy from a wealthy Catholic to the cause of Catholic missions? There have been a few legacies which caused a slight lifting of the eyebrows—because they were unexpected—but we can not now recall a single legacy for Catholic missions, home or foreign, which amounted even to $100,000. Yet, such legacies as these to Protestant missions are quite ordinary. It takes a magnificent gift like John S. Kennedy's to cause any special enthusiasm whatever among Protestant missionary organizations.

"At the present rate of assisting Cathoolic missions in the United States and Canada, it will take up about thirty-five years, with all our societies working together at their present capacity, to even equal the death donation of this one man.—John S. Kennedy—to a single Protestant sect."

DEATH OF DR. RICHARDS.

New York was startled by the announcement of the sudden death of the Rev. William R. Richards, D. D., pastor of the Brick Presbyterian Church, one of the richest churches in the city. The New York Tribune refers to the death of this beloved and distinguished citizen in such outpouring and vigorous terms of appreciation of his life, as the exponent of what a true pastor should be, that I cannot forbear quoting: "The death of the pastor of the Brick Presbyterian Church ended a life of much sweetness and beauty and a public career of more than ordinary usefulness to the community. There are probably other ministers in this city who are better known to the general public, but it may be doubted if there is one who has labored more earnestly or more efficiently to do the real work of the pastor of a numerous, needful and exacting congregation. The church which was his is one of the historic churches of New York, and it is one which has not declined with age, but rather has continued to increase in numbers and influence, in the variety and scope of its activities, and therefore in the demands which it makes upon its pastor's time and strength."

EXAMPLE OF HIS LIFE.

The example of Dr. Richards' life affords what should be a convincing answer to those who are quaveringly inquiring how the churches are to be filled in their time. Here was a preacher who sought no adventitious aids to attract attention, yet who never lacked a great and deeply interested congregation. Here was a pastor who never indulged in exploits outside the limits of pastoral duty, yet who never was distressed by desertions from his parish. Here was a religious teacher who sought no new fantasies of fancy, and who discarded none of the vital and robust doctrines of his belief, and yet who never had occasion to lament the decline of faith or the failure of Christianity to lay hold upon the hearts and lives of men and women. His was a living example of the way in which to make the churches prosperous and Christianity a triumphant force in the world; and it will remain a living and potent example in his death as it was in his life."

PRESBYTERIAN HISTORY.

Speaking of the Presbyterians, another chapter of an interesting bit of history is being made on Fourteenth street, New York City. What is known as the Fourteenth Street Presbyterian Church, the Rev. G. E. Merriam, pastor, is to be sold, and a consolidation effected with the Second Avenue church, where Mr. Hoadley is pastor. The Fourteenth Street Church has been a familiar landmark for many years. It stands at the corner of Second Avenue, where it was built in 1851. Its congregation has been dwindling for many years owing to the entire change in the character of the population surrounding it and the consolidation is to be effected through the efforts of Mr. Merriam, the pastor, who believes that his flock will be better cared for in connection with the Sixth Avenue Church, of which he will be associate pastor. That makes the transaction particularly interesting is the fact that it goes to prove how conditions in New York are constantly changing. When this church was established in 1851 it came about through the consolidation of a church on Bialler street with one on Sixth street. After ten years another church came into the combination and five years later still a fifth was absorbed, thus the present move is the result of a process of elimination and consolidation involving no less than six different places of worship. Very few cities carry on their religious work in the matter of tearing down and consolidating their places of worship in such strenuous fashion.

CHURCHES WILL HOLD BIG RALLY

Laymen and Clergymen Will Gather at the Banquet Board

The annual banquet and rally of the Methodist Episcopal Church Extension Society of Alameda county will be held Tuesday evening in the First Methodist Episcopal Church, Fourteenth and Clay streets. The banquet will be tendered by the ladies of the church and is scheduled to take place at 7 o'clock. Representative laymen of the interdenominational churches will be among the invited guests. Bishop and Mrs. Edwin H. Hughes will occupy the seats of honor. J. Forderer, president of the society, will act as toastmaster. The invocation will be delivered by Rev. J. C. Gillette. Greetings will be extended by Rev. George W. White, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal Church, and Dr. E. D. McCreary of the San Francisco City Church Extension Society. Five-minute speeches will be given by C. C. Lombard, Rev. R. K. Baggett, Rev. A. J. Case and Dr. A. J. Lusk. The exercises at the rally will be presided over by Rev. S. D. Huttschiller, vice-president of the society. Rev. W. V. Case will give the prayer; Rev. J. B. Cheyworth will read from the Scriptures. Dr. Huttschiller will speak on the "Observations of District Superintendent." Dr. Hanson will give a report of the "Annual Budget." Bishop Edwin Hughes will deliver the address of the evening. Vocal numbers will intersperse the program.

The Greatest Oil Field in the World THE NAVAJO OIL COMPANY

Owens 480 Acres of the Choicest Oil Lands in the FAMOUS SAN JUAN OIL FIELD, Southeastern Utah, By Far the Greatest Oil Field Ever Discovered

EIGHTEEN WELLS HAVE BEEN DRILLED IN THIS FIELD TO DATE WITHOUT ONE SINGLE FAILURE. THE FIRST AT A DEPTH OF 220 FEET, PRODUCED BY ACTUAL TEST 800 BARRELS PER DAY. THE OIL IS 38 DEGREES GRAVITY PARAFFINE, BASE WORTH $3 PER BARREL AT THE WELL. IT IS THE BEST REFINING OIL IN THE COUNTRY.

SAN JUAN OIL FIELD

Has been examined by the greatest geologists and oil experts in the world. All agree that it is without question the greatest oil field ever discovered. The field is fifty miles wide by ninety miles in length. Eight oil sands are exposed, aggregating over 300 feet in thickness, thus giving assurance of large and continuous production. The formation is regular and unbroken, free from faults and fractures. Our land is considered one of the choicest holdings in the field. We propose to develop it vigorously by drilling a large number of wells.

This Is Your One Life Time Chance

To get in on the ground floor in a field that is going to make many millionaires. No doubt these statements seem exaggerated, but just read the following articles as to what the prominent experts who have visited, examined and reported on this field think of it.

UTAH OIL FIELDS ARE EXTENSIVE

San Juan Section Is Three Hundred Miles in Length.

DENVER, Colo., Nov. 19.—A. H. Spencer of the London and San Juan Oil Company has just received word from Salt Lake City that the government, through the Department of the Interior, had withdrawn all oil lands from public entry, including everything not located in the San Juan oil fields. These companies, that had made entries previously on their holdings, are same—and have almost a monopoly on the fields.

It is already demonstrated that this belt has seven rich sands within the first 1500 feet in depth, and it is also known that the sedimentary deposits extend downward for not less than 3000 feet, and that gusher possibilities will likely be encountered with greater depth. Wells are producing as high as 600 and 800 barrels daily at this time, and the oil is all of a paraffine base—the highest grade petroleum known.

Mr. Spencer recently heard from Henry G. Demming, one of the most widely known experts of the country. Mr. Demming has ninety-six wells to his credit and no failures checked against him. In coming through the San Juan section and in studying conditions carefully he came to the conclusion that these fields must not be less than 300 miles in length by fifty miles wide.—S. F. Post, 16-20-09.

LARGE CLAIMS FOR OIL FIELDS IN UTAH

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 19.—What gives promise of becoming one of the most extensive and the richest oil fields in the country, if not in the world, lies in southern Utah and has just been visited by some of the best known oil experts, among which is Dr. Landon R. Ellis and T. F. Symons of San Francisco. They spent four days making a thorough examination of the district and say that close to $500,000 has been spent in developing a portion of this territory. They also say there is no more generously responsive and richly blessed oil field in the world than this. The new field is located twenty-four miles from Salt Lake City. Surveys have been made between these points and it has been shown that the grade is persistent and the oil found, being a liquid, it can be piped for the entire distance by gravity without the installation of a pumping plant at any point. The original well was driven to a depth of 285 feet and it is estimated the production of this well will range from 600 to 800 barrels daily. This well was a gusher and established confidence in the new field, which has been emphasized as each new well was driven to results. There are now sixteen wells down among the first sands and not a dry one in this number. There are now five wells being driven, which, when completed, will make a total of twenty-one producing wells.—California Oil World, Bakersfield, October 14, 1909.

SAN JUAN OIL FIELD SCENE OF ACTIVITY

DOLORES, Colo., Nov. 20.—The San Juan oil field, in southeastern Utah has become the scene of great activity. Up to the present date seventeen wells have been drilled, every one proving a success. Several of the wells have a pumping capacity of from six hundred to eight hundred barrels per day. The oil is of a 38 deg. gravity, paraffine base, the best refining oil so far found on the Western part of the continent. It is worth at least $3 per barrel at the well.

The road from Dolores to Goodrich is lined with teams hauling drilling rigs into the field and it is estimated that there will be at least fifty of these rigs set up by spring.

This large field has been examined by geologists and experts from all over the world, as well as by the United States Geological Survey, under the direction of Professor Gregory. The general consensus of opinion is that it is the greatest oil field in the world.

Several Oakland and San Francisco companies are operating in this oil district and are looking forward to a great boom.—Oakland Enquirer, November 30, 1909.

DISTANCE AND WEATHER DELAY OIL OPERATORS

Expect San Juan Field to Produce 20,000 Barrels a Day.

DOLORES, Colo., Sept. 12.—Heavy rains during the summer have delayed development in the San Juan oil field of southeastern Utah. Muddy and swollen streams have interfered with operations in the field, and the haul of 100 miles from Dolores to the field has been slower than ever on account of the wet weather. Consequently, there has been delay in getting new equipment for drilling.

Nevertheless, it is asserted that the work in progress and projected will bring the production of the field up to 20,000 barrels daily within a year and probably by next spring. J. F. Worth of New York City is said to have agreed to put in a pipe line as soon as the daily production reaches 30,000 barrels.

Of the seventeen wells already sunk, nine are heavy producers. The field has no dusters. Several wells now drilling are approaching the Honaker sands, where the largest flows have been struck. Recent analyses of samples taken from the wells already drilled confirm previous statements regarding the quality of the product.

It is not merely a fuel oil proposition. About 55 per cent of the product consists of kerosene, gasoline, kerosene and the lighter lubricating oils. In the next few months the activity in the field will increase greatly. Several well-financed companies have drills on the road and will soon be among the active operators. One thing that is calling attention to the field is its location among the highest known natural wonders. Not far away are the most stupendous natural bridges to be found in the world, and many of the rock formations are of weird or beautiful shapes.—Copied from the Daily Mining Record.

WALSH MAY NOT SETTLE ON NOTE

Convicted Banker May Go to Jail Without Paying $7,121,000

CHICAGO, Jan. 15.—The affairs of John R. Walsh, convicted of misappropriation of the funds of the Chicago National Bank, may not be adjusted as outlined in the plans of the Chicago Clearing House Association and Walsh may go to prison if the Supreme Court holds that he must without settling the $7,121,000 note held by the banks of Chicago.

The report of this possibility developed today when the meeting of representatives of the various interests involved at the office of President James E. Forgan of the First National Bank ended abruptly.

The meeting was adjourned until Monday morning and the conferees had not obtained the signature of the chairman, by which he is expected to surrender all claim to the $14,000,000 securities—representing his railway, coal and quarry properties—deposited when the note was given.

The reason Walsh would not sign the agreement is that representatives of the estate of the late John Smith refused to pay $250,000—their share of the $800,000 assessed against the six guarantors of the estate—unless Walsh writes a clause in the agreement by which the guarantors are to release him from all further liability so far as they are concerned.

This it is said Walsh was unwilling to do. He insisted that he must be promised exemption from any further claims based on the note and that unless such an agreement was reached he would not sign the release of his securities.

The Smith estate representatives were obdurate and persons in touch with the situation feared all negotiations must end.

NEW COMPANY TO AID HOG-RAISING INDUSTRY

ALTURAS, Cal., Jan. 15.—George Reynolds, a prominent stockman of Modoc County, is the prime mover in the organization of a company to be composed of cattle and hog-raisers of this part of the State for the purpose of establishing in Alturas a large meat packing plant. The company proposes to do the butchering and packing of meats here and ship the finished product to the outside world, instead of shipping the live stock.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S SOCIETY ELECTS NEW OFFICERS

The Young People's Society of the German St. Markus Church, Filbert and Seventh streets, elected yesterday its new officers: L. Heininger, president; Miss L. Mueller, vice-president; W. F. Wells, treasurer; Miss E. Albrecht, secretary.

Caruso Caricatures Himself For Mementoes to Friends

CARUSO as he caricatures himself.

Among his other talents Enrico Caruso the great singer is an artist of no small ability. The above drawing, which is a product of his numerous pen is a caricature of himself drawn while he was sojourning in the Alps recently.

Printed on a postcard it came through the Christmas mails to Mrs. Lucie May Hayes of 627 East Eleventh street in this city. On the opposite side it conveys the greetings of the season and the signature of the renowned possessor of the voice of purest melody.

The caricature, while grotesque to a degree, bears a striking likeness to its originator and is one of a series embracing caricatures of most of the crowned and famed heads of Europe, of which he is the originator.

Caruso's fondest joke is the making of pictures of himself which his many friends cherish as keepsakes.

The New Phroplactic Alveolar Method AS PRACTICED BY US
Dental work that is of the reliable and satisfying kind.

The longer one resides in a community so much greater is the opportunity to know of what stuff he is made. If a man is a merchant his reputation for good or ill is gained by his treatment of his patrons. With the professional man, particularly the physician or dentist, his reputation is gained and maintained almost entirely by the results of his work. We have both been practicing dentistry in this and surrounding community for the past ten years and many thousands of patients have been treated. In all our experience we have never in a single instance tried to build up our reputation by casting reflections upon the work of others. We have in all instances followed our work and that alone to be the only standard by which our patients and the public generally were to judge us. If we wish to know how successful we have been we ask any of our patients. If you want to know if we are skillful dentists, if we are in every way reliable, and if our work is of the best and most satisfactory kind, we refer you to any of our hundreds of patients residing right here in our midst. We are and always have been progressive. It may or may not be generally known in accordance with the ethics of the dental profession as well as in medicine, all new discoveries are given to the world by the discoverers gratis, and it is to this unselfish spirit manifested by the members of the profession that the great advances have been made in dental work in recent years. We are ever abreast of the times and every new discovery we quickly adopt if the same has the merit of improving our work or increasing the comfort of the patient. It is by the pursuance of this policy that we have been able to acquire the skill and knowledge that has given us the excellent reputation that we enjoy in this community, particularly among our friends. We are reliable as all who know us will tell you, and if you want to be sure that your dental work is of the highest and most satisfactory kind of any kind you should seek our office and our services.

OUR NEW PHROPLASTIC ALVEOLAR METHOD.
This is a new method of restoring missing teeth without the use of plates. We are making a specialty of introducing this method in this field, and in this as well as in every other branch of dentistry our work is superior in every respect and detail. You need have but two or three teeth left in the jaw to enable us to replace the missing teeth by our new phroplastic alveolar method. Call and see us and we will gladly explain the details of this method and its advantages. YOU SEE US PERSONALLY WHEN CONSULTING US.

When you come to us for consultation or work you meet a pleasant person. You know whom you are being treated. If one of our patients has told you of the high grade work he or she had executed at our office, you can know that you will be treated by the same member of our firm if you so desire. Remember that there is never any charge for consultation or examination. You are not thereby placing yourself under any obligation to have us execute any needed work unless you desire us to. Our charges are always most reasonable, no more than you would be glad and willing to pay for the high-class service we rendered. Come in and talk it over. Phroplastic alveolar method. Loosened teeth made tight.

Oakland Police Judges Are Under Suspicion—Donahue to Investigate

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 15.—General accusations that Police Judges Smith and Samuel and Justices of the Peace Quinn and Geary with the connivance of Prosecuting Attorney Hennessy have orchestrated their official positions to the extension of their private legal practice have reached the grand jury in Oakland in an indirect manner and District Attorney Donahue says that investigation may follow.

It is specifically charged that the following system has been adopted by the jurists in enlarging their clientele: When the case of a client is called, the jurist calls upon those of his fellow magistrates who at once disburse the case. In this way it is claimed the four have built up a large practice, clients banking upon the influence of their counsel.

"I have heard of this indirectly and perhaps will take action if the facts in the case seem to warrant it," announced Donahue today.

"The charge is so preposterous that I shall not dignify it by a reply," said Judge Smith. "It would be difficult indeed to conceive of anything more absurd."

"Stop joking," was the reply of Hennessy when asked for a statement. "I certainly have been in the dark if anything like that has been going on."

"District Attorney Donahue is the only one in a position to discuss that," said Foreman of the Grand Jury Folger yesterday. "While we may have heard of this indirectly any definite action is up to Donahue."

ASSURES BETTER FIRE PROTECTION

Work of Mission Promotion Association Will Lessen Future Losses

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 15.—The Mission Promotion Association has received a report from its committee on water supply and fire protection, a statement showing that unusual progress has been made in securing better protection against fire in the city.

For the protection of the Ingleside, Lakewood, Sunnyside and Excelsior Homestead districts an engine house was secured at San Jose and Ocean avenues during 1908, and in the course of the year the new fire combination chemicals and hose wagons were installed in these quarters as well as in engine company 33, located at Broad and Plymouth avenues, in the Ocean View section.

The Eureka valley and Ashbury Heights district is afforded protection by the firehouse at Ashbury and Carmel streets, for which the committee obtained an appropriation of $17,000.

In the Excelsior Homestead section the committee recommended that a lot be purchased at Brazil avenue, near Athens street, and its recommendation was approved by Fire Chief Shaughnessy. The land has been purchased by the city and a chemical engine will be installed on the site as soon as chemical engine house 13 has been completed. At San Bruno avenue and Silliman streets also a lot has been purchased, and engine house 45 will be built thereon soon as an appropriation is made for the purpose by the board of Supervisors.

STOMACH IS ISSUE IN THE BRITISH ELECTION

Despite Cry of Constitution, There's a Swing to Wages and Food

Conservatives Make Tariff Reform the Cure-All and Promise Pensions

LONDON, Jan. 15.—The electoral hurry-burry race more furiously than ever. Despite the determined efforts of the Liberals to force the fighting on the constitutional question, the contest has degenerated into a more or less direct appeal to the stomach.

The Conservatives, excepting indis-cretely enthusiastic like Lord Curzon, have persistently shirked the question of peers versus the people and have confined themselves to monotonously asserting that tariff reform will cure unemployment, fill the exchequer and cheapen food. There is not even an attempt to prove one of these three assertions, which are demonstrably false.

"BIG THUMPING LIE,"

Mr. Balfour has not even attempted to explain what he means by "tariff reform," what taxes he will impose or what revenues they will yield. Neither has any one explained now the addition of a tax to the price of food

will diminish the cost to the consumer.
To tell a big, thumping lie and stick to it through thick and thin, to evade all demands for explanation and to ignore all obvious objections has been the policy of the opposition from first to last.

Never has a political party appealed to the nation at a general election on more solid issue. No one listening to the speeches would imagine that the destinies of a world-wide empire hung upon the issue. India is never mentioned and with the exception of Germany, no candidate alludes to any foreign country. There is no lofty appeal to national aspirations, it is all a question of the stomach.

BOTH PROMISE PENSIONS.
Both parties promise old-age pensions. The opposition is out-riving the Liberals in proteastions of devotion to this method of providing for the worn-out sephagenarian. The Conservatives who voted against them now pretend they did so because the pensions were not liberal enough and they propose to extend them.

But as they refuse to provide the money to pay them their promises do not amount to much. The cynical observer thus sums up the controversy.

"Those who have got all wish to keep it, those that have nothing wish to get something."

Laurier's emphatic declaration during the debate on the navy bill that Canada is at war whenever Britain is has startled some of us who remember her low emphatically he maintained the opposite doctrine in 1897. Laurier then declared categorically that he was passionately determined to prevent Canada being dragged into the vortex of European politics. If Canada should ever go to war, he said, whether she would take part or stand aside as a neutral. Of course he had to admit that from a standpoint of international law it was theoretically impossible position but he held tenaciously to his contention that if Canada declared her neutrality no foreign foe of England would venture to attack the dominion.

CANADA'S INTERESTING POSE.
The significance of this declaration was much commented on at the time, and, three years later, when at Montreal, I publicly discussed the question whether the policy were persisted in Canada could be regarded as an integral part of the British empire. Laurier has now apparently abandoned his former position.
Logically he could not do otherwise, but this involves a turnabout which, among other things, gives new edge to the Monroe doctrine.

This is all the more serious because Canada is being colonized more rapidly from the United States than from the United Kingdom. In the last fiscal year only 6900 British settlers made homestead entries against 10 500 Americans. These non-British settlers are not likely to be very keen to fight England's wars all around the world. If a Sir Thomas Shuggens calculates, Canada will have 12 500-000 population a decade hence, less than half will be of British blood.
It is to be hoped Laurier has made adequate provision against the catastrophe that might accrue from his new departure.

Thousands Stampede When Monoplane Crashes to Earth

AVIATOR DROPS
FROM CLOUDS,
BUT LIVESAirship Is Wrecked and Spectators Make Mad
Rush for FieldRace of Aeroplanes Against Time Proves Disappointing to Crowd

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 15.—A Bleriot monoplane, dropping suddenly to earth with Edward Miscalot, the French aviator, startled the crowd of 5,000 persons at the close of this afternoon's contests at the Aviation Field. From the grandstand it looked as though the monoplane had turned completely over and there was a rush of spectators to the scene of the accident.

Deputy Sheriffs, striving to stop the stampede, were brushed aside by excited men, who climbed over and under the fence surrounding the field and swarmed about the wrecked machine. It was found that Miscalot had escaped without injury, although he had fallen straight down. Considerable damage was done to the monoplane.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 15.—The Aviation Committee announced tonight that Charles K. Hamilton would attempt tomorrow to break Paulhan's height record of 4,165 feet. Hamilton will use a Curtiss biplane. On Monday Paulhan will endeavor to beat Farman's distance and endurance record of 144 miles in 14 hours 17 minutes and 35 seconds, made at Chalons, France, November 3 last, when he won the Mechlin Cup.

DISAPPOINTING DAY

Heavy rains in the morning and lowering clouds in the afternoon resulted in a very light attendance, and the absence of the usual multitude had its effect upon the aviators, whose achievements during the afternoon were disappointing.

Paulhan, for the first time since the meet began, made a flat failure of one of his undertakings. He opened the afternoon's events with an attempt to go around the course ten times—16.10 miles—at faster speed than has been made here up to the present. It was announced that he had added a new propeller to his machine and that it would be faster than ever before. Consequently there was great disappointment when he dropped to the ground in the second lap after having made the first lap in 2:33 4-5. Yesterday he was able to make a lap without the new propeller in 2:21 1-5.

TIME NOT FAST

Hamilton, in a Curtiss biplane, was able to make the ten laps in the race for speed, but his performance was another disappointment, as his time was far below the Los Angeles track record for the distance—16.10 miles. He covered the ten laps in 2:04 2-5. Curtiss has made the distance during the present meet at 2:45 2-5, and Paulhan in a previous attempt was only five seconds slower than Curtiss.

Hamilton's time by laps was: First lap, 3:11 4-5; second, 2:09 2-5; third, 3:04 1-5; fourth, 3:00 1-5; fifth, 3:11 1-5; sixth, 3:04 1-5; seventh, 3:09 1-5; eighth, 3:00; ninth, 2:57 3-5; tenth, 2:53 3-5. Total time, 30:34 3-5.

OUTLAPS AMERICAN

Just as Paulhan was blamed last Thursday for stirring air currents for his biplane and reducing the support of Curtiss' machine while it was racing in the air, the same accusation is repeated this afternoon. Hamilton's flight. While Hamilton was in flight Paulhan rose behind him, nearly a mile away. As Paulhan's machine was faster than the one used by Hamilton, the Frenchman was able to overtake him by driving his biplane underneath Hamilton's. Proof of Paulhan's interference, it was claimed, was given in the time record. In the fourth lap Hamilton made 2:05. When Paulhan passed him in the fifth lap the time was lowered to 3:11 1-5. In the sixth lap Hamilton was able to recover some of his lost speed, and made a lap 1:45. But his manager claimed that he did not entirely regain his lost speed until the seventh lap, when he made the round in 3:00 1-5.

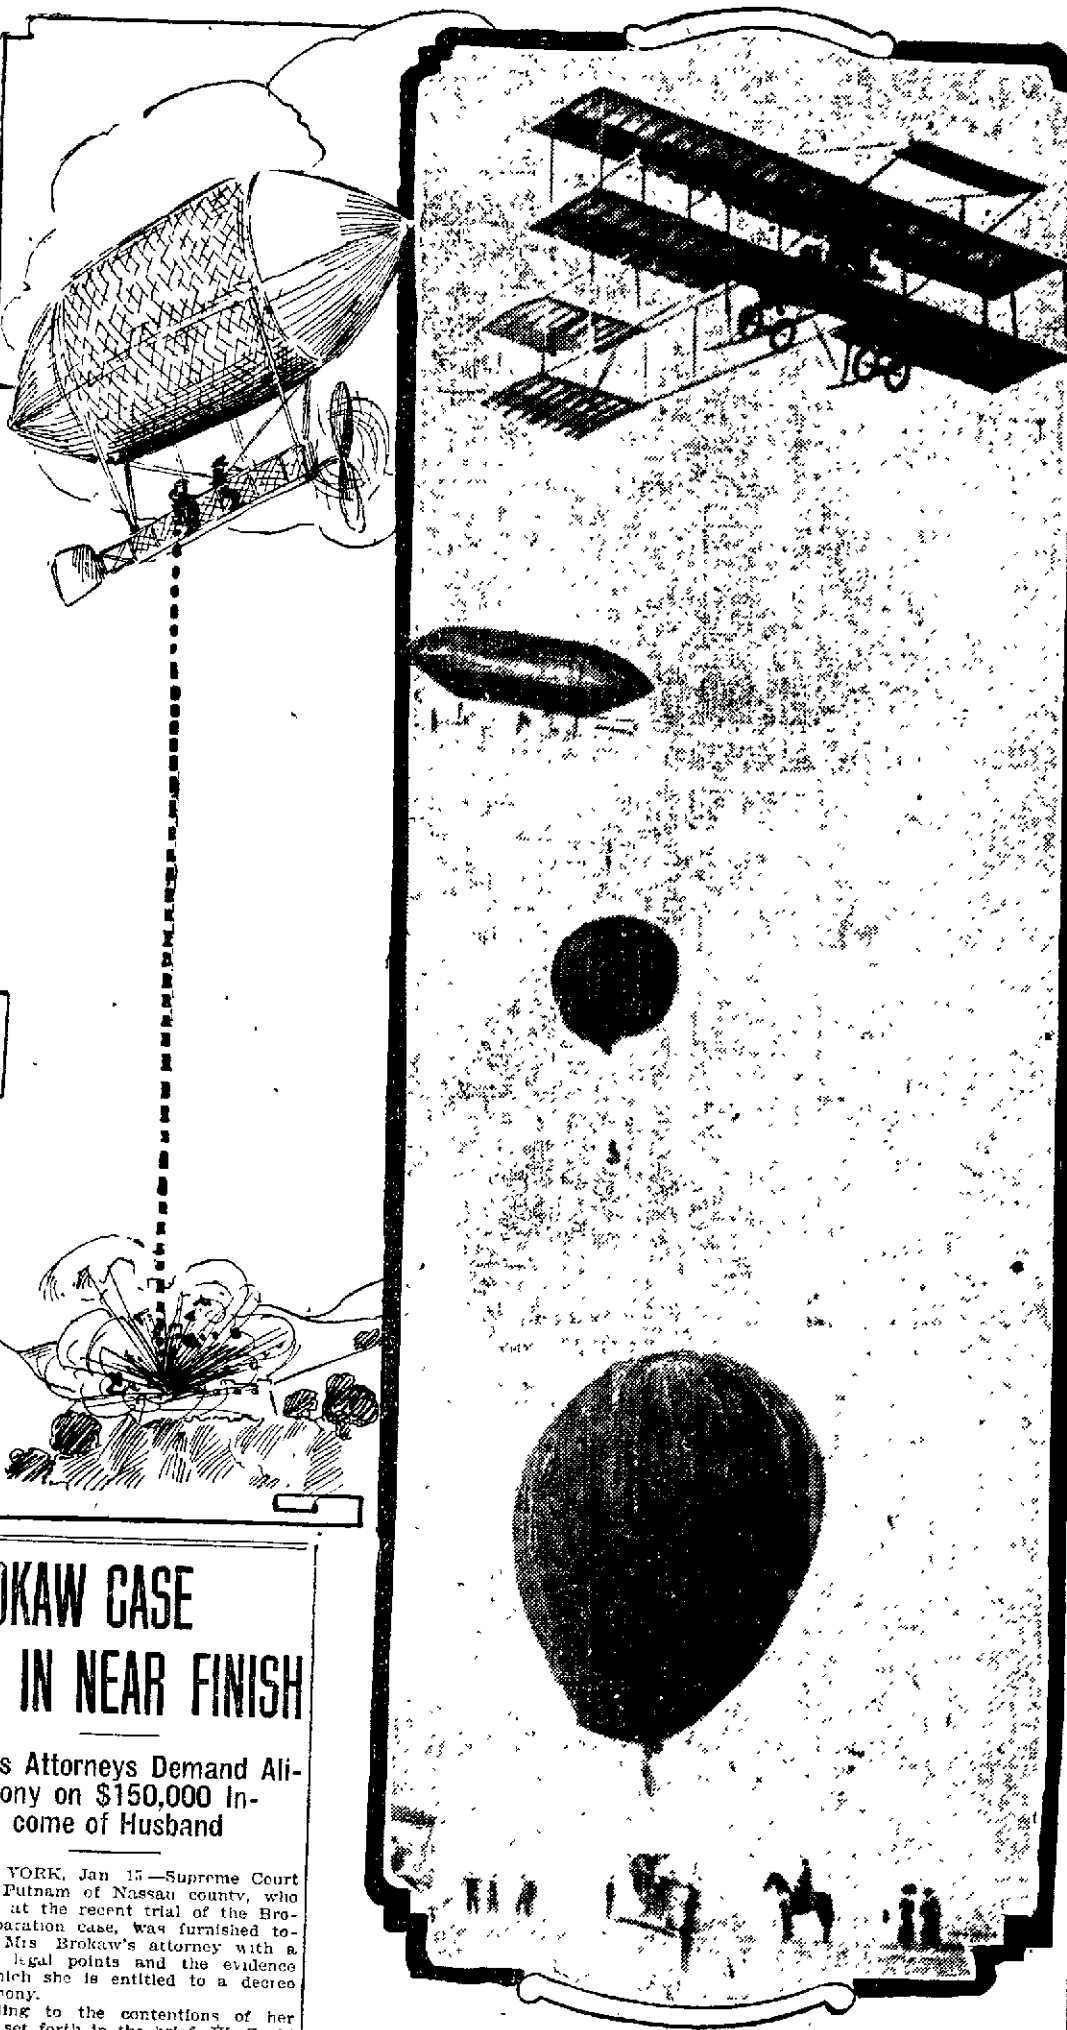

KNABENSHUE IN DIRIGIBLE

Roy Knabenshue, racing against time in a dirigible balloon, cited the course, 1.61 miles, in 5:35. Yesterday he was able to make the distance in 5:10 2-5. Curtiss' time for speed for one lap was 2:19 2-5. This was seven seconds slower than the track record established yesterday—2:12. William Curtis' time for speed was 3:03 2-5. Curtiss tried several flights with slanting additions to his planes, with the idea that they would increase the speed of his machine. The innovation was not a success.

PASSENGER AIRSHIP

BERLIN, Jan. 15.—One of the important undertakings of Germany's indefatigable airship experts yet exploited will be launched in Germany next summer. In July the newest dirigible, the Zeppelin VI, will be sent

The balloon "New York" is hovering close to ground near where Paulhan's smaller biplane is reading on earth. The diagram on the left shows Knabenshue in a dirigible dropping mock explosives over the exhibition grounds.

BROKAW CASE

Wife's Attorneys Demand Alimony on $150,000 Income of Husband

NEW YORK, Jan. 15.—Supreme Court Justice Putnam of Nassau county, who presided at the recent trial of the Brokaw separation case, was furnished with a brief of legal points and the evidence upon which she is entitled to a decree and alimony.

According to the contentions of her counsel, set forth in the brief, W. Gould Brokaw is worth at present at least $1,000,000. His income is estimated at $150,000.

John F. McIntyre, attorney for the defendant, has not yet submitted his brief on the points of law which he believes will justify the court in finding for his client. His brief will present arguments to show that Brokaw's wealth is not in excess of $1,000,000, and his income not over $50,000. The brief will be ready about next Thursday. Justice Putnam's final decision is expected about ten days after the submission of the papers.

Adults Will Attend the Evening Schools

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 15.—An innovation in the educational work of the city will shortly be inaugurated by a series of evening meetings for adults in the public school auditoriums. The first of these will be held next Wednesday evening at the Mission High School. Dozens will deliver an illustrated lecture on "The Panama Canal." Mayor McCarthy and Thomas R. Hanneman, president of the Board of Education, will make addresses. The meeting will be under the direction of the California Club, and Mrs. Edwin B. Baldwin, its president, will preside.

The committee in charge of the affair includes Mrs. Mary W. Kincaid, Dr. Caroline Rosebush, Amy Bowman, Mrs. Louis Hehrz, Mrs. James Crawford, Mrs. Catherine Felton, Dr. R. G. Broderick, Dr. Langley Foster, William P. McCabe, R. I. Wisler, Leo Moberg and Walter MacArthur.

to that city where arrangements are being completed for the erection of a temporary reception shed. Then it is intended to start an airship passenger service between Hamburg and Berlin, with a view to the establishment of regular airship connections, following as closely as possible a fixed time table. Zeppelin VI is large enough to accommodate thirty persons.

Prince Henry, of Prussia, is an influential supporter of the project and it is said that the Hamburg state senate is prepared financially to back it. A permanent airship hall probably will be built next year. The transfer of Zeppelin VI to Hamburg gives Germany for the first time an air station on the shores of the North Sea.

Proprietor of New Southern Hotel Makes This Charge Against Ejected Patron

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 15.—The proprietor of the new Southern Hotel, 484 Sixth street, has notified the police of an attempt to burn down the hotel, which he says was made yesterday when a man who had been ejected, returned, set fire to a bed and jumping from a window, made his escape.

He has furnished the name and a description of the culprit to the authorities, who have every hope of apprehending him. It appears that the culprit violated a rule of the hotel, and was told to leave. No one saw him return, but he was observed to jump from the window, and he had occupied was filled with smoke. The discovery was made in time to put out the blaze without serious damage.

Dr. Littlepage Falls From Electric Car and Fractures Femur Bone

While attempting to alight from a car yesterday afternoon at the corner of Fourteenth street and Twenty-third avenue, Dr. O. B. Littlepage, an aged physician, fell to the pavement, sustaining a severe fracture of the hip, and was removed to the Receiving Hospital. Dr. Smith, who examined him, found that the femur bone at the hip joint was evidently splintered, and directed that the old gentleman be sent to the Central Hospital of Oakland, where the case has been placed in the hands of Dr. Stratton.

Dr. Littlepage, who resides at 1075 Fourteenth street, is 76 years of age, and is troubled with heart disease. He has lived in Oakland for years and has several sons prominent in the business life of San Francisco.

WIFE DESERTER IS SUPPORTED BY AFFINITYMan Charged With Failure to Provide Creates Sensation
in CourtPRODUCES "SOUL-MATE" TO PROVE HE IS POORShe Beams Upon Outraged Spouse While Testifying in Husband's Behalf

BERKELEY, Jan. 15.—Almost every city in the United States has had the experience of having one of its citizens desert his wife and children for an affinity and be-haled into court to provide for the deserted ones, but it remained for this city to have a deserter bring the affinity into court to testify he is too poor to support his wife and child.

The man in the case is Felix Rosenberg, a San Francisco salesman, and the affinity is a handsome young woman going by the name of Miss Nellie Tarply. Rosenberg has a wife and child living in this city and the spouse had him arrested several days ago for failure to provide for a minor child.

AFFINITY TESTIFIES.
Rosenberg has been living across the bay in the United States since he left his wife and child when he appeared before Justice Edgar to answer the charge he brought Miss Tarply with him. Rosenberg told the court he has been unemployed, but has been making every effort to obtain a job.

Then came the surprise and sensation of the day. Miss Tarply took the witness stand and smilingly testified to the truth of his statements. She said his only amusement was going to the theaters and of late she had been supplying the tickets. She further informed the court she had been paying for the meal tickets and likewise the room rent. Apparently out of fear of placing Rosenberg in a bad light, she hastened to add she expected to be reimbursed and that the man had promised to pay her back $20 a month when he got work.

DECISION POSTPONED.
Mrs. Rosenberg did not appear to resent her husband's actions any further than his failure to provide for the child. Miss Tarply also had no sentiment in speech or manner for her being connected with the case. Rosenberg assured the court he would pay his wife $50 a month as soon as he got work.

Justice Edgar finally decided to postpone his decision until February 17th. Rosenberg and his "soul-mate" then took their departure, smiling sweetly on the wife as they passed. She reciprocated with a smile of disdain.

LONSDALE NOW
ANGRY AT COOK

Secretary of Modern Ananias Is the Latest to Give up Faith

COPENHAGEN, Jan. 15.—Walter Lonsdale is the most recent of the former assistants and employees of Dr. Frederick Cook to admit a distrust of the man whose claim to the discovery of the North Pole was rejected by the University of Copenhagen. He estimates that Cook cleared up $50,000 from the exploitation of his Arctic reputation.

Lonsdale was private secretary to United States Minister Egan up to the time of the arrival here of Dr. Cook, with whom he then associated himself in a similar confidential capacity.

He accompanied the explorer to the United States, made the typewritten duplicate of the polar records and brought the data here for examination by the university committee. He has remained loyal to his employer until now, when he says he is beginning to doubt him.

Lonsdale states that he received a letter from Cook under date of December 24th and mailed it to a city in Southern Spain. According to this letter Cook was on the sea from December 14 to December 24 and therefore was not accompanying the expedition.

Immediately after the decision of the examining committee when the letter was written. Since the receipt of this letter Lonsdale says he has heard nothing from Cook though he has addressed several telegrams to him at a point where he thought the explorer could be reached.

News of a death reached Chicago today in a communication from the office of the Mississippi City, making it difficult to believe that the man who was sent with the communication was a living man. A photograph of the dead man was sent with the communication and a confirmation was made by F. A. Eastman, city statistician, father of the deceased.

Continued ill health is supposed to have prompted suicide.

Barrett Eastman was married a little more than a year ago to Mrs. Edith Taylor, a widow, at Grand Rapids, Mich. She is now at the Plaza hotel, prostrated by the tragedy.

Barrett Eastman was well known as one of the most brilliant writers in this city. He held various positions on daily newspapers and established an enviable reputation as a dramatic critic.

Mr. Eastman was married twice. His first wife was Sophronia Harrison, daughter of Carter Harrison, the late mayor of Chicago. The first marriage proved unhappy and a divorce followed.

As a dramatic critic he was widely read and quoted. He numbered among his acquaintances many of the leading players of the Chicago theater and was a frequent contributor to a local newspaper and a local magazine.

BABY LATHAM, who was instantly killed by a horse and wagon yesterday.

The 4-Year-Old Son of Railroad Man Meets Death While at Play

Little Fellow Runs Into the Street and Is Crushed by Dray

While crossing the street in play William Latham, the four-year-old son of William L. Latham, an Oakland railroad man, was run down by a coal wagon at the corner of 10th and Charter streets, and instantly killed.

The child, who resides with his parents at 1512 1-2 9th street, near the street corner where the fatal accident took place, had been riding on the sidewalk in a tricycle, and, leaning the machine against a post, had started to run across the street when the wagon, owned by Jack Rohan, an Oakland coal dealer, and driven by Charles Lewis, his teamster, rapidly turned the corner, and before the driver could bring his horses to a standstill, the little form of the child was beneath the wheels. The baby's head was crushed to a jelly, death, according to Dr. W. H. Richardson, who was hastily summoned by neighbors, resulting immediately. At the direction of the physician the remains were taken to the morgue, and arrangements will be made for the holding of an inquest in a few days.

The child was unusually bright for his age, and was accustomed, according to neighbors, to ride about the streets near his home on a small tricycle which was given to him by his father. No blame is at all ascribed to the driver by the coroner's office, as the child was plainly not looking about him as he crossed the street.

THE ONLY WITNESS.
The only witness of the accident beside the driver of the wagon was Miss Georgina Marenzeller, residing at 1008 Charter street, who was sitting on the front porch of her home when the accident took place. She rushed to the assistance of the driver immediately, and it was from her home that the telephone message summoning Dr. Richardson was sent. On the decision of the physician that the child was dead the body was allowed to lie in the street for a half hour, while the coroner was summoned to the scene of the tragedy.

The statement of Miss Marenzeller solves Lewis, the driver of the wagon, from all blame. "I was sitting on the porch," she stated, "and saw William in the middle of the street, and as he reached the middle I saw him turn toward the corner at a fast trot, and as he pulled on the reins, partially slackened, the speed of the team, the boy, directly in the path of the horse, and the sharp turn made it impossible for the man on the wagon to see the child until almost upon him."

"I rushed to the wagon where the boy lay bleeding, and lifted him from the ground, but he was evidently dead before I touched him, and was bleeding profusely when the doctor came. He told us to leave the body as it was until the arrival of the coroner."

The parents of the child were notified of the accident, and are almost beside themselves with grief. The body is now in the care of Coroner Tisdale, and arrangements will be made tomorrow for a thorough investigation. On the strength of Miss Marenzeller's testimony the coroner's office declined to have Lewis arrested, and he will appear to tell his story at the inquest.

PICKPOCKET IS CAUGHT BY GROWD

Despondent Dramatic Critic and Writer Commits Suicide

CHICAGO, Jan. 15.—Barrett Eastman, dramatic critic and special writer on Chicago newspapers, is dead at 40. Miss Mrs. Eastman had been ill for a long time, went to Boston and returned to Chicago after a brief stay. A few minutes after boarding the train she discovered that her purse was missing and turned to see William, a young man, who was following her, and an effort to get away. He followed and the train, jumping from the car, was around it and across Market street pursued by a crowd.

William was headed for a car on Bluff street hoping to make his escape, and as he passed the square stand William A. Gunst and Company, he threw the purse away from his pursuers, however, and was cornered at Ellis and Market streets just as policeman Farr II and Nelson came up. He was looked at the city prison for grand larceny.

BABY IS KILLED BY A FALL FROM TABLE

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 15.—Gordon Biddell, the 2-year-old baby of George Biddell, 22 Twenty-third avenue, fell from a table in the kitchen of his home on Friday evening and sustained injuries from which he died at Hibernian hospital early today.

Another had placed the child on a table and went to the back yard to pick a flower. The child fell from the table and was killed by a fall from the table.

BUILDINGS WILL OCCUPY PLATEAU

New Santa Clara College to Face Bay Near Mountain View

SANTA CLARA, Jan. 15.—Vice-President Joseph P. Lydon of Santa Clara College today made the first announcement of the plans for the contemplated new Santa Clara College at Loyola, near Mountain View. Architect Albert Pless is now finishing the details, but in a general way the plans call for ten buildings of attractive design, and the material used in construction will be reinforced concrete. The plateau upon which the college will stand, providing the plans are carried out, is 1,800x100 feet in area, and on the 1,800 foot frontage, facing San Francisco bay, will be a line of buildings that will present a noble view to the valley below.

The center of this principal group of structures will be the administration building, three floors and 100 rooms. North of that will be the college chapel, and north of the chapel completing the group at one end, is the south of the administration building will be the library and physics buildings. An esplanade will lead from one building to another along the entire group.

At the rear of the administration building will be laid out the fathers' garden on a much more elaborate scale than the beautiful garden at Santa Clara. On the opposite side of the garden will stand the kitchen and refectory. Two large companion buildings in the rear will be devoted to study halls, classrooms and dormitories.

The students will have individual rooms, accommodations for 200 being provided at the start. The chemistry building will occupy a space considerably removed from the balance of the structures, while the observatory will be located on a promontory to the west of the plateau.

The track, baseball and football grounds, handball and tennis courts will occupy the grounds to the rear of the dormitories and refectory, and gymnasium of the latest and most approved type will be a feature of the equipment for physical training.

TEAMSTER BREAKS HAND WHEN HE STRIKES HORSE

Violation of the law forbidding cruelty to animals brought its own punishment yesterday afternoon when J. Gordon, a teamster, residing at 722 Seventh street, broke several bones in his hand by striking one of the horses in his team over the nose.

The horse, which he had some difficulty in hitching, drew back suddenly while Gordon was arranging its bridle, and in his zeal to chastise the animal the man struck hard enough to inflict the injury. He reported at the Receiving Hospital, where Dr. Smith administered treatment.

MAKES SPENDERS LOOK LIKE PIKERS

South American Millionaire Who Is Tossing Big Tips to Paris Waiters

PARIS, Jan. 15.—A South American millionaire named Ross, by his spectacular entertainments and prodigious money spending here, for some time has made the much-advertised American spenders look like pikers and babies at the game. "He was in Maxim's the other night, giving one of his usual parties, and when the check came, which was one of no mean proportions, he found he had not sufficient money and had not his checkbook to pay it. So he gave the waiter a tip of 500 francs ($100) and said he would come next evening to settle."

Next night Ross came in and paid his bill, then jocularly asked the waiter who was the largest tip he had ever received in his life. The waiter replied, "Five hundred francs, sir."

"Well," said Ross, "here are 500 for you. Now you have a new record to boast of. By the way, who gave you that five hundred francs tip?"

"Without a smile the waiter replied, 'You, sir, last night.'"

Ross pondered a moment, then turning to a friend said, "What wonderful memories these waiters have."

SAYS NEW YORK RIVALS PARIS

Traveler Says Gotham Is More Parisian Than the French Capital

PARIS, Jan. 15.—"New York is becoming more Parisian than Paris itself," said James Clinesmith, who has just returned to Paris after a two months' visit to the American metropolis. "And by Parisian," he continued, "I mean all that is best to make life more pleasant."

"I was amazed at the progress New York has made and at the advance of the cosmopolitan spirit of New York. Nothing can stop New York being the real Paris of the New World."

"The development of the cafe and restaurant life which has been a feature peculiar to France and the French people has grown to such an extent that Paris may look well to its laurels. I was also surprised to see such a large number of Englishmen in New York. And most of them attracted, I found, by the facilities for making money by speculation and they swarm around the tickers, taking flyers every now and then, many of them making big money. They are wild in their praise of the possibilities of money making in America and from the signs of the times I think they are not wrong in their estimate."

SCHOONER IS OFF FOR WRECK OF INDIANA

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 15.—Bound for the scene of the wreck of the steamer Indiana, near Magdalena bay, the schooner Dora Blum sailed today for the purpose of affording her wrecking crew an opportunity to strip the stranded vessel of a large quantity of valuable material. The Indiana went on the rocks at Point Tosca, twenty-two miles south of the entrance of Magdalena bay, on the morning of April 3, 1909, in a fog, while bound from the southern coast to San Francisco, and became a total loss, though all the passengers and the crew, along with much of the cargo, were saved. It will be remembered that Captain J. F. Robinson of the Indiana committed suicide on board the stranded steamer a few days after the wreck.

M. H. Pillsbury, brother of Captain A. F. Pillsbury, the marine surveyor, is in charge of the Dora Blum's expedition, and will be a passenger to the Indiana. It is expected that there is copper and brass worth $24,000 still on the steamer which may be recovered, as well as a quantity of imperishable freight which was left in the hold. It has been frequently reported by passing steamers that the wrecked steamer remains practically intact in the same spot where she stranded.

The isolated position of the Indiana has thus far saved the vessel from pirates, who, had it been possible to reach her, would have not only stripped the vessel of every portable object, but would have tried to carry the bulk away bodily.

Gossip in Washington

$300,000,000 FOR RIVERS AND HARBORS

Present Session of Congress is More Strenuous Than in Rooseveltian Era

ALDRICH CURTLY REFUSES TO DISCUSS RETIREMENT

San Francisco Expects Good Appropriation From Congress for Its Big Fair

U. S. SENATOR ALDRICH, who gets peevish when asked about his proposed retirement.

(BY RALPH M. WHITESIDE.)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—The river and harbor appropriation bill for improvements upon the national streams and harbors, which will be reported to the House early next month, is described by Chairman Alexander of the House committee on rivers and harbors as being "very comfortable." The bill provides upwards of $300,000,000. The amount sought to be carried in bills introduced early in the present session of Congress aggregates $40,194,739, added to which are $15,115,100 sought to be carried in bills that were introduced at the special session that adjourned last August. This total of almost $76,000,000 sought, includes the Tammey bill to appropriate $2,000,000 annually for ten years for improving the Mississippi river, but does not, of course, include the $150,000,000 which Representative Langley proposed to have Congress provide.

There has been a strong disposition to fight everything during the present session that looks like "pork" and this, coupled with punishing the insurgents, has tangled appropriation affairs greatly.

PINCHOT CONTROVERSY.

Since the ousting of Forester Gifford Pinchot I have talked with many Congressmen, principally Westerners, who have a grave situation confronting the national Republican party. Every one mentions the name of ex-President Roosevelt. There has been a great deal of speculation as to whether Mr. Roosevelt will come home by way of the Pacific or the Atlantic coast. The Western statesmen predict in view of things, that Mr. Roosevelt will first touch America in California. The name of Roosevelt is shining upon the horizon with a mightyuster.

STRENUOUS TIMES.

For ramifications and strenuous tactics the present session of Congress beats anything in the Roosevelt regime. In lieu of stalling messages we have department rows, insurgent punishment, labor demands, anti-trust movements, corporate litigation, radical legislation and a few other brands of trouble making things.

The insurgents blossomed forth in all their glory during the so-called Hitchcock expose when Mr. Tammey alleged to have taken a hand in publishing Speaker Cannon's enemies. Representative Hayes of California, who seems to have taken Victor Mordock's place this session as leader of the militant insurgents, declares that the struggle against so-called "Cannonism" will be kept up to the very last day.

ALDRICH'S RETIREMENT.

I have it from unquestioned authority that Senator Aldrich's determination not to retire from active politics was settled by the present insurgent movement. A few weeks ago it was confidently reported that nothing could induce Senator Aldrich to seek another term following the expiration of his present one. Next came his reconciliation. Following this came the announcement that Mr. Aldrich would not leave the Upper House until he had carried to completion his plans for financial legislation.

ANENT LEE'S STATE.

The agitation over the statue of General Lee, to which some Congressmen objected, because it bore the uniform of a Confederate general, made the tiniest break in the big war of the day, but nevertheless among the Southern contingent it was a momentous question. It was reported that certain members of the Virginia delegation would refuse to ask Congress to accept the Lee statue along with a statue of General George Washington. The marbles were pinned in Statuary Hall some time ago. There was no objection to the statue of Washington, but Grand Army Posters over the country wrote to Representatives and Senators protesting against the Government accepting the statue of General Lee.

WORM IN BOX CAUSES A PANIC

Postoffice Clerks in a Frenzy, Fear 'Tis a Real Reptile

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 11.—There was a great commotion among the attaches of the Postoffice in Granite City the other day when Miss Lizzie Voight, the registry clerk, suddenly dropped a small pasteboard box which she had been examining, screamed at the top of her voice and seemed about to act on her womanly prerogative and swoon right then and there. Several of the men armed themselves with brooms and pokers and finally manifested sufficient courage to make an investigation. The more they investigated the less they knew about the cause of the trouble. What they found was a wriggling worm about 4 inches long, as thick as a man's thumb, having a red head and moving about after the fashion of a caterpillar. When every one in the office had made a guess as to what kind of a serpent, animal, bird or what else it was, it was sent to Professor L.

DEADLIEST AMMUNITION.

It fell to the lot of Governor Hughes of New York to furnish the enemies of the proposed income tax with their deadliest ammunition. Governor Hughes fears for State rights and voices trepidation that Congress may make use of the tax on income from whatever source accruing to place a heavy rate on State, city and county bonds. Governor Hughes is still being talked of here.

HITCHCOCK NOT WORRIED.

The expose of the insurgents by which it was made to appear that Postmaster General Hitchcock had betrayed the scheme for President Taft's punishment of the anti-Cannon insurgents, has not worried Mr. Hitchcock at all. The Postmaster General is a cold blooded man and his physiognomy is perfectly built for poker playing. He never betrays his thoughts by expression. As the skirmishing has rumbled around his name he has remained the calmest man in Washington.

NEWLANDS BUSY MAN.

Senator Newlands of Nevada is about the busiest man in the Capital. He is gathering about him recruits for his proposed plan establishing a bureau of fine arts. It seems strange, doesn't it, that a statesman should come out of the sagebrush region with the glad acclaim for art, whereas the Bostonians and Philadelphians have set back merely playing sordid politics. Senator Newlands' bill is designed to place the jurisdiction over all Federal buildings under one official, a director of arts and public buildings. Mr. Newlands was so wrapped up in his plan that he did not even go home during the holiday season.

TO AID THE MASSES.

Speaking of the attitude of the Northwest on conservation former United States Senator John I. Wilson of Seattle, Wash., who has been here on business, says: "We all believe in conservation in Washington. The conservation policy, however, that we believe in is a policy which will benefit the great mass of people, those who labor and toil and not the United States government or corporations. There are various sides to the question and Washington will soon be heard from."

"For instance, what right have those mining corporations to dig gold in Alaska? Who gave them this privilege? The gold there belongs to the people in general, to those in Maine, in Ohio, in Pennsylvania, as well as in every other state. Why should I be compelled to buy my coal from a certain concern at a high rate, when I can take coal from a nearby mine at a much lower cost?"

OAKLAND VISITOR.

Attorney Milton Hamilton of Oakland, Cal., was in Washington on business and took occasion to visit several of the representatives of his State. Mr. Hamilton did not discuss politics; instead he preferred to describe the narrow manner in which San Francisco celebrates New Year's Day. He thinks Frisco can put it all over Washington and New York on New Year's celebrations.

SAN FRANCISCO FAIR.

Congress is expected to be a liberal provider for the Panama-Pacific Exposition which will be held in San Francisco in 1915 to celebrate the opening of the Panama canal. Edward A. Foss of that city, who has been in Washington for some time, said that the people of California look for the most liberal Federal donation ever made. Mr. Foss, in discussing the affair at the Raleigh Hotel, said: "Such an exposition will give San Francisco an incalculable amount of advertising, and will be an impetus to still greater achievement. The site generally favored for an exposition grounds is the western end of Golden Gate Park, and among the suggestions already made for the fair is that, in place of a midway, pile, or trail there shall be a replica of the canal in the middle of the exposition grounds. It is proposed to build locks, dams, and spillways as they are to be arranged in the Panama canal, together with a reproduction of the great Culebra cut, the Gatun dam, etc. It is believed that such a miniature could be made the one-fourteenth part of the original length and one-fifth of the width."

Not misfit carpets, but made-up remnants
This is an announcement that will interest a good many hundreds of housekeepers who watch for this annual occasion at Jackson's. The aftermath of a big Carpet business for the season leaves a lot of remnants. These we have made up into room-size carpets, and not only have the carpets been marked at about one-third less than if bought by the yard, but we have charged nothing for the making, which means a very great deal, both in convenience and cost to purchaser. Naturally there is great variety in coloring and design and the make of carpets present such a wide range of sizes that practically any room can be fitted as the housekeeper desires.

JUMBLED NAMES BOTHER THE COUNCIL

Duplicates for Cognomens of the Streets in Annexed Districts

RED LIGHT SIGNALS FOR THE PATROLMEN

Chief Will Try Novel Means of Communicating With His Men

The City Council has a job set out before it in disentangling the mass of duplicate street names which have been discovered by Captain of Police Lynch to exist in profusion in the annexed district.

Upon Captain Lynch has devolved the duty of arranging the patrols and police beats in the new section of Oakland, and for several weeks past he has had maps and data glaring at him from the office walls and piled up on his desk in the effort of performing the task assigned to him.

He has things down to some sort of regularity and has already installed police boxes in five places in the district, and will have nine more in place before the end of next week.

The police service telegraph will be used temporarily by the fire alarm until that branch is able to get its connections made with the regular city service. One feature of the police signal system in the newer district is to be the adopting of red lights at the top of the masts to which are hung the signal boxes. Lights will be flashed from them when an officer on the beat is wanted to telephone to headquarters for instructions.

MAY EXCEED 25
This will increase the effectiveness of the force on duty in the newer part of the city many fold, and upon its success depends its extension to the older districts of Oakland.

The signal boxes with telephonic connections have been established at Fruitvale avenue and East Fourteenth street, Fruitvale avenue and East Twenty-seventh street, Leavenworth and Franklin avenue, Whittier avenue and the scenic boulevard opposite the Fremont high school, and at Fifty-second and East Fourteenth street.

The remaining nine boxes to be put in next week, will be advantageously placed in Elmhurst, Melrose, and in other parts of Fruitvale.

Temporary prison accommodations have been provided for at the Fruitvale firehouse on Basset avenue and at the old carhouse at Elmhurst. It is designed to also have cells at Melrose.

In order to more fully provide for the protection of the new district an increase of fifteen new members to the police force will be asked of the council. Of this number, ten of the appointees, if the request is granted, will be from among the applicants who are residents of the newer section of the city.

TO PUBLISH LIST.

Captain Lynch is also preparing for publication an alphabetical arranged list of the streets in the new municipal territory giving location and other directions, which will aid the police and fire department in making prompt response in the event of summons being sent for their services.

Captain Lynch declares that the biggest block in the city lies along the scenic boulevard. It is 4,300 feet long and has anything that Salt Lake City has to offer in that line surpassed.

The work that has been thrown upon the police department as a result of annexation has been tremendous, and a fine showing has already been made in the task of getting things into shape with the limited force at hand.

'HERMIT OF MELROSE' DIES FROM EXPOSURE IN HIS LONELY HUT

MELROSE, Mass., Jan. 15.—The "Hermit of Melrose," George Henry Iveson, an Englishman who lived alone in a small hut on Spain's Hill for nearly thirty years, is dead from exposure to the blizzard which swept New England this week. Iveson was a member of a wealthy English family but left home when a young man because in a fit of temper he had struck and seriously injured his father. He never forgave himself for this act and Iveson was a great student and occupied much of his time in writing. What merit his writings had will never be known for he carefully destroyed all his papers before he died.

Bank Wreckens Are Given Prison Sentence

COLUMBIA, S. C., Jan. 15.—John Y. Garling and James Stoboe Young, president and secretary, respectively, of the defunct Seminoles Securities Company of Columbia, who were last night found guilty of breach of trust were today sentenced to three years and one year respectively at hard labor.

THIEF PICKED LOCK AND STOLE LODGERS' MONEY

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 15.—While Clinton Moore was asleep in his room at the St. Cloud hotel, 355 Ellis street, a thief who picked the lock on his door secured $400 in cash from his trousers pocket. Moore was undisturbed by the entrance of the robber and knew nothing of the commission of the crime until he was awakened by the draft of air caused in his door standing open.

Silva's cabin in May's canyon was burned last Sunday morning. He had left dinner cooking at a cook stove, and when he returned he found his home in flames. In a tin can in the place was $200 in gold and silver coins. After the fire Silva found the can but the coins had been melted together. Somebody told him that the government would redeem the melted money and as a result he has sent it to the mint for recoinage.

SUED FOR DAMAGES FROM BAD ROADS

MARTINEZ, Jan. 15.—J. J. Hoffman, Fred M. Prescott and E. J. Madigan have commenced suit against the individual members of the Contra Costa board of supervisors for $30,000 which they allege is due as the result of injuries sustained last summer when they were hurled over an embankment in the Snake road near this city. The complaint prays for $30,000 damages each. The citizens who have been making a fight for good roads in this county believe the suit is a strong plea for the improvement of the county's thoroughfares.

FORAKER MAKES CALL ON PRESIDENT TAFT

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—Former Senator Joseph Foraker of Ohio made his first call of the present administration at the White House today. As a matter of fact it was the Senator's first call there for a number of years. Mr. Foraker said he called to pay his respects to President Taft and to thank him for having reappointed his brother, Creighton Foraker, as Marshal of New Mexico.

DISEASED MEAT VENDORS JAILED

Tubercular Beef Bought in Marin County Sold to San Francisco Chinese

SAN RAFAEL, Jan. 15.—A. Albert and Edward Fritz were this morning lodged in the San Francisco county jail on the charge of selling tubercular meat in San Francisco. The arrests were made by Deputy Sheriff Baldwin and Sanzola who have been working on the case for the past week and according to those officers the meat was taken to San Francisco from Sausalito each evening on the last 124.

Meat in their possession was examined and found to be badly infected with tuberculosis. It is alleged to have been sold at 512 Davis street, who operates a sausage factory in Chinatown. At one time Albert was a butcher employed at 210 Mission street, while Sanzola was formerly porter in a disreputable house at 561 Pacific street.

RUSHING WORK ON AEROPLANE

Two San Leandro Men Will Soon Be Ready to Take Flights

SAN LEANDRO, Jan. 15.—An aerial speed test in which two local would-be aviators will be the competitors is promised this locality. The aeroplane mania has taken such a strong grip that two sky soaring machines are now in course of construction and others may be started as a result of the continuous agitation of the flying question.

The two rivals in the aviation line are McCarthy, superintendent of the Best Iron Works, and William E. Duffa, 17 years old, a young man who is being backed financially by friends in the construction of an airplane along new lines. Both machines, according to the claims of their inventors, are near completion so there has been rivalry between McCarthy and Duffa, because that work is being rushed night and day on the fivers and it is probable that a contest on the outcome of which a good side bet is made, will be pulled off within the next several weeks.

SAN LEANDRO, Jan. 15.—Gold and silver, melted into one big lump and valued at $400 was shipped to the government mint at Washington yesterday by De Avilla Silva, a rancher Silva asks that the government separate the two metals and after doing so coin it into money and return the newly made shiekels to him.

SUED FOR DAMAGES FROM BAD ROADS

MARTINEZ, Jan. 15.—J. J. Hoffman, Fred M. Prescott and E. J. Madigan have commenced suit against the individual members of the Contra Costa board of supervisors for $30,000 which they allege is due as the result of injuries sustained last summer when they were hurled over an embankment in the Snake road near this city. The complaint prays for $30,000 damages each. The citizens who have been making a fight for good roads in this county believe the suit is a strong plea for the improvement of the county's thoroughfares.

frame supports of his machine, but his friends who are in the young aviator's confidence and who have backed him with their money, say that he will defeat the one being built by McCarthy. The machine they claim is 12x22 feet and despite the small plant space will be able to lift 500 pounds.
